Thumb Severed.
Harry Salter met with a painful accident while at work in a spring bed and mattress works yesterday afternoon when his right thumb being severed.

A Mean Trick.
Some "clever" individual drove a horse and carriage through a nice bed of tuberous begonias in Victoria Park last night. Mr. Ed. Walsh would like to see the said individual "just for a minute."

Temporarily Deranged.
Mrs. Hannah Varley, of Marine City, Mich., a woman 75 years of age, traveling to her home after a visit to friends in Maine, became temporarily deranged on Saturday evening and got off the trains here by mistake. She was found wandering about the streets and was placed in jail. Yesterday she had recovered sufficiently to be sent on to her home.

Climbed the Wall.
Robert Colby, of Biddulph, one of the prisoners at the jail, who was committed on a charge of insanity and was awaiting his transfer to the Asylum at Orillia, climbed up a water pipe yesterday morning and was found walking on the top of the wall, between the men's quarters and the women's. The top is covered with broken glass and in climbing up Colby's hands were badly cut.

Bad Boys.
A "gang" of bad acting boys are causing annoyance and loss to residents in the north end sections. They hang around the lanes, and when opportunity occurs rob the adjoining gardens of fruit and vegetables—anything to eat that can be "lifted." Numerous complaints are being made and the chief of police will be requested to put a stop to the actions of the "gang."

Number One Committee.
Ald. Beattie and Ald. Parsons were the only aldermen present at the meeting of No. 1 committee yesterday afternoon. There was no business other than passing the accounts, which yesterday amounted to $20,475.46, and awarding the contract for repairs to the East End Hall to T. L. Partridge for $3.75. The monthly report of Police Court Clerk Moule was sent to the council.

Vacancy Filled.

churches at Dorchester and Crumlin, rendered vacant by the death last April, of Rev. Mr. Orr, their former pastor. In both places the election resulted in favor of Rev. John Burnett, B. A., of Molesworth, by a large majority of votes, the minority afterwards unanimously concurring.

Charles-Potter.
The wedding took place in St. George's Church, West London, on Monday, of Miss Emma Potter, of Brantford, and Rev. A. M. Charles, rector of Milverton, formerly of Huron College. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. B. Saxe, and Mrs. Charles left immediately for Milverton, where they will reside.

Death of Birchall's Father-in-Law.
Late English newspapers announce the death of David Stevenson, late of the London and North Western Railway, who passed away at his Hampstead residence in his 88th year. The deceased was the father of Mrs. J. R. Birchall, wife of the man who was hanged in Woodstock on Feb. 17, 1860, for the murder of Reginald Benwell. In that year Mr. Stevenson retired from active service. He had then a record extending over 33 years.

Johnston-Parke.
At St. Stephen's Church, Toronto, by the Rev. J. S. Broghill, Margaret B. F. Parke, daughter of the late E. Jones Park, Q.C., London, Ont., to George Sloan Johnston, manager of the Bank of Toronto, Queen and Parliament street branch.

Death of Mrs. Main.
The death occurred on Tuesday evening, the 3rd inst., at her residence, 10 Ridout street, South London, of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Main, widow of Charles M. Main. Mrs. Main had been critically ill for some weeks, and latterly the news of her death was not unexpected. The deceased lady, who was a daughter of the late Captain P. Hennessy, who came to London with H. M. Twain, 12th Regiment of Foot, was a daughter of a very early age, and was well known throughout this locality. Her many friends will receive the news of her death with great regret. Two daughters, Mrs. G. P. Collyer, of South London, and Mrs. J. C. Kennedy, of Vanda, Saskatchewan, and a son, Mr. G. E. Main, of this city, and Mr. G. E. Main, of Hamilton, survive their mother. The funeral, which will be private, is to be held on Thursday afternoon.

JENKINS TOLD STORY

Q.—Were there any cross words at the woodshed? A.—No.
Q.—Did you hear him swear at her? A.—No.
Q.—Did he seem angry? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did he say he would not get the washing machine? A.—No.
Q.—What did he say? A.—He would go away with a load of oats in the afternoon and get it.
Q.—Where were the horses? Were they in the same field with the cows? A.—No, they were on the west side of the barn.
Q.—You opened the gate to let them through? A.—Yes.

Another Son Testifies.
Louis Jenkins, a younger brother, was next called, and said he was 9 years old.
Q.—Were you helping your father and brother repair the line fence between your place and Mr. Sherbrooke's? A.—Yes.
Q.—Were there any pumping done? A.—No, we were drinking for ourselves.
Q.—Where were the cattle? A.—I don't know.
Q.—Then you went to the house? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did you see your mother? A.—Yes.
Q.—Where? A.—In the kitchen.
Q.—Did your father go in the house? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did he speak to her or she to him? A.—No.
Q.—Did she complain of anything? A.—Only about a washing machine.
Q.—Nothing else? A.—About there being no cross.

Q.—What did he say? A.—That he would go in and get them that day.
Q.—Was he cross? A.—No.
Q.—Did you go to the barn with him? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did he say anything? A.—No.
Q.—Who went and opened the fence? A.—I don't know.
Q.—Where did your father go? A.—I don't know.
Q.—Were you with your brother when your father called? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did you water the stallion that morning? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did you fasten the door? A.—Yes.

Q.—How? A.—Hooked the chain and fastened the strap.
Q.—That was after your father had fed him? A.—Yes.
Q.—You left the stallion out? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did the stallion ever get out before? A.—Yes.
Q.—How? A.—The door was unlocked.

Q.—You are sure you fastened it properly? A.—Yes.
Q.—When did your mother come out with the cows? A.—When we were over at the trough.
Q.—Did you see the stallion out? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did you think your father let him out? A.—Yes.

The Daughter's Evidence.
Miss Annie Jenkins was next called, and said she was at home last Friday morning.

Q.—Was there any dispute between your father and mother? A.—Yes, there was a quarrel.
Q.—About what? A.—Because father would not get groceries for the house.
Q.—Before or after breakfast? A.—Before.

Q.—Was there anything else she wanted? A.—A washing machine.
Q.—Who was angry? A.—Mother. He said he would go to town and get a washing machine.
Q.—Did he come back after going to town? A.—Yes, he came back and said he would fix up the fence and then go to town.

Q.—What did your mother say? A.—All right.
Q.—Did you see your father after he came back from fixing the fence? A.—Yes.
Q.—Where were you? A.—I was helping mother clean the milk cans.

Q.—Did anyone go for a castor oil bottle? A.—I went first and then he went.
Q.—Did you see him when he came back? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did your mother go? A.—Round to the south of the barn to empty the whey at the pig pen.
Q.—Where did you go? A.—I stayed there till she came back. She told me to go to the house, and went around the barn with the last pail of whey.

Q.—Why were you asked to go to the house? A.—To get the dinner.
Q.—Did you see her any more? A.—Yes, she went around to the barnyard again with a pail of water.

Q.—Who would she get the water? A.—From the driveway pump.
Q.—Did you see your father? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you know where he was? A.—I thought he was around there some place.
Q.—What did you do? A.—I went on getting the dinner until Louis called me.

Q.—How long before had you seen your father? A.—I didn't see him after he went to the drive shed.
Q.—Were your mother and father in the house after he came back from repairing the fence? A.—Yes; after he brought the team.
Q.—Had you been to the stable? A.—No.

James Ardell.
James Ardell on Friday morning last heard loud talk over at Jenkins' about 11:30. Witness could not understand the language, but could tell it was a man and could see him just outside the house, walking toward the barn. Witness had heard loud talking on several occasions and took it to be Mr. Jenkins' voice. Some time ago there was a difference between Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins and she went away for a time, said witness.

Q.—Had Mrs. Jenkins been at your house a few days before her death? A.—Yes.

William McNaughton.
Mr. William McNaughton stated that when he arrived at the stable Mr. Morrow was there, and Mrs. Jenkins' body was up in the stall. Mr. Jenkins did not say anything about how the accident occurred. Witness did not see any eggshells. There was a lot of chaff in Mrs. Jenkins' stall.

Mrs. Wm. Ardell.
Mrs. William Ardell said she went over to the Jenkins' home after Annie came over and told her her mother was hurt. Mrs. Jenkins was not dead.

Witness asked him how it happened and she thought he said, "Pa did it." Q.—Have you any doubt in your mind about that statement? A.—I couldn't be sure, as the boy was crying and I was excited.

Witness had heard loud talk about 11 o'clock. It was a man's voice, but witness could not hear what was said. Mr. Jenkins and Charlie were standing near the drive shed. Witness had heard similar sounds on other occasions.

Inquest Adjourned.
The coroner called Mrs. Sherbrooke who lives on a lot adjoining the Jenkins' home. She, however, was not in the hall and as it was close to mid-

Q.—Did you help milk? A.—Yes.
Q.—Who milked? A.—Mother and I.
Q.—Did your father help? A.—No.
Q.—When your brother called where were you? A.—On the door step.
Mother Long in Coming.
Q.—Why? A.—Because I thought mother was a long time coming back.
Q.—Who usually looked for eggs? A.—She did.
Q.—When? A.—Whenever she went to the barn.
Mr. Thomas Morrow.
Thomas Morrow, who was first called after the accident, stated that he lived on the adjoining farm.

Q.—You knew Mrs. Jenkins? A.—Yes.
Q.—You were sent for? A.—Yes, about 12:15.

Q.—Who came for you? A.—Louis and Annie Jenkins.
Q.—Who did you find there? A.—Mr. Jenkins standing close to the stable door outside. He said, "Is anybody else coming?" I said, "Yes, I sent for Mr. McNaughton." I went into the stable. Mrs. Jenkins was lying opposite the second stall. She was lying on her back. I said, "This is a terrible affair." Mr. Jenkins did not reply. I said, "You had better go for a doctor." I said, "I can't get the mare out." I said, "We will move her up in the stall." He and I took hold of Mrs. Jenkins and moved her up into the stall.

Q.—Was there much blood? A.—Quite a lot on both sides of her head. Mr. Jenkins took the mare out and beat and muzzled to hold her while he took the stallion in. He went and got a halter and took the stallion in. He then took the buggy and went away.
Q.—Did he do anything as to how it happened? A.—No.
Q.—He drove off and you remained there? A.—Yes, and then Mr. McNaughton came.

Q.—Did you move Mrs. Jenkins? A.—After Mr. Jenkins came back we removed the body to the louse.
Q.—After he came back did he say anything about it? A.—No, only that "We had better move her out of this." Q.—I told you the doors? A.—The first box stall door was shut.
Q.—Did you know anything of the relations that existed between Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins? A.—Yes.

Disagreed in Forenoon.
Q.—Did you know of any disagreement? A.—They disagreed in the forenoon.
Q.—Did you notice how the gate from the driveway to the yard was? A.—It was closed.

Q.—Did you see any eggshells? A.—Not a sign of one.
Q.—Did you have seen them had there been any? A.—Undoubtedly.
Q.—Was anything there of hers? A.—Her hat with the crown knocked out of it.
Q.—Did you see anything of hers? A.—Her false teeth were lying on the sill of the barn right behind where she lay.

Q.—They must have been placed there? A.—They must have been, as they were two feet above the stable floor.
Q.—Were the clothes soiled? A.—They were pretty close under her. One hand was down beside her and the other was lying on her breast.
Q.—Which boy came over for you? A.—Louis. He was crying so that when he came over we could not understand whether he said it was father or the horse killed mother. Annie came over and said the horse killed mother.
