Cheaper than Stoves

"Last Fall I installed a Fawcett Pipeless Furnace; No. 36, in my house and it is giving the very best of satisfaction. As will be seen by the enclosed snapshot, it is a large house and it was considered impossible to heat it with a pipeless furnace; but with much less fuel than the stoves required, every room is heated evenly and comfortably." Fred J. Nutter.

required, every room is heated evenly and comfortably." Fred J. Nutter, Evandale, N. B.

Note from the illustration above that Mr. Nutter's home is not merely large, but exposed as well. But since installing a Fawcett, every every room is warm—at a cost below that of stoves. Recent refinements in the Fawcett (widening the casing for one thing) increases still further its capacity to banish Winter in your home.

House Cosy Cellar Cool

"The heat capacity is far beyond what I expected and I consider it a very light user of fuel. I would say there is no heat in the cellar whatever as I had potatoes and turnips pited

"It was given me all the heat I want and perfect satisfaction. It has not raised the temperature of my cellar one degree at all, or harmed any vegetables in any way."—F. W. Buttimer, Bathurst, N. B.

The Fawcett delivers heat where you want it: instead of wasting it on the way.

"Summer Weather"

"During last winter when it was registering twenty and twenty-two below zero, we were enjoying summer weather in our house, where in previous winters we have been fering from the cold. It has indeed been a great source of comfort ever since installed."-Mrs. Verna Copp, Moncton, N. B.
