

CHAPTER V.

General Conference of 1820. Names and number of delegates, p. 100; opening of conference by Bishop M'Kendree, and address of the bishops, p. 102; provision for Bishop M'Kendree, p. 103; cause of education, p. 104; report of committee commending the establishment of seminaries of learning, p. 105; opposition to this cause, p. 107; Canada affairs, p. 108; letter from London, p. 112; address to the Wesleyan Methodist conference, p. 113; its answer, p. 115; resolutions of the British conference on Canada affairs, p. 118; instructions from our bishops, p. 126; to the brethren in Lower Canada, p. 130; result of these proceedings, p. 132; improved edition of the Hymn Book, p. 133; Tune Book, p. 134; revised, p. 139; building churches, p. 140; new regulation respecting local preachers, p. 141; did not work well, p. 142; finally abrogated, p. 143; report on missions, p. 143; revised constitution, p. 151; rule for conducting appeals, p. 155; a branch of the Book Concern established at Cincinnati, p. 156.

CHAPTER VI.

Twelve conferences and two effective bishops, p. 157; state of things in Louisiana, p. 158; French mission unsuccessful, p. 159; Indian missions, p. 159; number and general description of the condition and character of the Indians, p. 160; Wyandot Indians, p. 166; John Steward goes among them, p. 166; his reception, p. 167; effects of his labors, p. 168; speeches of chiefs, p. 169; transactions at the Ohio conference, p. 172; secession in the city of New-York—its causes and effects, p. 175; numbers return to the church they had left, p. 178; Missionary Society prospers, p. 179; its effects in some portions of New-England, p. 180; Methodism in Bristol, R. I., p. 182; in Provincetown, Mass., and Chillicothe, Ohio, p. 183; locations, deaths, and numbers, p. 183; Wyandot mission, p. 184; Creek mission, p. 185; camp meetings in South Carolina and Tennessee, p. 187; work of God in Carter's Valley and Pittsburgh, p. 188; in North Carolina, p. 189; in Alabama, p. 190; character and death of S. Parker, p. 192; numbers, p. 193; Asbury mission, p. 193; its progress and disastrous results, p. 194; Mohawk mission, p. 198; Cherokee mission, p. 206; domestic missions in Upper Canada, p. 209; general work—in Brooklyn, L. I., Amenia, and Tolland, p. 211; in Upper Canada district, p. 212; in Smyrna, Delaware, Surry county, Virginia, Scioto, Ohio, and Northumberland district, p. 213; Hudson River district, New-York, and New-Rochelle, p. 214; controversial preaching, p. 215; Wesleyan Seminary, p. 216; locations, deaths, and numbers, p. 216; work of God prospers, p. 217; Missionary Society aided by the labors of John Summerfield, p. 218; his address to the Young Men's Missionary Society, p. 219; Potawattomy mission, p. 223; Methodism in Jackson's Purchase, p. 223; in Michigan, p. 224; in Florida, p. 227; in Cumberland and St. Louis, p. 229; aboriginal missions prosperous, p. 230; Bishop M'Kendree's visit among the Wyandots, p. 231; G. R. Jones's letter, p. 236; J. B. Finley's travels, interesting account of Honnes, p. 238; mission in the city of New-York, p. 239; on Long Island, p. 240; in New-Brunswick, p. 241; work of God on Baltimore district, p. 242; Augusta College, p. 242; character and death of Dr. Chandler, p. 243; of John Steward, p. 246; numbers, p. 251.

CHAPTER VII

General Conference of 1824. Names and number of delegates, p. 252; delegates from the Wesleyan Methodist conference, p. 254; address of