"Why, asks a reader, "isn't track and field work-running, jumping, throwing the hammer, etc .- as fine an exercise for army development as any game on list-not even barring football?" It is. Or, rather, they are, Track and field work combine for as fine physical development, so far as war usage may be concerned, as anything the programme holds. And the army will undoubtedly make use of this training.

OLD AND NEW RECORDS.

Along the line of the track and field work it is interesting to note how records have changed in the last decade or so. "Outing Magazine" publishes a chart which shows the advancement in sor varieties—and lack of advancement in others. Here it is, based upon the standards of 1893 and the standards of today: Old standard.

100-yard run ...... 9 4-5 sec. Running high jump ...... 6 ft. 4½ in. 889-yard walk ... 3 min 2 2-5 sec. Throwing 16-lb. hammer ... 145 ft. % in. No change. 13 ft. 21/4 in. 40 ft. 6% in. 24 ft. 7¼ in. rowing 56-lb. weight ...........35 ft. 10 in. Running broad jump 23 ft. 6½ in. 24 ft. 7¼ in. One-mile run 4 min. 17 4-5 s. 4 min. 12 3-5 s.

Over five seconds have been cut from the mile run, which may be quite an Advantage in a long charge or a sudden retreat. But only one-fifth of a second ess than two yards-has been cut away from the 100-yard dash. There was an expressed belief that some day a marvelous sprinter would come along able t the mark at 9 seconds. This doesn't seem possible now. If but one-fifth of a second has been cut away in twenty-five years, what chance remains to cut away three-fifths of a second? And the one-fifths are harder to prune away as they sink below the 10-second mark. As the records stand today, there may be a slight improvement from time to time, but no big change is looked for. Yet this is very likely what some farseeinkg sporting writer penned back in 1893, when the high jump record was 6 feet 4½ inches and the hammer
