We own exclusively the patents on design and construction of these boots. They have all the foot fitting ease of real moccasins, but will hold their shape and will outwear other boots of much heavier construction, for they are all solid leather.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

Accommodating. Her Father—The fact is that I cannot give my daughter a dowry just at present. Suitor—That's all right. I can love her for herself in the meantime.

Well Done. Water—"Steak medium or well done, sir?" Absent-minded Parson—"Well done, that's good and faithful servant."

Professional Cruelty. "The trouble with this tooth," said the dentist, "is that it is a slender instrument, and that the pulp is dying."

Unavailing. Dobbin—I hear that your daughter has married a struggling young man. Jobbins—Well, yes, he did struggle, but he couldn't get away.

His Pet Alibi. C. T. S.—My husband's pet alibi is: "I rang the house for an hour and couldn't get you."

Not Very Complimentary. At the party. He—"Let me think a minute." She—"Can you keep it up so long?"

Practical Man. She (sweetly)—"Why would life be without me, dear?" He—"Much less expensive."

FROM THE PEOPLE

A DEADLY TRAP

To the Editor of The Gleaner, Sir,—I would like to call the attention of the public and the city authorities to the deadly menace that has been allowed to exist for some time near the junction of Queen and Northumberland streets. In tearing away the debris from the old tannery there the city has been left uncovered, and now filled with water, provide a deadly trap for innocent children by day or the unwary traveler by night. Surely the city authorities must be aware of the danger of these pest holes and of the danger that lurks there. It would cost but a small amount to fill up these vats and remove all danger, but it will likely require the death of some innocent victim and a resultant damage suit against the city to awaken the city officials to their duties.

Yours, AN OBSERVER. Fredericton, May 3, 1920.

CROWDING MEN OUT

To the Editor of The Gleaner, Sir,—It seems to me that women have fully demonstrated their ability in the business world, and it is about time now that they should give the young men a chance. Would not special conditions be vastly improved if youths starting out in life were given the chances and wages that now are given to girls?

Has it occurred to other mothers as it has to me to notice how many positions nowadays are open to girls and how few to young men starting out in business? So it happens that almost any girl can get work, but only a few of our boys. How much better it was in the old days when the men knew they had to work to support a wife and family and the girls were and sought the protection of a home and husband. Is it not more natural that the burden of responsibility and support should fall upon the man than upon the woman?

Yours, FAIR PLAY. Milltown, N. B., May 1, 1920.

MIDDLE AGED AND LONELY

To the Editor of The Gleaner, Sir,—Why are so few of the letters in your From the People column written in the interest of middle-aged folk? Is this altogether the "age of youth"? I am a woman of middle age, and some years ago the man to whom I was engaged died. I nearly drove me insane, for I loved him devotedly and my love was returned. Since then it is twenty-three years—I have come to realize that perhaps my love was selfish and that I should have kept to myself like a hermit, as I did. Consequently, I have made few friends.

But surely there are numbers of women and men situated as I am, who long for love and companionship, as I do, for, after all, love is the only thing in life that will bring happiness. For aught I know, I love children, and that way I have been able to overcome some of the awful loneliness that sometimes comes over me. But where could I meet good, companionable people of either sex?

Yours, JUST A WOMAN. Bathurst, N. B., May 1, 1920.

GREED DEPLETING RACE

To the Editor of The Gleaner, Sir,—I am wondering what this country of ours is going to do when the finally wakes up to the conditions that confront folks who want to get married and raise their quota of children, but who scan the "to rent" columns of the newspapers only to see "ads" of apartments for "adults only" and for such exorbitant rents that we pass on to the cheaper localities where we couldn't possibly bring up children.

What would the mothers of yesterday say if confronted with the prices of today? I am not a suffragette, I am simply a mother who has seen the ordinary to bring up a family of ten or twelve? I was one of thirteen; my husband was one of nine. I am 24 and have two sturdy boys, the older four years. Can I see my way clear to bring up even one more? No, sir! Not with prices the way they are, not with landlords refusing me admittance to their abominable flats because I have two children!

How can one afford to be a mother under such conditions? I'm almost inclined to believe being such a crime these days, and I am pondering upon the situation a few years from now when Canada finds her best families fast dwindling to appease the greed of landlords.

I am not a suffragette. I am simply a young mother who, if prices were what they were, would be the neck or reformed, would be the proud possessor of a family somewhat larger than I now anticipate when I reach the age of 50. Our home is to be sold and we have notice to move. But where to? I know many families in a similar dilemma.

Who is to blame for this state of affairs? And when are you Canadians going to rally and put men into our government who think something of all the people's good instead of their personal ambitions or of lining their own pockets? Yours, A MOTHER. Fredericton, May 3, 1920.

WHY NOT EVEN UP

To the Editor of The Gleaner, Sir,—Who, in thunder, wants to walk in and up to his knees sleep in wet tents where rain and snow pour through wear raincoats which act like rivers, and all that made by Canadian profitters? Do you call that tempting? If profitable to whom? The man who stayed at home?

Our country took boys between the ages of 21 and 31. They had to go out and do your and my fighting. While these boys were out fighting many millionaires were created; how many three-quarter millionaires, half-millionaires, quarter-millionaires were also created only the Lord in heaven knows.

While the boys were out fighting at $10 per day shipyard workers of military age were making as high as $80 to $90 per week. The stay at home nine times out of ten got a better job and is today better off than ever before. The soldier boy who did his bit has had, in most cases, to take a position inferior to that previously
