Lost-On town line between Dover and Chatham, on Saturday, a hand satchell, containing a purse with money and two pair of gloves, and a pair of glasses. The finder will be rewarded by leaving it at The Planet office ,or to Mrs. John Jackson, Chatham township.

Charles Williams, ex-Reeve of Raleigh, says that the farmers in his township are not worrying about the coal famine. They are all going to use natural gas for fuel. George Brown uses gas for both fuel and William H. Williams, Drake Road, also uses gas from his own private well. Charlie says that the whole township is now going to utilize natural gas for fuel and light.

Frank Leslie's popular monthly for November is larger and better than ever before and contains articles from the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Ralph Connor and Anna Katherine Green. The popular price of ten cents is still maintained.

The Actors' Association has lodged complaint with the Ontario Health Authorities against the sanitary and stage condition of the local Grand. The local Health Officer, Dr. Hall. has been notified and improvements will be made to the house.

Detective Rider, of the city staff, sisted by Detective Skirving, of the L. E. & D. R. R., yesterday arrested two young lads on a charge of breaking open a car and stealing therefrom a number of bottles of whiskey. The offense is said to have been committed a week or ten days ago.

William Yeomans, an employee Parks foundry, had his ear badly lacerated this morning. The boiler was being turned over when Mr. Yeomans' helper carelessly let the pry slip and the boiler rolled back. A protusion on the boiler struck Mr. Yeomans, inflicting an ugly wound which required several stitches to draw it together.

The hotel keepers and liquor men held a meeting last evening to consider what steps they would take in opposing the referendum. Their meeting was quietly called and this morning none of the hotel-keepers knew what had been done. Unlike the advocates of temperance, the liquor men have not come out boldly and announced their plan of campaign. It is understood that the hotel-men organized and will endeavor to poll as arge a vote as possible, in order to show that this province doesn't want prohibition. Their endeavor will therefore be to give the referendum as large a defeat as possible

SOFI GOAL

"I don't mind people criticising long as they stick to the truth and know what they're talking about," said Wm. Campbell of J. L. Scott & Co.'s coal office yesterday. "The Banner in its editorial column the other evening spoke of coal at $3.00 a ton at the mine and could not understand the great difference between the price here and there. I don't know what kind of coal it could be at that price. Local dealers this month paid $7.05 a ton on the cars here. With soft coal there is a 25c a ton waste and there's 70c left if the coal sells at $8.00 a ton, to do the unloading and carting.

ANNIVERSARY.

Rev. R. J. Treleaven, a former very opular and much beloved pastor of Park street Methodist church, will preach the anniversary services in his former pastorate to-morrow, Very special music will be rendered by the choir under the very able direction of Miss Ethel Webster. On Monday evening the annual tea will be given from six to eight o'clock. A very choice program of music and addresses will be given

A VALUABLE PAPER. phutian of M. Errol Bouchette the Economic Evolution of the Province of Quebec. La Revue Canadienna for August publishes part of a paper contributed to the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Canada, by M. Errol Bouchette, on the economic evolution of the Province of Quebec. The subject is one which ought to excite a great deal more of interest than it does, especially amongst those who live in the other Canadian provinces and who have not the opportunity of ob-Fren h-Canadians at first bard. There is a tendency outside the province to invest the French-Canadian with a certain number of qualities, of them respectable, most of them carrying the imprint of 'n'eriority, and to leave them there, through years and generations one and th same, unvarying, unprogressive, leaving no permanent mark upon the life of the continent. It is only when one has the good fortune to come across a social study like M. Leon erin's "Habitant," or a protest such as has now been made by M. Bouchette, that he begins to realize, he is not in the way of seeing Fren h Canad ans at work, how much in essentials they resemble other folk, says 'the Toronto Star. We are prone to forget, as M. Bouchette complains, that the first great artisans were of France, and that they, moving abroad, instructed other naions. We see so many classical colleges about, we jump to the conclusion the people they serve have no caracity for affairs, forgetting, or perhaps not laowing, how the habi-ant slaves and saves till he has acmired a full domain for himself and hen another for one of his sons, or that men of the same stock rise to the highest rank in the commercial isfy himself that a great change is in progress. The acquired wealth of numbers of Quebec farmers in almost any section might well astonish those who undertook the inquiry. The railways are producing their effect.

The butter factory is an institution in the land. And it cannot be lorig before the accumulation of capital made by an industrious rural population will begin to count for much in all walks of life. Aiready there may be noted in centres of population like

Montreal and Quebec unnistakable evidences of this forward movement.

Few English-speaking people put themselves out to attend public or semi-public functions east of St.

Lawrence street, and it would probthe fitness of things if he were to be shown, on one of these occasions, an audience filling a vast auditorium rom stage to ceiling, intelligent looking, well dressed both as to men and women, the equal of anything of its kind to be seen elsewhere, and made up exclusively of French-Canadians. Advancement is there, however even if it is so seldom remarked, and everything conduces to the belief that he graces which flow from economic vironment, will ere long be freely and generally recognized as a distingishing part of Montreal's heritage from the chivalrous founders of New France, M. Bouchette entertains no doubts on this score. He and many more about aids to the industrial education of the working classes who come to the towns. He and they are for establishing and maintaining agricultural and technical schools of primary and secondary grades. Such movements sometimes take long to get under way. It will not be surprising, however, if more progress is made along such lines in the present generation than was dreamt of by preceding ones. Quebec is learning that its costs much less to provide an education than to go through life
