Lieut. Col. Victor W. Odium, commanding the 7th Canadian Battalion, has just been awarded the D.S.O. for gallantry in action. This is not the first time that "Vic" Odium has been mentioned in despatches. As a boy of 17 he served through the South African War, taking part in a great many battles, including that of Paardeburg, where he lay all day behind a dead Highlander firing at Cronje's men. Odium is one of the youngest commanding officers now serving at the front, being now but 34 years of age. Before going overseas, he was managing editor of the Vancouver Daily World. Odium was born at Woodstock, Ont., educated at the Woodstock Collegiate Institute and Victoria College, Toronto.

GERMANS GOT KNOWLEDGE OF COMING ATTACK

Russian Drive in Galicia and Bessarabia Whispered About. MUSCOVITES "CAME BACK" QUICKLY. Result of Present Movement Cannot Yet Be Ascertained.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Jan. 10.—The Times Petrograd correspondent who is visiting Russian headquarters, says he learns that the Russian blow in Galicia and Bessarabia was planned with great secrecy as a strategic means for helping the Entente allies in the Balkans, but that as in previous movements of the same kind, the Germans got wind of it and began immediately to withdraw their troops from the Danube. "The recent conference in Sofia, in which Field Marshal Von Mackensen urged the Bulgarians to continue their march on Saloniki," says the correspondent, "should be interpreted in the light of this withdrawal. The Bulgarians would pursue the adventure once Von Mackensen's troops were gone, but they were obliged to withhold them as the Russian offensive could not be gained."

The correspondent pays tribute to the remarkable recuperative power the Russians have displayed in the formation of the magnificent force now assembled along the Austro-German front. "They are," he says, "well supplied with ammunition, in contrast to a position a year ago when they were reduced to one shell per day per gun."

It would be premature, the correspondent adds, to draw hard and fast conclusions on the result of the recent movement, and many a faint and parry is likely to be witnessed between the Generals Ludendorff and Von Mackensen and Archduke Joseph Ferdinand, and come to decisive blows.

A slight frost, the correspondent concludes, has improved the roads without entrenching operations, and the Russians are capturing line after line of Teutonic trenches.

Upwards of one hundred leading temperance men of Brant County assembled in the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday afternoon last to organize a campaign for circulating petitions praying the Ontario Legislature for Provincial prohibition, and an enthusiastic meeting was the result.
