Chicago Gossip. Marshall, Spader & Co. wired to J. G. Beatty at the close:

For a time this morning the wheat market was completely demoralized, the action of the Minneapolis curb, where something in the nature of a panic occurred, having an exceedingly bad effect upon the grain holders, and wheat was recklessly being accelerated by stop-loss orders, which could not be filled anywhere near possession of the grain.

It was a minor viewpoint took the limit upward to stop-loss orders, which could not be filled anywhere near possession of the grain.
