THRILLS, THRILLS, THRILLS!

"Girl From God's Country"—is Plumb Full of Them

Plumb full of thrilling moments and tense situations, to say nothing of beautiful snow scenes and animal studies, is Neil Shipman's latest and greatest outdoor production, "The Girl From God's Country." Miss Shipman is star, author and director of the new picture and her combined efforts reveal the highest screen attraction of the year.

Miss Shipman enacts a thrilling battle 6,000 feet in mid-air, depicting a scene where Neeka encounters Otto Kraus, who has tricked her into treason and has secured a formula for making "solidified gasoline," to be used in the trans-Pacific flight by Carlisle, Neeka's real father.

In the battle in mid-air, Neeka's plane is broken and the wing crippled. It looks like sure death for the half-breed girl, but she makes a sensational parachute leap into the ocean and is saved by another plane with the aid of a rope ladder.

Many other thrilling adventures are depicted by Neeka. Her escape from a burning airplane hangar offers a most dramatic scene. "The Girl From God's Country" is released by F. B. Warren Corporation.

Some Very Practical and Timely Hints to Would-be Purchasers of Farm Property.

The most important decision that a farmer is called on to make is the selection of a farm on which to live and earn a living. The judgment used in making the selection of a farm may make or break a man, may tie him up for life to poverty or to wealth. In districts where the soil is uniformly good over a large area and where prosperity is evident on all sides the task is not so great and risky. But in districts where various types and grades of soil exist a poor farm and a good farm may lie side by side. The good farm will no doubt help to sell the poor one, which, by the way, is always for sale. See Your Prospective Farm In July.

Farm purchases are most frequently made during the winter when the opportunity for close examination is least. This should not be so. If farms were purchased on the basis of the crop showing during the month of July there would be fewer regrets. If a man contemplates purchasing a farm in a district where he has lived for a long period, he will know the soil and district conditions. Knowing conditions the purchaser will have over his money with his eyes wide open; if he does not know conditions in the district he will be handing over his money with his eyes closed and must depend upon the honesty of some one else. Purchasers of farms are advised to live and work in the district of their choice for at least a year before investing heavily.—L. Stevenson, Secretary Dep., Agriculture, Toronto.

Woman's Greatest Achievement.

Fifty years ago this month the steamer Meteor off Thunder Bay Island in Lake Huron. Her cargo of copper grew vastly more valuable as years went on, and many were the adventures who dreamed of salvaging it and sought to put their dreams into action. What these male adventurers failed to achieve was left to a woman to accomplish. She is Mrs. Margaret Campbell Goodman, the only woman in the world in this deep sea salvage business. Mrs. Goodman, who is a daughter of the late John Burdett Campbell, a scion of a Scottish family, is described as "a trifle over five feet and slender and delicate of physique," but in courage and perseverance she is quite gigantic. It took three years of employment of these remarkable qualities to bring success in her first effort at salvage, but success came at last. With the raising of the first load of copper from a vessel submerged over half a century came the breaking of a world record in deep water salvage and the climax of a story that bordered on legend.

Zinc Deposits In Canada.

It has been stated that Canada could easily increase its production of zinc to supply one-tenth of the world's demand, which is estimated at over 1,000,000 tons annually. The Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. is planning a 10,000-ton concentrator at Kimberley, British Columbia, to handle the output of milling from the Sullivan Mine, and it is expected that this unit will be ultimately increased to 20,000 tons a day.

Queen's Record.

Of the higher institutions of learning in Canada, Queen's University easily takes the lead in the number of its women graduates.

Miller's Worm Powders attack worms in the stomach and intestines at once, and no worm can come in contact with them and live. They also correct the unhealthy conditions in the digestive organs that invite and encourage worms, setting up reactions that are most beneficial to the system. They have been tested their power in hundreds of cases and at all times are thoroughly trustworthy.

DIARRHOEA IN FOALS

Scours Causes Many Losses Annually Among Young Colts.

Symptoms Described and Timely Treatment Suggested.—Laudanum and Castor Oil a Good Remedy.—Preparing for Gardening.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The occurrence of Scours in foals is responsible for a considerable part of the losses among them during the earlier periods of their lives. It often makes its appearance within a few days after birth, without any apparent cause. Among the various causes responsible may be mentioned too long intervals being allowed between the suckling periods, as is often the case when the dam is being worked and the foal allowed to suck only during the mornings, noon, and evenings, and when the foal is hungry the milk is swallowed rapidly and in excessive quantities. Another frequent cause is the foal sucking the mare after she has been over-exerted, or while she is in an overheated condition, and the udder has become filled with milk in which there may be an excess of the products of tissue waste, drained from the system.

Artificial feeding is also another cause, as in the case of foals being fed on cow's milk.

It may also result from the indiscriminate use of physic medicines.

The milk of the dam is also materially affected by the nature of the diet, and sudden changes from one kind of food to another cause a variation in the milk, which tends to derange the stomach of the foal.

There are also other predisposing factors, such as exposure to cold rains and the keeping of the young animal in a damp, unwholesome stable and especially where the floors are filthy and wet, owing to lack of drainage.

In addition to the foregoing, there are also some infectious agents (disease germs) which cause a very fatal form of scours or dysentery in foals. Symptoms.—When the foal is affected with scours, the symptoms may be first preceded by a constipated condition, which, however, is soon followed by the passage of liquid matter. The discharges at first appear soft and slimy and have often a peculiar, offensive odor. The tail and hips become soaked and covered with the discharges, which, in severe cases, become more frequent and very watery. The foal then rapidly loses condition and becomes very weak, and the belly becomes tender. If not arrested, the condition may prove fatal in from two to ten days.

Treatment and Prevention.—As a means to prevention, the first consideration should be the avoidance of the various causes which have been mentioned. The foal should be protected from exposure to cold rains and storms. The stable should be maintained in a good, dry, and clean condition, and plenty of dry bedding provided in the stall occupied by the foal. In cases where the foal is being fed on cow's milk, it should be modified to suit by the addition of about one-third water and sufficient sugar to make it sweet to the taste.

In cases where the dam is being worked and the foal having access to her only during mornings, noon, and evenings, care should be exercised to prevent it, when hungry and the stomach empty, from sucking the milk too rapidly and in excessive quantities. If the dam has been over-exerted and become over-heated, some of the milk should be withdrawn by hand from the udder before allowing the foal to commence sucking.

The nature of the treatment employed in affected foals is to some extent governed by the origin of the trouble, so that the cause should be ascertained if possible.

With the exception of those cases which have resulted from the improper use of physic medicines, it is usually best to begin treatment by giving a teaspoonful of laudanum, combined with two ounces of castor oil and a pinch of cayenne. A teaspoonful of prepared chalk and powdered catechu may be given in a cupful of boiled milk or flour gruel every four or five hours, until the movements of the bowels become more regular.

Another common remedy is a tablespoonful of lime water and a teaspoonful of laudanum, given in a little boiled milk, repeated every four hours as required.

When the foal is in a weakened condition, its strength should be kept up by means of an egg beaten up with several ounces of the mother's milk, and poured carefully into the mouth, and repeated at intervals of several hours, as may appear necessary. The foal should in all cases be kept warm and comfortable until better. If the foregoing measures are not effective in checking the condition within a reasonable time, special veterinary treatment may be necessary.—C. D. McGilvray, M.D.V., President Ont. Vet. College, Toronto.

Preparing for Gardening.

This month begins the active gardening work. Hot-beds should be made, and the seed of the early plants like cabbages, cauliflower, early celery, early beets, and the long season plants like tomatoes, egg plants and peppers should be started. Many of these seeds for small gardening work may be started inside which will relieve the necessity of making hot-beds until the first part of next month. Manure for top-dressing the ground may be hauled out the latter part of this month.

Put spraying machine into good condition, and test it.

Keep plant aphids in check by using some tobacco preparation.
