Pretty wedding this morning.

A quiet but pretty wedding was cel ated this morning at 6.30 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brokenshire, 198 North street, when their eldest daughter, Amelia May, was united in the bonde of matrimony with Clifford Martell Fader, of St. Margaret's Bay.
The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a tailor-made suite of grey Bedford cord and black picture hat, and carried a white prayer book.
Rev. L. J. Donaldson, Rector of Trinity church, performed the marriage service.
The couple were unattended.
Quite a number of friends were present at the ceremony, and the room was prettily decorated with cut flowers and palms.
The bride, who was the recipient of many handsome presents, is a valued member of Trinity parish, where she will be greatly missed. esidence of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Broken

He aroused his wife and mother and they made their way down the front stairs to the door just in time. The fire had burned its way from the furnace room between the walls leading up the stairway from the basement, and also under the floors of the drawing room. The quick response of the fire department, preceded by the chemical, extinguished the blaze before it had spread to any great extent, but there was considerable damage done to the furniture by water and smoke. - Note the window display of Hartley's After attractions.

Under the caption of "Canadian manager coming," the New York Evening Telegram of last week said: Leonard R. Acker, of Halifax, N. S., one of the best known vanderlile magnates in that section of Canada, who is also a racing devotee, is due to arrive in New York next Saturday on a combined business and pleasure trip. Mr. Acker owns and controls a string of popular priced vanderlile houses in Halifax, St. John and other cities in New Sock, and his mission to the metropolis is to engage new acts to play his time.

Performers who have just returned to New York atter playing the Acker houses have been saying some mighty compilmentary things about the geolal Halifax manager, and there is little doubt he will be able to book any number of acts for his playhouses. Leonard R. Acker, of Hallfax, N. S.

AFTER CHICAGO POLICE And politicians, for receiving thousands for protecting thugs and clairvoyants.

CHICAGO, May 12.—New arrests of men higher up in the police-protected Clairvoyant Trust, so-called, are expected to-day. Three or more politicians and policemen will be in custody by nightfall, States Attorney Hoyne intimated upon reaching his office this morning. Barney Bertache, ex-convict, former saloon keeper and politician, arrested as the 'go-between for the necromancers, and who is at liberty on ball, was guarded throughout the night by detectives stationed about his residence.

by detectives stationed about his residence.

The States' Attorney will place what evidence he has against Bertsche before the grand jury when it convenes at 10 o'clook. The prosecutor asserted he will show that several politicians and pollemen received a part of the $500,000 alleged to have been collected annually from the orime and graftings in exchange for protection, Mr. Hopne says he has positive proof that organized gangs of pickpockets and thugs pay thousands of dollars weekly for immunity.

and thuge pay thousands of dollars weekly for immunity.

"I am golg to get the men who received the protection money, the men who imported the clairvoyants, pickpockets and other criminals to Chicago from other cities," said Mr. Hoyne. "There are so many angles that I can't say just where the thing will break out next."

The prosecutor said he would prove to the grand jury that Bertsche acted as fixer for many clairvoyants in swinding cases in several large eastern cities, where the "spook trust" has been operating.

PARK ST. PRESBYTERIAN Rev. J. M. McInnis preaches on the doctrine of God and the new mind. Rev. J. M. McInnis preached on the "Doctrine of God and the new mind" yesterday morning in Park St. Presbyterian Church to a large congregation that lister ed with deep interest to the scholarly dis Luke 10 22, showing that Jesus Chris claimed to be the only one who could fully reveal the Father.

When we read the story of revelation, as told by St. Luke, we are surprised to find that they never used an argument to prove the existence of God. Secondly, we find that they never attempted to define the person or nature of God-there is no such doctrine of the person of God or His nature in the teaching of Christ. This, however, must not lead us to take an agnostic attitude: for Christ, while He did agnostic attitude; for Christ, while He did not define His nature, revealed much that we can know and understand. For example, He made it very clear that God, is the maker and sustainer of nature, He also made it clear that God is the maker and sustainer of nature, He also made it clear that God is the great moving power in history. He also revealed God as our Father with a passion to reproduce His own life in holiness, righteousness and charity. In this He has, a Fatherly care, displining and fostering, His children to the end that they may reflect His life.

In a word, the preacher tried to show that the two-fold revelation of God by Christ meets the needs of our modern thinking we have some to know much about nature, but we need a great first cause: Jesus supplies this in His revelation of God as the Creator.

In the third place, we feel the need of the revelation of God as the Creator.

In the third place, we feel the need of the revelation of God as the Creator.

In the third place, we feel the need of the revelation of a moral idea in human life that will make it possible for a man to live his life at its best. REV. DEAN ABBOTT PREACHED To large congregation in All Saints' Cathedral last night.

All Saints' Cathedral was filled by a large and expectant congregation last night to hear Rev. Dean Abbott, an old Halifax boy and former curate of St. Luke's, who last week was honored by Lakes, who last where he received Kings Gollege, Windsor, where he received the degree of D.D. Dean Abbott rankr among the most eloquent preachers of the Angilean church in Canada, and his sermon last night was listened to with the deeplest interest.

Taking as his subject last night the incident in the Gospel where God is said to have shoken to Jesus in answer to His Bone who heard, said, "It hundered" others said. "An angel spake unto Him." Here, said the preacher, we have one absolute fact, viz. That God spoke; here we also have two interpretations of this hact. To some, the voice of God was no more than vague rumblings of thunder—to others it was an angel. One was entirely wrong; the other was mistaken. It is better however to be mistaken than to grossly or blindly misinterpret the fact of God in the world. It is best, however, to recognize God when God speaks (the personal equation very largely colors life.) What a man is, detarmines very largely what a man thinks; a man's interpretation of life is the surest window through which to see his soul; from a man's interpretation of life is the surest window through which to see his soul; from a man's interpretation of life is the surest window through which to see his soul; from a man's interpretations we can most readily discover his character. If we send a botanist out into the woods and fields, he sees only the beauty and life of flowers most lightness and the woods and fields, he sees only the beauty and life of flowers and plants; if we send a geologist into nature's most lightness are discovered.

So it comes to pass that a man's interpretations disclose to us his character, his inner interests reveal to us his secret beart. So it is with men and the things of God.

To some the cheavest voices from heaven we indistinct and vague; to others the voice of God is nothing more than the course and law of nature—to some it is as though an angel speaks.

If a man is in tune with the heavenly voices he will rightly hear and rightly interpret. If the heart of a man is pure, if the mind of a man is truth-leving, if the will of a man is God-directed, then he will see the pure a
