Will Do Nothing But Administer Father's Vast Fortune for the Public Good-Wall Street.

NEW YORK, March 3.-Among charities, the new Rockefeller Foundation is to become what the Standard Oil Company has long been among corporations, and John D. Rockefeller, fr., as its head, will in another sphere of influence perpetuate the domina-tion so long maintained in the world of industry by John D. Rockefeller, senior, as president of the Standard

The younger Rockefeller announced to-day that he had recently retired from the directorate of the Standard to assume the management of his father's benefactions.

The announcement is taken in Wallstreet to mean that hereafter the Rockefeller millions will no longer be a market factor. Instead, it is assumed they will pass wholly into conservative securities, such as it is proper for trust funds, savings banks and insurance companies to acquire. In insurance companies to acquire. In brief, they will no longer be available for the development of the resources of the nation, but must be gradually distributed among the successes al-

John Junior.

Rockefeller, jr., is now 33 years old..

Seen in retrospect, his retirement from the Standard Oll board, which actually took place on Jan. 11, assumes a deeper consistency with the gradual narrowing in the recent years of his financial activities—a phenomenon not heretofore understood, as he showed no inclination to play the country gen-tleman or the sporting man, as have other sons of millionaires. He is still on the directorate of the Delaware, on the directorate of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railway Company, and of the American Linseed Oil Company, but it is known that it is his intention to withdraw from these corporations also.

His relations with corporate finance in the future, it is understood, will chiefly consist in conserving the huge fortune amassed by his father, re-investing the income and distributing

It is not thought likely the new foundation for philanthropy as proposed by the bill introduced in the United States Senate yesterday will assume settled policies for years to come, but in this connection, Frederick T. Gates, one of the incorporators of the foundation, said to-day that two main points had been missed.

main points had been missed.

"In the first place," indicated Mr. Gates, "every other eleemosynary institution has been organized for some specific purpose, and thus limited in its sphere of helpfulness. For instance, in cases of grave disaster, such as the Paris floods, they have been powerless to aid. This is not so of the new foundation.

OTTAWA, March 3.—(Special.)—On the motion for the third reading of the bill amending the annuities act, Senator Frost moved for a reduction of the rates charged for annuities to women to the same rates as those charged to men. Sir Richard Cartwright said that, tho desirous of granting the motion, it was beyond the power of the senate to accept, it, as the result would be to add to the financial burden of the country.

The bill to facilitate prosecutions for ore stealing, which had been considerably amended, was given a third reading, as was a bill respecting the Northern Empire Railway Company, to incorporate Weyburn Security Bank, to grant divorce to Cecilia Maria Pringle, and to grant divorce to Ada Ann Reed.
