BRITISH PRESS LAUDS PREMIER ON HIS POLICY

London Times Declares Program Is Comprehensive and Well Arranged.

IMPORTANT ISSUES

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Feb. 13.—The general goodwill hitherto extended to the Labor government by the press is not withdrawn as a result of Premier MacDonald's statement of policy in the House of Commons yesterday, but his declaration naturally does not escape adverse criticism. Remembering, however, that the papers, with one exception, are not avowed supporters of the new ministry, it cannot be said that this criticism is severe.

The comment that the premier dealt in platitudes and said much that the leader of any party might have said, is fairly general, and there is some sharp dissent with his attitude toward the action of the new health minister, John Wheatley, in giving the Poplar guardians a rather free hand in the distribution of relief to the unemployed, thus reversing the policy pursued by his predecessor.

Otherwise, the editorials are mostly indulgent. The Times commends the premier's platform as comprehensive and well arranged, but remarks that problems are not to be solved by merely stating them. The paper thinks the most important feature of his forecast is the commitment to consider the national debt and relief issues. It says the composition of this committee will be awaited with critical interest because of the risk that the committee may be overhauled with convinced adherents of socialist finance.

Regarding Mr. MacDonald's allusions to Great Britain's relations with France, the Times thinks it probably owes more to the hitherto unwarlike efforts of his predecessors than he is likely to acknowledge.

WEST CONSIDERS BUT SINGLE PHASE OF CHURCH UNION

Rev. S. Edworthy Declares That Section Thinks Only of Actual Results.

OPTIMISM PREVAILS

The church union situation in the west is such that only one phase of it receives any consideration. It is like that of a drowning man, who doesn't bother about what will happen if he sinks, but thinks only of how he may save his life. Missionaries and men in the west are thinking only of what will happen if union legislation is put through successfully.

This, briefly, is the summing up of it given by Rev. S. Edworthy, a London missionary, who after six years' service in the west, is at home on a brief visit.

Mr. Edworthy had quite evidently given no thought to what might happen if the church union bill does not meet with success.

"What might happen in the west? Well, I suppose it would be inevitable that each province would be asked to deal with the matter, and in that form it would again come before Ottawa. But the situation in the west is this—that we already have union. If that union isn't recognized by the east, then I don't know exactly what would or could happen. We are acting on a co-operative basis. Where there is a Presbyterian Church established in a community, no Methodist Church ever thinks of stepping in with a branch of its own. There is not talk of union with Anglicans and Baptists, but none the less throughout the west, there is an equal spirit of co-operation and fairness between them and those denominations which are talking of union.

"For instance, I happen to be in a community where most of the people are Anglicans, were born, and raised in that denomination, and yet I would go so far as to say that they would vote down the erection of an Anglican Church. And this for no other reason than they know that there would not be support sufficient for two churches. So far, we have even one church. The services are all held in the schoolroom."

Living on Hopes.

Those glowing reports of the west which are broadcast in the east, are according to Mr. Edworthy altogether founded on fact. The one feature of the west which cannot be painted in too rosy colors, however, is the optimism of western settlers.

"I am, there hasn't been a real crop for six years. They simply live on the hope of the next year. Only this year, there was a half-storm which swept everything in a day over such a distance, but it is not long until hope in next year's crop is revived, and so the farmer goes on, living not in this year, but in the next."

Mr. Edworthy's work at present is with Anglo-Saxon speaking peoples before going to Czar (the town has a Russian name, though there are no Russians). He was stationed in the mines at Jasper Park, and it was as a result of this experience that he speaks of the immigration question.

"Selective immigration is the only sound policy. The west is thoroughly convinced now that only immigrants who are ready to adopt our customs and nationality are the Scandinavians, or Lutherans, as they are called. Others come out, brimming over with optimistic tendencies. They find that they are not subject to the oppression which would warrant these sentiments, and as a result they are at a loss. In the mines they are ready to strike at the slightest provocation. One strike was occasioned by the fact that the postman would not open on Sundays at their convenience. As a matter of fact, a great deal of the trouble was caused simply because they couldn't stand prosperity.

Services at Mines.

"Here I am speaking simply of miners. There isn't much prosperity in the farming. There is plenty of hard work, but very little money."

While in the mines, Mr. Edworthy had to hold his services in the post room. The miners used it for their union meetings in the afternoons, and following this noisy session, the missionary and whatever assistants he could get together were forced to go in and clean up mud and the debris of the afternoon's eating and smoking after three hundred foreigners. A small community house was finally erected by the mission board, but only eighteen months later, the mine was abandoned, and the entire settlement broken up. With such situations, mission boards and missionaries are constantly dealing.

Several Cases Are Disposed Of in the Ninth Division Court Today.

His Honor County Judge J. C. Judd presided at the ninth division court sitting in the courthouse today, disposing of a number of actions.

Tom Martin, suing the Mitches Bowling Club for $50 wages, was allowed $150 and costs.

The Matthews Lumber Company, suing George T. Dodd for $18.50, alleged to be due on a lumber account, had the case adjourned to supply detailed information regarding the account.

Judge Judd reserved judgment in the action of M. J. Smith against W. Ginsberg. The plaintiff sought to recover $237.50 on two promissory notes. Counsel for the plaintiff asked the court to withhold judgment on the question of the application of the statute of limitations, the making of the promissory notes being admitted.

TORONTO HAS $200,000 BLAZE

Several Firemen Have a Close Call From Death in Disastrous Conflagration.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Feb. 13.—Three-quarters of Toronto's fire fighting forces battled for five hours early today a fire that devastated a four-story brick warehouse factory occupied by the International Stock Food Company of Canada, Zyrd Chemical Company, and the Robert Watson Candy Works, resulting in $200,000 damage.

It was the worst fire that has occurred in Toronto for some years, Chief Russell stated. Several firemen had a close call from death when a portion of the rear wall in the lane fell. Fireman W. Ryan fell from a 35-foot ladder when it slipped on the ice-coated pavement. He was able to go home, after medical attention.

Three firemen, Lieut. Jack Pigott, Fireman M. Cameron and R. Hake, missed death by a few feet when the corner end of a wall in the rear collapsed, sending a ton of bricks and timber into the laneway. They were showered with falling bricks, two of them having their helmets knocked from their heads and buried in the debris along with their ladder and hose.

The firemen, working in zero weather, were hampered by low water pressure and the fact that they were unable to gain an entrance into the smoke filled building.

LONDON BOY RETURNS HOME AFTER 13,000 MILES OF HIKE

Allan Goodman Declares He Had Wonderful Trip, But Never Again.

LIKES CANADA BEST
Covered 34 States and Part of Mexico Since Last August.

"Oh boy, I don't mean maybe, I was sure glad to get home to little old London," laughingly declared Allan Goodman, 20-year-old London boy who left this city last August on a 13,000-mile hike through the United States, to The Advertiser this morning. Goodman took his family by surprise when he returned from the back door of their home at 38 Charles street Sunday night at 9 o'clock after traversing 34 American States.

On August 13 two London youths, Allan Goodman and Albert "Duke" Chapman set out on hike to South America. Their object was to see the country, and they thought the best possible way to do it was on foot. Superstition held them for them. They left on the 13th day of the month and attribute the success of their trip to their disregard for anything supernatural. They desired to reach South America and then a job there, but in Mexico, government officials refused to let them go on board ship. They turned back to California and spent a short time in that state.

"Yes sir, we walked through 34 states, wore out a dozen pair of shoes, played baseball on Christmas Day in our shirt sleeves and here I am," Goodman said this morning. "Duke" stayed in Colorado for a while and I made the journey home alone. "Duke" expects to leave for London in a short time. Both of us might have stayed in either Colorado or California for a while if we could have got a job, but the country is overrun with hobos and bums who do nothing but ride freight trains, and it is practically impossible to get any kind of work there.

"I'll never hike again. I've had enough, but I wouldn't sell that experience of tramping more than 13,000 miles through the U. S. for $100,000. I don't like the country as well as Canada. We don't appreciate this country. Canada is much prettier than the lands to the south of us."

The two young men left London with about $150 and not once during their long journey did they ride on a train. Occasionally they would walk on a motor car when they were slightly out of funds and suffered no mishaps aside from getting lost in the highways. They worked in oil fields and other places and suffered no mishaps aside from getting lost in the highways. ZERO WEATHER ARRIVES AGAIN

Predictions of Mild Days Fail To Bring the Necessary Results.

More zero weather swooped down on the city and environs during the evening and citizens awoke with the uncomfortable knowledge that winter is here and spring farther behind than most people believed. The mercury sank to a single degree above zero and climbed very indifferently a few degrees above that by noon.

Another fall of snow, rather insignificant, but sufficient to cover the roads fairly well, came last night. The ruts in roads are more hazardous than ever and minor accidents have been reported from all sections of London. Fortunately no really serious ones have been recorded.

Forecasts, as usual, indicated mild weather. During the last week, however, the same prediction proved false, and many people are commencing to lose faith in the official weatherman. Of course, the ground hog has already shown himself up as the biggest bluff ever.

A rather odd reception is billed for St. Valentine tomorrow if the present tendency continues. Prophets assure all those who will listen that the week-end will be extremely mild, however.

TRUSTEES FARE WELL AT 33 CENTS A HEAD

Girls of Boyle Memorial School Serve Demonstration Dinner to Visitors.

The first of seven demonstration dinners arranged by the domestic science department of the public schools was held at Boyle Memorial School last night.

The meal, costing 33 cents per plate, was served by girls of the class, and was a splendid example of the work being done in those classes.

The guests, including Trustees Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt, Mrs. Rose, Aldermen E. Smith, Hayden and Shaw, Messrs. Thomas, Leach, J. A. Edwards, O. Banks, William Wood, John Darling, Herbert Doan, Rev. A. E. Thompson, Rev. M. Charlot, Inspector G. A. Theobald and Principal D. J. Ferguson, were astonished when informed that the dinner had cost so little.

Principal D. J. Ferguson welcomed the guests, Rev. Thompson asking the blessing. Marjorie Wood, following the meal, gave an account of the food values of the articles served, illustrating their value to the system, and the cost. Dainty place and menu cards, made by the girls in the art class, decorated the tables. These were made under the direction of Miss Margaret McGill.

At the close of the evening, Ald. Thompson, moved, seconded by Rev. Thompson, that a vote of appreciation be tendered to Miss Curran, under whose direction the meal was prepared and served, and to the girls, Inspector G. A. Wheable occupied the chair.

The girls, who assisted were: Marjorie Wood, Anna Doan, Ivy Atkinson, Edna Cunningham, Katie Barnes, M. Darling, Ruby Milner, Jean Campbell, Margaret Thomson, Evelyn Gatecliffe.

BIBLE SOCIETY PLANS AGGRESSIVE SEASON

Committees Appointed Yesterday in "Y" To Prepare For Campaign.

Preparations for an aggressive campaign in London and district during the next year were made by the general board of the Bible Society at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Rev. John Garbutt, the president, was in the chair. Two important committees were formed and chairmen appointed. These were the following: Finance committee—J. K. H. Pope (chairman); E. W. Gairns, R. I. Watson, J. H. Gillespie, Oliver Lewis, J. W. Russell, Waide, T. H. Main, J. W. Westervelt, T. C. Margaret. Publishing committee—J. C. Middleton (chairman); Dean W. Sherwood Fox, C. E. German, Dr. A. J. Grant, V. K. Greer, C. A. Mann and P. J. Thompson.

OBITUARIES

ISABELLA PROUDFOOT.
Isabella Proudfoot, widow of Daniel Robertson, died at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Neil McGill, Queen's avenue, yesterday. Deceased was a native of Perthshire, Scotland, and a resident of Kincardine, Ont., for many years. She is survived by two nieces, Mrs. Neil McGill and Miss Margaret Black of this city, and three nephews, Robert Black of Tuxford, Sask., Major W. Black of Toronto, and Ernest Black of this city. Two stepsons also survive, John Robertson of Virden, Man., and Allan Robertson of Kincardine Township. Interment will take place at Kincardine tomorrow.

HOLDING DEBATE.
Medical student members of the Literary Society of the University of Western Ontario are holding a debate tonight at the new medical school building between meds '24 and '25. The subject will be: "Resolved That the Feudalism in the Middle Ages in Western Europe has Resulted in More Evil Than Good."

HENDERSON WILL FORCE OPPOSITION FROM THE TORIES

Fight in Burnley Promises To Be Bitter, With Both Sides Active.

CAMPAIGN OPENS

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Feb. 13.—The by-election in Burnley, necessitated by the death of Dan Irving, the Labor member, opened in earnest today, with the nomination of H. E. J. Camps, Conservative, as the opponent of Arthur Henderson, secretary of state for home affairs.

Camps was the unsuccessful Conservative candidate in Burnley in the last two elections. The new home secretary, Arthur Henderson, was defeated in East Newcastle in the general election last December.

Both candidates in Burnley have the common experience of having started to work at an early age. Camps is now a consultant marine architect of high standing. Henderson is one of the best known of the Labor leaders of the United Kingdom and was a member of the war cabinet without a portfolio.

Mr. Henderson will find that the duties of his office as home secretary will prevent his remaining in the constituency of Burnley throughout the contest, but the Labor party will have a number of its best speakers on hand to fill in when the home secretary is absent from the riding. His defeat at the present juncture naturally would be a serious rebuff to the new government.

Burnley has had a varied political experience. It was represented for four years by that notorious swindler, the late Jabez Balfour, and in the last twenty years, at one time or another, has elected a candidate of every political profession.

CHIEF PRESENTS FIGURES ASKING FOR $140,296.45

Victoria Hospital Estimates Are Placed at $368,500 For Year.

GRANT IS REDUCED

Estimates of London's fire department for 1924, prepared by Chief John Aitken and presented at the city hall this morning, total $140,296.45, an increase of approximately $20,000 over last year.

As with all estimates, the largest portion is devoted to salaries, this account calling for $115,367.27 plus an additional $2,500 for substitutes during vacation and in case of illness. The next largest item is $16,000 for a new switchboard, an item that the chief has included in his estimates for several years past.

Speaking to The Advertiser about the latter item, the chief stated that it was in the interests of the efficiency of the department and the community as a whole that this be purchased and installed. The British report made last year also recommended that a new 10-circuit switchboard be installed in the central station.

General expenses amount to $12,429.47, while the depreciation fund on trucks and equipment is set at $5,429.18. Six per cent of the salaries, included in a separate item, amounts to $9,153.15. Costs for minor details in connection with the department's alarm system are estimated at $644. Fuel and light account for $2,127, while the maintenance and care of the alarm system is estimated at $2,013.80. The sum of $1,000 is included for a general service truck and supplies.

The chief had no comment to make on the estimates after he had handed them to the city clerk, other than his remarks concerning the new switchboard.

CANADIAN BOYS WIN RIFLE COMPETITIONS

Calgary Boy Scouts Have High Score in Imperial Contests.

The following extract from the Canadian Marksman for January, 1924, will be of interest to all cadet instructors and cadets in this district, in view of the approaching 1924 competitions:

"Canadian boys won high distinction in the imperial challenge shield rifle competitions in 1923, the results of which are announced by the department of national defence."

"In the team events Canadian boys won the first three places in the senior competition, the 14th troop of Calgary Boy Scouts standing at the head of the list with the fine average score of 97.4, winning nine bronze medals and 18 sterling. No. 13 machine gun section, Peterborough, Ontario, is next in order, winning nine bronze medals and £7 sterling, No. 1 platoon, A. Company, L'Academie, Commercial Cadet Corps, Quebec, P.Q., in third place, winning nine bronze medals and £5 sterling. In addition to these three teams, three more Canadian teams won medals and cash prizes, and fourteen other teams won cash prizes."

"A particularly pleasing feature of the senior events is that the average of the Calgary troop Boy Scouts was 15 years and six months, they being the youngest of the first 30 teams taking part."

"In the junior team event second place was won by the 14th troop of Calgary Boy Scouts, they being awarded nine bronze medals and £7 sterling. Fourth place goes to No. 3 platoon, B. Company, L'Academie, Commercial Cadet Corps, Quebec, P.Q., in fifth place to Winnipeg Boys' Naval Brigade Cadet Corps; eighth place to the Kingston Boys' Naval Brigade Cadet Corps, and ninth place to No. 9 platoon, C. Company, Le Seminaire de Quebec Cadet Corps. In addition six other junior teams won cash prizes."

REFUSES COMMENT.
In connection with a news item from Brantford which stated that local police had neglected to broadcast a warning following the theft of tobacco from the warehouse of Seales and Roberts, Chief Robert Birrell of the local force refused to make any comment other than the stolen truck which carried the goods was never in Brantford as the news despatch stated.

His Sluggish Liver Made Him Feel Drowsy and Tired All the Time.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers, and the only way you can get back to feeling right is to make your liver right.
