"What impresses me about Basic Slag is the type of farmers using it"

This remark was recently made by a good Ontario farmer who had asked for the names of some users. He was furnished with the names of several first-class, practical farmers in Ontario who have had many years' experience with BASIC SLAG, as well as other goods now offered in competition. Being personally acquainted with some of these users he communicated with them, and their replies were so favorable that he immediately ordered a carload for his own use.

The users of BASIC SLAG, in most cases, are the outstanding farmers in their respective communities, many of them known from coast to coast. If you cannot be guided by their good judgment, then why not make a trial on your own account and get to know why these men prefer BASIC SLAG to any other goods.

Let us have your name, and we will gladly mail you some interesting literature.

Creonoid (Fly Oil)
Lice Destroyer and Cow Spray

Thousands of dollars are lost to Canadian farmers every year because of flies and lice. Flies put horses "off their feed" and reduce the milk yield from cows. Lice keep hogs from fattening and hens from laying.

You need no longer put up with these money-wasting pests. Creonoid is a quick remedy and a sure preventive.

Because of its low cost, Creonoid can be used freely. It is easy to apply and pays for itself many times over in the increased profits that result from its use.

How to Use Creonoid

Horses and Cows (for flies): Spray the animals with Creonoid at frequent intervals during the fly season, using a Creonoid Sprayer (or any sprayer that throws a fine spray). Also spray the inside of stalls and cow stables. This will keep flies away. To prevent their breeding, spray manure piles and other breeding places freely with Creonoid.

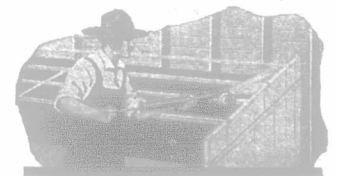

Hogs (for lice): Spray animals and thoroughly paint rubbing posts with Creonoid. Also spray wallows and around swill barrels. A few applications will positively destroy all traces of lice.

Poultry (for lice): Spray roosts, nests and interior woodwork of poultry house. Do not spray Creonoid directly upon the chickens.

As a Rat Exterminator: Rats and mice give Creonoid a wide berth. Spray runways and under floors and these rodents will quickly disappear.

Creonoid comes all ready for use in 1, 5 and 10 gallon cans, 1/2 barrels and barrels.

If your dealer cannot supply you, write us and we will.
