Rev. Dr. McDonald of Kintyre addressed the minister, Rev. Mr. Gale of Hyde Park addressed the congregation. At the close of the services, all partook of a sumptuous supper provided by the ladies of Ivan congregation. Addresses of welcome to Rev. Mr. Campbell to the London Presbytery were given by the members present, the moderator, Rev. Dr. McCrae, acting as toast master. Rev. Mr. Campbell will occupy the pulpits of Ivan and Vanneck next Sunday.

SPAIN FACING SERIOUS SITUATION FROM FLOODS

MADRID, Oct. 2.—Havas.—Storms of rain and hail continue all over Spain, especially in the provinces of Valencia, Alicante and Murcia, where the situation is taking on the aspect of a real calamity, and where railroad traffic is completely suspended. Cantagena is isolated and partially submerged, and it is reported supplies are running low. At the city of Murcia, where the flood at some places has reached the height of over seven feet, two hundred houses have been destroyed.

SPARKLING MUSICAL
COMEDY SCORES A SUCCESS AT GRAND

"My Soldier Girl" Appearing
Here Tonight and Twice
Tomorrow.

Local theatregoers who attended the Grand last night were, in the majority, well pleased with the musical comedy, "My Soldier Girl," which will be presented here again tonight, and Saturday night, with a popular matinee Saturday.

As a musical spectacle, "My Soldier Girl" fills the bill, and the sparkling tunes sent forth over the footlights were those of the contagious variety. Pretty girls in abundance, added to the charm of this musical comedy, and the ladies of the chorus are attractive and far above the average. The costumes worn by them are well selected and their singing is well balanced.

Playing the stellar role as Dixie Harris, Dorothy Garrigue, a dainty young miss, immediately captivates her audience, and her voice proves excellent both for singing and talking parts. However, the greatest number of singing parts fall to the lot of Maude Baxter, as Mabel, and her work is a treat for all music lovers. Her rendition of "Annie Laurie" as an encore, in the first act was exceptionally good. Her voice balances well with that of James Le Roy in the duet, "Just for You," which went over with a punch in act two.

As Jasper Pebbles, a colored valet, Billy Moore introduces some real comedy, and Billy Murphy as Ricketts acts in combination with him, to produce the laughs. The former hands out blackface comedy which, while of the side-splitting variety, loses slightly owing to the dialect which Moore introduces, or does not introduce. Ricketts kept the house in an uproar despite the fact that a few jokes in his repertoire are of the 1917 vintage. However, this pair working together assist in driving away the blues during the entire two acts of the presentation, and eccentric dancing was done in approved style by them.

Other parts well played were those of Lieut. Ted Carter by Leslie Jones, who makes an excellent dancing partner for Miss Garrigue, and Colonel Stone by James L. Baber, who plays the role of guardian to "My Soldier Girl." The comedy quartet, with Jasper and Ricketts in act two, brought forth rounds of applause with their humorous numbers which were well rendered. The scenery, although not plentiful, was in keeping with the rest of the show. The runways out into the aisles of the orchestra portion of the theatre, upon which pretty girls danced over the heads of the audience, led by their leading lady and her chum, is a novelty which was appreciated last night.

FURNITURE QUALITY

The Purchase of Better Quality Furniture Is Really
the Finest Kind of Economy to Practice

IN purchasing furniture you should always keep in mind the fact that you are going to live with your furniture a long time. It isn't like an article of wearing apparel that you wear only for a short period and then discard. Furniture that is hastily selected and bought simply because the price is low, very often develops into an eyesore after living with it a short time.

THE type of furniture that you will see on display on our sales floors was selected because it was designed for service, for beauty, for character and all of the qualities that home keepers who appreciate the better things would like their furniture to possess.

Are Steel Strike Leaders
Patriots or Bolsheviks?

"We are going to socialize the basic industries of the United States. This is the beginning of the fight. We are going to have representatives on the board of directors of the steel corporation," declared John Fitzpatrick, chairman of the Committee of Twenty-four, representing the twenty-four separate American Federation of Labor unions participating in the steel strike. T. J. Vind, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor in the Chicago district, made even a more defiant cry when he declared that "The strike won't stop until steel-workers become the lawmakers at Washington."

While many editorial writers outside the labor press take these and other statements of the strike leaders as an indication that they aim at nothing less than industrial revolution, The New Majority of Chicago, organ of the Labor party, counters with a charge of "high treason" against Judge Gary of the United States Steel Corporation because he denied the strikers "their constitutional rights of free speech, press, and assemblage," and it affirms, "he has set himself and his steel trust up in defiance of the Government and constitution of the United States, as superior to them."

Concerning the union demand for increased wages, the labor leaders admit, according to a correspondent of the New York Tribune, that the wages of employees in the steel industry have increased about one hundred per cent in the last four years, but "even this increase has not sufficed to improve their originally wretched conditions. They tell of human beings living like cattle in miserable shacks and hovels. The answer of the employers to this contention is that with the foreigners in the mills and furnaces the rate of pay has nothing to do with the standard of living, as the purpose of this class of laborers is not to live well, but to live as poorly as possible in order to save as much as possible, usually with the intention of returning to Europe when a certain size stake has been attained." The employers support their contention by pointing to a scale of wages ranging from $3.50 to $6.00 a day for unskilled help, and from $7.00 to $80.00 a day for skilled help.
