POLITICAL MEETING.

Hon. A. G. Blair and Sir Louis Davies at Woodstock.

At Woodstock on Friday, 1st inst., Hon. A. G. Blair and Sir Louis Davies addressed one of the largest and best political meetings ever held in the county. The Opera house was crowded. John Harper, president of Carleton County Liberal Association, presided, and James Watts, secretary of the Association, read an address of greeting to the ministers, commending the vigorous commercial policy of the government and the establishment of an increased trade with Great Britain.

Hon. A. G. Blair received a rousing reception and delivered an eloquent address. After expressing his thanks he paid a tribute to Carleton County as first in rank in the dairying industry. He was pleased with the loyalty to the Liberal party displayed and the confidence in the government which was in strong contrast to acrimonious nature of the opposition's meetings which breathed a spirit of despair and appealed to the passions of people and not to their judgement. Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster in the role of prophets were spoken of in an amusing manner. The leader of the opposition knew the great West, Ontario and Nova Scotia were lost to the Liberals and would be told by his lieutenant what would happen in New Brunswick. The opposition claimed gross negligence on the part of the government and singled out Messrs. Tarte, Sifton and Blair for special attack because they were heads of the great spending departments. Mr. Blair ably refuted these attacks.

Mr. Blair showed that no greater calamity could happen this fair and prosperous Dominion than that the government should be transferred from Sir Wilfred Laurier and his associates to Sir Charles Tupper and his friends. Charges that the Liberal party had violated pledges were refuted. They promised to be and were economical. Any service now cost less than was paid for the same under the previous government. More money was spent and spent in the public interest. Of the fifty millions voted the opposition could only find objection to $30,000. During 18 years the Conservatives added six and a half millions a year to the debt, while the Liberals after paying many obligations incurred by the previous government, had made an increase of but $2,000,000 a year or less in three years than the previous government had in one. Hon. Mr. Blair went into the tariff question and convincingly argued from Sir Charles Tupper's own words that the tariff had been reformed. The change had meant $3,000,000 reduction in taxation. Tariff regulated the prices asked by the home manufacturers, and in this way too, this reduction means a lessening of the prices paid by the people to home manufacturers.

Dealing with the Transvaal question Mr. Blair showed up Tupper's political loyalty, telling how Sir Charles Tupper, as Canadian high commissioner in England, had repudiated, in the strongest terms, any obligation on the part of Canada to assist Great Britain if she became involved in war, and he was diametrically opposed to Canada contributing a dollar for this purpose. He asked his hearers if they were not ashamed of the organ of the Conservative party, the St. John Sun.

Mr. Blair closed amid cheers. Sir Louis Davies made a very happy speech referring to the charges against the government by persons whose own hands were not clean. He aroused laughter by referring to Mr. Foster's "moment of weakness" on the prohibition question. Any charges made by Mr. Foster came with bad taste after the ex-finance minister's treachery to his leader, Sir Mackenzie Bowell. The Liberals had given clean and honest government, and he only asked that the three years under Sir Wilfred Laurier be compared with the term of corruption and rascality of the former rule.

On the question of pledges he referred to the promise of the plebiscite on prohibition, and in passing said every bit of temperance legislation on the statute books was made under the Liberal party. On prohibition he said no amount of votes had been designated as necessary, but it is well understood a substantial vote of the people of Canada must be given. The result was twenty-three per cent. of the electorate of Canada voted for prohibition. No thoughtful temperance man would say prohibition could be given on this small vote.

Sir Louis Davies showed that under Liberal rule prosperity was the watchword of the Dominion, and there was more hope in the future and faith in the men now at the head of affairs in Canada. He was heartily applauded.

TO Begin at Once.

Work on the Bridge.

The Bridge tender which was accepted by the company and the Government was that of Albert Brewer of Upper Woodstock. This was the lowest tender and the figures were $27,945. Mr. Brewer was the only competitor from this county, but there were two tenderers from York: one for $28,897, and another $10,000 in excess of this.

The contract is signed and Mr. Brewer proposes beginning operations at once; indeed, there has already arrived at the station here, tools and appliances for beginning the work.

It is expected the bridge will be completed within a year. The first work will be the construction of the shore pier and abutment and work is expected to begin next week.

Auction at Campbell & Nixon's December 23rd.

That Fair.

"It was very interesting and decidedly well worth attending." This is the popular verdict of the "Old Folks Fair" given by the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union last Tuesday and Wednesday. This body of energetic young women are to be congratulated on the unique idea and the manner in which it was carried out. One would hardly think it possible in so small a town as Hartland to procure such a number and variety of quaint, curious, antique articles, the ages of which ranged from 50 to nearly 400 years. The collection consisted of dishes of all kinds, candle sticks, lamps, books, coins, letters, papers, fans, pictures, silverware, jewelry, articles of clothing, in fact, almost everything that can be imagined. Besides these there was a large collection of curios from India, Venice, and other Eastern countries, including sandals, bracelets, gods, pipes, gongs, samples of vegetation, dishes, purses and numerous other articles. All these things were shown and explained by the young ladies who were in attendance.

Following are some of the articles of especial interest: A block of lignum vitae used for stopping a port-hole in the fort at Quebec in 1759 under Gen. Wolfe, a fan that came over in the "Mayflower," a pair of scales over 300 years old, a "Sentinal" of 1854, a pair of apothecary cases of the year 1564, a document signed by Thos. Carleton, the first governor of N. B.

Cake, coffee and homemade candy was for sale, and were liberally partaken of. On Wednesday evening the band was in attendance.

The sum of $18 dollars was realized, which, considering the small admission fee, showed that it was a success financially.

Train Wreckers Captured.

On Friday last a Frenchman named Octave Cariveau was arrested on charge of having placed the obstruction on the track that caused the derailing of the train five miles below Edmundston, on October 19th. Vital Cariveau, a brother of the suspect, attacked the constable who made the arrest, and was himself taken prisoner on this charge. Next day after this a young lad, Larry Bellefleur, gave himself up confessing that he and some other boys placed the obstruction for the fun of seeing the wrecking take place. An examination took place on Monday before Justice Raymond at Edmundston, and the first prisoner was discharged and the boy and Vital Cariveau were remanded.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE.

A Wellknown Widow Brings Suit Against a Prominent Citizen.

Human nature is fickle. As this is evident in a child who will throw away a new toy for a newer one, so it is made manifest by the people of Hartland who all at once forgot the all-exciting fire investigation for a new sensation which came out on Saturday last. Human nature also has other peculiarities, and one of these is its fondness for matters that concern man and woman in the marital relation, be it love, courtship, marriage, divorce—or breach of promise. Of all these various phases probably the latter holds the most interest, and it is just such a case that Hartland possesses all its own.

Ralph Waldo Emerson said that Cupid rarely shot at a mark over 30 years of age, but other authorities claim that the little imp is blind, and this may account for his playing pranks with a callow youth well up in the fifties and a blushing damsel of 63.

Saturday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Foster struck town and plastered the youth with a bailable writ. As the youth is very popular among his fellow-citizens it was not difficult to get two good bailsmen. The story might not have got out, had not the youth esteemed it too good to keep, and straightway told it. To him it seemed that the hills and river, the houses, fences, and the very sidewalk as he gazed at it smiled broadly; the gentle zephyrs giggled and every man, woman and child rudely grinned. So why not treat the matter as a joke? The end may be serious enough.

The Damsel? We know not her emotions.

It seems the youth having all his life been a good deal of a flirt, wooed and was an easier winner of the damsel fair. It is said calculations if not preparations were made for a speedy marriage, but alas! fickle, as man is, the youth said "Nay! Nit! Not!" Hence the suit. The suit is to be tried at the next term of the County Court. The papers are issued by A. B. Connell Q. C., and it is said a prominent legal man from Fredericton will be employed for the defense.

Big public auction in Campbell & Nixon's store December 23rd, afternoon and evening. See handbills for particulars.

The Grand Falls Boom.

For some time the public has heard little of what became known as the "Grand Falls boom," but now there once more looms up on the horizon sufficient evidence of bona fide intentions to give reasons for renewed hope. E. C. Crawford of Boston, who represents a large English syndicate, has been over the timber grounds of the Upper St. John, and has secured options of three sites for a pulp mill. Two are in Quebec and the third is at Grand Falls. Mr. Crawford has an option of the claims of the Company of which Senator Proctor is head, and, while rather reticent as to giving out matter for publication, it was hinted that Grand Falls would be the site chosen. The works are to be of prodigious size, and will use 120,000,000 feet of lumber a year after the first year, when they will use 80,000,000 feet. They will cut their wood on both sides of the St. John in Maine and in Quebec.

If this work as promised goes on it will mean a tremendous impulse to business all along the river.
