"REPORTER"

Basket Pic-Nic and Excursion.

OUR SUBSCRIBERS' FREE OUTING.

The editor and proprietor of the Farmersville Reporter, feeling under obligation to his friends and patrons, for their sympathy and support, since he re-commenced publishing the paper, and wishing to show in some degree his appreciation of the uniform kindness with which his efforts have been received, has organized a basket pic-nic and excursion to Charleston Lake, on Tuesday, Sept. the 7th. The Lily Nicholson has been chartered for the day and will leave the Outlet at 9 a.m., sharp, arriving at Charleston at 10 a.m. The Farmersville Village Band have generously placed their services at our disposal for the day, and Lewis King, proprietor of the Lake-view House on King's Island, has consented to allow the party the use of the grounds, house, and dining hall, for the comfort and convenience of those attending. Arrangements have been made with a number of express drivers, to convey parties from Farmersville to the lake and return for 25cts the round trip. Every subscriber to the Reporter who wishes to attend will be given two tickets good on the steamer, free; those not subscribers who pay for a year's subscription will also be given two tickets, and all others will be given tickets good for the day for 25cts each. These tickets can be procured at the Reporter office or at the Charleston wharf on the day of the pic-nic. The following programme will be carried out as nearly as possible. The village band will marshal in front of the Reporter office at 9 a.m., sharp, and parties from the village wishing to go on the express wagons will require to be on hand promptly at that hour. On arriving at Charleston the steamer will take 50 persons at a trip to the island, and make trips every half hour until all are taken over. Parties from the surrounding country need have no fear of being left behind if they reach the lake before 11:30. Arriving at the island, each company will make their some of the express drivers have if necessary.

PERSONAL COLUMN.

Our friends will greatly oblige by communicating contributions to this column.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McGuire and Mrs.
J. P. Lamb are spending a few days at Massena Springs.

Miss M. Boyd, music teacher, late a pupil at Toronto, and at the Pittsburg, Pa. Conservatory of Music, has taken rooms at B. Loverin's, and is organizing a large piano-class.

D. Fisher, left this Wednesday morning for Toronto, where he goes as one of the delegates from the Montreal Conference to the General Conference of the Methodist church, now in session in that city. Mr. Fisher expects to be gone about two weeks.
He will be joined by Mrs. Fisher the middle of next week.

A BRIDAL PAIR,

Who were going to be sensible, but whose endeavors in that line proved a miserable failure.

Just before Mr. Eckson and his wife started on their bridal tour Eckson said: "We want to show people that all newly married people are not silly."

"Yes, we do, Henry."

"Now, when we get on the train let us not pay any attention to each other."

"All right."

"We'll lean apart from each other and act as if we had been married for years, won't we?"

"Yes, Oh, I'll tell you what would be the funniest idea in the world, Henry. We'll take different seats, and after a while we'll get acquainted.
Won't that be nice?"

"First-class, splendid."

When they boarded the train they took opposite seats. Henry took up a newspaper and Mollie looked at the wondering landscape. After a while Henry looked up and saw the conductor sitting with Mollie. Henry chuckled. "Thanks she's in love with him, I reckon," the bridegroom mused. "Believe I'll go forward and take a smoke."

His cigar must have been unsatisfactory, for he soon threw it away and resumed his seat opposite his wife.

The conductor was telling her an amusing story and Mollie was laughing gleefully. She did not even look at her husband.

"This is playing a little too fine," Henry mused. "I like to see good acting, but she acts a little too well."

The train stopped at the station, and the conductor got up and went out, but returned immediately, and again sat by Mollie. Just then a young woman came along and asked Henry if she could share his seat. He gladly consented, musing that he could play even with his wife. A few moments later, while he was talking, he saw, with a swiftest thrill of revenge, that his wife was looking at him. At the next station the woman got off the train, and when the conductor went out Henry sat down by Mollie.

"I don't know what you want to sit here for," she snapped. "Why didn't you get off the train with—"

"What do you want to talk that way for, precious?"

"Precious nothing. Go on, I don't want you here."

"I suppose you would rather talk to the conductor?"

"I'd rather talk to anybody that will treat me with respect."

"Now, darling—"

"Darling nothing. I'm going to get off the train and go home, that's what I'm going to do. I'm not going to live with you, that's what I ain't, and when you asks me why, I'm going to tell him that you did not treat me with respect. You don't love me, and never did. You used to let on like you did, but you even don't do that any more."

"Mollie—"

"Mollie nothing. Go on, I don't want you here."

"Now don't be foolish. You know how you carried on with the conductor.
Never saw him before, either."

"The mischief I haven't. He's my uncle. I was going to introduce you to him, but I didn't want him to know that we were married until just before we got off the train."

"What?"

"Won't you forgive me?"

"I ought not to, you are so mean."
"I was jealous and—"
"Jealous?"
"Yes."
"I didn't know you loved me enough to be jealous."
"But I do. Don't you love me just a little?"
"Yes, more than you do me."
"No."
"No, you don't, precious."
"Yes, I do, darling."
"If these people were not looking I'd kiss you, Henry, after a short silence, remarked:
"It's none of your business."
"Put your head on my shoulder.
There."
He put his arm around her and, when he thought that no one was looking, kissed her.
"You love me?" she asked.
"I adore you."
"You make me awful happy."
"You will live with me won't you?"
"Yes, always. We like the old-fashioned bridal tour the best, don't we?"
"Yes."
"And we don't care how many people are looking, do we?"
"No."
"And if they don't like it, they can get off the train, can't they?"

thirty-five, with $2,000,000 to look after.

Capt. David Buskirk, the largest Bloomington last Thursday. He was seven feet tall in his stockings and weighed 400 pounds.

One of the sights in British Columbia until recently, was a Chinaman carrying Her Majesty's mail at the other end.

The Indians around Dirlle are said to be excelling the white settlers in that locality in farming. The first barley and wheat of this season were marketed by red men.

A St. Louis Chinaman has been found dead in his laundry. As there is no mark of violence on his person, it is believed he must have inadvertently left a window open and incau-tiously breathed some fresh air.

An example of what Manitoba can do in the way of root-growing was furnished by a farmer, who brought into Minnesota a load of cabbage, turnips, beets, cucumbers, tomatoes, and four different varieties of potatoes.

As a result of Sir John Macdonald's visit to the North-west, the Manitoba, the Winnipeg organ of the Government, says that inside of six weeks permission will be given to hotel-keepers and others in the North-West Territories to sell beer and all kinds of light wines.

Robert McBeth, who died at Winnipeg recently at the age of 83 years, is perhaps the last of the settlers who came over with Selkirk in 1815. He was a member of the council of Assiniboia before the creation of the Province of Manitoba. Mr. John Mc-Beth, a member of the Manitoba Legislature, and Mr. G. McBeth, of Winnipeg, are his sons.

A citizen of Waco, Tex., had a remarkable experience one day recently.

He went to visit his mother, who is nearly 90 years old, in a neighboring town, but found she had eloped with a man half her age. On his return home he was met with the startling information that his own wife had eloped with a handsomer man. He has now sold out and gone to Utah.

Rev. Irvine H. Cornell sends a report from Yokohama, Japan, describing his missionary work in April last.
During that month he preached 39 times to an aggregate of at least 8, 000 persons; travelled about 780 miles, 125 of them on foot; baptized 63 persons, and received 41 of them into full fellowship. Good people should remember men like these when they see a dandy little minister gadding along the church aisle, to the music of the organ, and give freely to their support.

Otto H. Bowman, who died at the hospital in Bridgeport, Conn., one day last week, was kept alive for twelve years by hypodermic injections of morphia. For the nineteen months he had been at the hospital it is estimated that his skin was punctured over two thousand times in order to perform the operation, and the amount of sulphate of morphia was the amount it used. It is estimated that in the last twelve years his skin was punc-tured over seven thousand times, and there was scarcely a spot on his whole body where the marks of the hypodermic needle could not be seen.

Thomas Hurley, who has received

There was a dance at N. Earls' (H.
Crippen's brick maker,) last Friday night. It is reported that there was plenty of whiskey and some of the "young gentlemen got drunk." Now, the question is, where was the whiskey got? as none of the hotel-keepers in this section of the country keep it.

The farmers have nearly done harvesting and report having very good crops. Some have stacked and say that the grain is turning out well.
The threshers say that the grain has been got in in a good condition.
Some of the farmers have purchased binders this season and are cutting grain for their neighbors. It is a great saving of labor.

One of the railroad laborers boarding at J. W. Halladay's had occasion to get up last Sunday morning about 3 o'clock, and not being thoroughly awake mistook an open window for a door, and fell a distance of twelve feet.
In his descent he broke a lower window cutting his foot and ankle so badly, that Dr. Sinclair had to put in a number of stitches. He was badly bruised in other parts of his body.
The doctor gave him a good bathing with Lamb's L.L.L., and says it is the best thing for sprains, bruises &c., that he knows of.

For the past week there has been a great deal of dissatisfaction on the railroad, owing to the men not getting their money on the 15th inst. It seems that the contractors have had some trouble in getting the cash and did not get it until last Friday and Saturday, when they paid the men less 10 per cent. It caused a good deal of excitement. There were groups of men all along the line, discussing the state of affairs, declaring that they would not accept the cash on those terms, but the railroad contractors paid them off, giving them due bills for the balance. A man by the name of Michael swore that he would have the whole of his pay or he would sue the contractors.
They had some words, which ended in their having a clinch. Some of the bystanders parted them, when the Italian contractor pulled out his revolver at Michael. The crowd interfered and stopped the fight. Michael has got out a warrant for the Italian contractor's arrest.

Mr. Alfred Kerr leaves for Mallory-

A very pleasant gathering took
