JOHN AND JONATHAN. The following humorous lines, so appro

Ho, brother! I'm a Britisher, A chip of heart of oak,
That wouldn't warp, or swerve, or stir
From what I the ught or spoke—tell you, Brother Jonathan, That you're a Briton too. I know your heart, an honest heart, I read your mind and will, A greybound ever on the start, To run for honour still; And shrewd to scheme a likely plan,

And stout to see it done, tell you, Brother Johnathan, That you and I are one! 'God save the Queen,' del ghts you still, And British Grandlers', The good old strains your heart-strings

thrill
And catch you by the ears.
And we—O hate us if you can,
For we are proud of you;
We like you, Brother Jonathan,

There's nothing foreign in your face, Nor strange upon your tongue, You come not of another race, From baser lineage sprung. No Brother, though away you ran As truant boys will do Yet true it is, young Jonathan, Our fathers father'd you

And 'Yankee Doudle' too.

Well well; and every praise of old, That makes us famous still, ou would be just, and may be bold. To share it if you will—ince England's grory first began, Till just the other day, The half is your's; but johnathan, What made you go away ?

Brother ! could we both be one, And go ahead for good.
While earth to John and Jonathan Yield tribute gratitude

Add but your stripes and golden stars To brave St. George's cross,
And never dream of mutual wars—
To each a mutual loss.
Let us two bless where other ban, And bless where others bate: We'll fix, Lcalculate.

What more? I touch not holier things

Be Jonathan's to us.

ing even two by the very thirsty, will and be given for a glass of brandy, a gallon of which can be purchased for three shillings and even at a less price by the cask. B.t purchasers of casks are not now often found. A curious case happened here a few days ago. A woman wanted to "rais. the wind." She hired an empty on the lake shore went to Port Kent and purchased two gallons of cheap brandy, procured a fidler; and addmitted the dancers and drinkers at a certain price per capita. The continued till toward marning. But they secame so noise and drunk that some pe son informed the Sheriff, who liminediately repaired to the scene. Hadd not, however, reach there until the dance was ove . but he found two men leading a third up the bank. The drunken man was se zel. out in prison, and on the following Monday sclosed these facts. The woman hal aised money enough out of the speculation o take the cars and make her escape from the town. But the best part is vet to totald. The mar who g st druck was compelled to disclose where he got-his liquid the house. She was a smirt womin and made quite a profitable speculation, but the man was awfully as usual of the part her. played in the drama.

The truth is, our law works most gloriously and has more frien le to-day than it ever had before. It has been so promptly. faithfully, judiciously and even pleasantly exected, that scores who voted against it are now its strongest friends. A few weeks ago there were a handred places in this vil. lage where the miserable stuff was sold, and drunken persons were often seen in the streets; but now the scene is changed. It s the opinion of well informed citisens that there are scarcely three places in the whole. town, if any at al', except that authorize! by law, where liquor can be purchased; an.1 a drunkard in the streets is now a rare sight. If the people upon the other side of the Lake would come here and see for themelves how admirably our law works, and how completely it has dried up those fountains whence issued so many streams of crime, degregation, poverty, and ruin, we feel assured that they would buckle on their armour and struggle for just such a law in the Empire State. Once get such a law enacted in your State, and let it be executed as it has been executed here, and it would never be repealed . You might as well attempt to repeal the law against murder or any other crime as repeal such a law as this, especially after the people have seen and felt its beneficial results. If more proof were needed to show how horoughly our law has done its work in this village, it can be easily obtained by speading a few hours in the store of our agent, who is commisioned to sell for medical and mechanical purposes. He is a shrewd man, and, as the sailors eav, has his "weather eve open." It is now a difficult matter to deceive him, for he has studied well the ropes in the ship which he is appointed to sail. Since this law has been indiciosly and yet vicorously executed a undied cases of sickness occur where there was not apparently one before. And it is amusing to listen to the stories and witness the ingenuity of hundreds who come after iquor, but who go away with thirsty stomachs and empty bottles. As a general rule, when strangern call, the agent re-your best brandy in this bottle" said a well Agent for Samuel Moulson's Old Rochester Nursery.
