A pleasant time was enjoyed by about twenty-five young people on Wednesday evening as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Russell of Milford, on a moonlight motor sail. They went to Raines' beach, where camp-fires were lighted and refreshments served. The sail home by moonlight gave pleasure.

WORK PRETTY HARD AND ARE FED WELL

Sergeant Lane Writes From English Camp to His Daughter

Miss Pearl Love of 261 Marsh road has a letter from her father, Sergt. J. T. Lane, from East Sandling Camp, England, dated July 14. He says: "We are hard at work training for what we expect to meet when we get to the front. The bugle sounds reveille at 5.30 a.m. We dress, make up beds, wash, get a cup of coffee and hard task, and then it is time to fall in and parade at 6.30 for bayonet practice for one hour and physical drill. We are then dismissed for breakfast at 7.30, parade again at 8.45 in heavy marching order, that is with our packs on our backs. We carry rifles, rations in our haversacks, and a pick or shovel. We then march about a mile and a half up to the top of a very high hill to make trenches, and I can tell you it is very hard work when the weather is warm as it has been for the last two weeks. We work pretty hard and are fed well. We are then dismissed after being out all day, dirty and hungry after digging out mud and stone building the trenches.

"It is very interesting to see how they are constructed. There are upwards of 6,000 troops working there and you can imagine what it must look like. We see a lot of aircraft while we are up there, as we can see a long distance. The hill is very high, and on a clear day you can see France, across the English channel.

"There are lots of beautiful flowers here, all kinds and colors. They grow wild about the hill and as there is no one to pick them you can imagine what they look like. All along the roads are hedges. There are no fences here, and the flowers grow in abundance, poppies, roses, daisies, honeysuckle and lots of others I cannot name. There is a little bird here, the skylark, that flies straight up from the ground and sings. I wish you could hear him. He is a great singer and goes up out of sight and then comes down again like an arrow to the ground."

Sergt. Lane tells of the trip from St. John to the camp in England, which he greatly enjoyed. Concluding the letter, he said: "I have just had tea. We had fresh halibut, washed potatoes and bread pudding, tea, bread and butter—not bad for a soldier in training. We work pretty hard and have to be fed well. We have very good quarters here. There is room for thirty beds, but there are only 25 in my hut. There are racks for our rifles and a shelf over our bed to keep our clothes and other things, besides hooks for our kit, so that altogether it is quite comfortable. We had no lights for some time, but they are now turned on again."

LETTER FROM NURSE

Miss Charlotte Brown of St. John Tells of Entertainment in England

The only graduate nurse of Victoria Hospital, now serving at the front is Miss Charlotte Brown, of St. John, who took her diploma from the local institution a few years ago, says the Fredericton Gleaner. She left Montreal on May 20 with thirty nurses, and in a letter to a friend tells of her trip to England and her stay there. A letter dated June 29 was received and Miss Brown was then on the S. S. Mores in the Mediterranean and expected to land at Marseilles, France.

Of her stay in England, Miss Brown writes: "The Duchess of Somerset had us to luncheon one day and to tea another afternoon. Both the duke and duchess are most charming. At the luncheon the duchess looked us over and the head nurse had the post of honor, beside the duke; then the duchess said to me, 'Will you sit beside me?' So I sat. Then they had reserved seats for us at a Sunday morning service in Westminster Abbey; also at St. Paul's Cathedral last Saturday, where we saw Queen Alexandra, Duchess of Fife and her daughter, and the Grand Duchess George of Russia. Just as soon as they sat down they noticed the row of Panama hats, so we took off our hats and looked us over from one end of the row to the other. The other people who entertained us were Lord Ludlow, at his beautiful home, Portland Place; Lady Jekyll, Lady Phillips, Lady Trotter, Lady Stoggett, Lady Perrott, Sir George and Lady Perley, Sir Dyce Duckworth and others, and today the Somersets sent us tickets (at a guinea apiece) for a concert, sale and tea, under the direction of Princess Christian, and after the concert the princess asked the duchess to present us. So I think I'll save the gloves she shook. It is lovely to meet all these nice people; they are so interested in us because of our work and because we come from Canada—but our uniforms will soon be ready for us—so we will soon be singing a different tune. I saw a Frederick man the other day that I nursed in Victoria Hospital—Laurier Sherman. I am real well and think England agrees with me."

The Heart Appeal

All of us marry sooner or later and some—both sooner and later. Which is just another way of saying that all the great aims of life centre about the making of a home. Any news that helps the home is good news and interesting news. That is one reason the advertising columns of a live newspaper like The Telegraph and Times are such good reading. There is a personality to the advertising that finds a responsive chord in the average heart.

HAMPTON PEOPLE'S WELCOME TO BISHOP

His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc Makes First Pastoral Visit—Address Presented

The Catholic congregation of Hampton extended a cordial welcome to His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc last night on the occasion of his first pastoral visit to the village. His Lordship officiated at the closing of the mission conducted during the week by Rev. Charles McCormack, C. S. R., and also administered the sacrament of confirmation to twenty-six people.

The formal welcome was tendered His Lordship at a reception after the mission service. The following address was read by Clarence Conway on behalf of the congregation: "The Right Rev. E. A. LeBlanc, D. D., Bishop of St. John, N. B., My Lord:—Centuries ago the wise men from the east came with precious gifts to welcome the new born King. They came not to an edifice such as we are assembled in tonight; but to a lowly manger and down through the ages the custom has followed."

The kings and princes of temporal affairs have been welcomed by the playing of martial music and the array of soldiers; but what more inspiring scene can be witnessed than the faithful followers of God assembled to pay homage to him whom He has chosen to guide our spiritual destiny. Today amidst the lowliness, the fruitfulness and peace with which we are surrounded we come to bid you welcome, on this our first episcopal visit to Hampton, and to say with the inspired writer of old, 'Blessed is he who cometh in the name of the Lord.' Since your elevation to the See of St. John we have watched with pardonable pride the seal with which you have labored for the spiritual and temporal needs of these confided to your care, and we are proud to note that your efforts have not been in vain.

Your saintly dignity reminds us how fleeting are the things of life and inspires us to model our lives after the life of the Church by their lives. Today more than in any other period of the world's history, our nations are shedding blood over worldly affairs do we realize that nothing built by human genius can endure? God's hand has been placed over the destiny of the nations of the earth; men in their agonies are today turning to Him in prayer, crying to His priests on the battlefields 'for forgiveness of sins,' and asking for the Bread of Life, and we far away from this turmoil and strife thank God for the blessings of His sacraments; and the guidance of those whom He has placed over us.

My Lord, it has been with fond expectancy that we have looked forward to your coming amongst us on your first pastoral visit. It is indeed fitting that you should have chosen this occasion, the closing day of our mission, to come to us to confer the Sacrament of Confirmation and thereby strengthen anew all who receive it, and join them to the vast army of the church's faithful soldiers. Again Your Lordship we bid you welcome.

Signed,
Silver Smith

The mission during the week was very successful. It was begun on last Sunday morning and the daily services have been largely attended. The services closed on Thursday with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Miss Desmond presided at the organ and there was special music under the direction of Professor Lloyd.

Bishop LeBlanc, accompanied by Rev. C. J. McLaughlin, returned to the city this morning.

GREAT CURE FOR THOSE PARTICULAR AT TABLE

Soldier Writes of Their Foraging Experiences at the Front—But He Has Gained 20 Pounds

F. J. Edwards, of a White street, veteran of the wars, has received a letter from his son Fred, from somewhere in France. It shows that army life agrees with the young man, for he has gained twenty pounds in weight since he left home. He went with the first contingent, and says he never felt better in his life. He adds: "We have traveled around some since we came to France, and I have had a few narrow escapes as well, but so far have not had a scratch. You would have laughed if you had seen us this morning. We were on guard at some cross-roads about half a mile behind the firing line, and we were sitting around a small coke fire about six o'clock in the morning making tea, when a shell dropped about twenty feet over our heads. You should have seen us scatter. Say, it was funny to see us crawling around on the ground trying to find shelter. But still, it was not as funny as it sounds at the time, for the shell wounded a major and it was a wonder we all didn't get killed.

"Gee! I wish I had a feed of your fish and chips and some ginger pudding and juice. It would make you laugh to see us cooking our grub in the trenches. Our favorite dish is bully beef hash. When we can pinch some spuds we put them in, and when we can't, we break up some hard tack biscuit and soak them in water until they are soft and put them in. You should see some of the rigs we use to cook in—old tins, black canteens, and very often the same tin we wash in. I have seen the time that I did not have enough bread for one meal that had to last forty-eight hours, and when it was gone we had to eat bully beef and biscuits that we found, and what we could pick up out of the gardens, such as onions, cabbage and spuds, and be that way for over two days."

Mr. White says that his son was very particular about his food at home, and the fact that he has gained twenty pounds and can write so cheerfully about the soldiers' fare, is the best evidence that the life of a soldier agrees with him.
