HIT LEDGES IN A THICK FOG

Captain of The Ashmore Talks to Times—Fears Break-up On Next Tide

To a Times reporter this afternoon over the long-distance telephone, the captain of the wrecked bark Ashmore said that the bark would be a total wreck and he expected her to break up on the next tide.

He said he was in a heavy bank of fog yesterday morning about 9 o'clock when he struck the ledges. He thought he was on his right course, but the fog was so thick that he could not see any distance ahead.

When the bark struck a boat was lowered, but before any of the crew could get into it the waves smashed it to pieces against the side of the ship.

The vessel, he said, was valued at $800,000 and was insured, although the captain was unable to say what the amount of insurance was. He said he expected to be taken on board a steamer this afternoon and brought to St. John.
