

single edged with a slight curve towards the point, about six inches of which, however, is sharp on both edges, and the word 'Harvey' is imprinted on it, five and a half inches from the top, in Roman capitals in a direction upwards. The whole length of the blade is two feet four inches (when found it had no scabbard or sheath, but I soon had the present one made, and mounted in silver to correspond). As it was lighter and shorter than my own sword, I adopted it and wore it in lieu. Having some business at the 'Séminaire,' where there was a number of American officers, prisoners-of-war of General Arnold's division, I had occasion to be much vexed with myself for having it with me, for the instant they observed it they knew it to have been their General's, and they were very much affected by the recollections that it seemed to bring back to their minds, indeed, several of them wept audibly ! I took care, however, in mercy to the feelings of those ill-fated gentlemen, that whenever I had to go to the Seminary afterwards, to leave the sword behind me."

In 1878 the Marquis of Lorne, the then Governor-General of Canada, purchased the sword from Mr. Thompson's grandson, the late J. T. Harrower. The Marquis then presented it to the representatives of the Livingstone family, of New York, into which Gen. Montgomery had married. It is reputed to be kept for safety in the vaults of Messrs. Tiffany & Co., New York.
