

FOUR KILLED, ONE INJURED.

Men Meet With Terrible Death by Scalding Steam.

Defective Pipe in Steamer Brockville Gave Way.

The Victims Were in Hold of the Vessel at the Time.

ADOLPH CHAVAGEAU, aged 22, single, fireman on steamer Brockville, Champlain, Que.

OCTAVE COTE, aged 23, single, fireman, Champlain, Que.

BURNEAU PANTEN, chief engineer, aged 35, married, Champlain, Que., badly burned and scalded.

WILLIAM GOUDIN, Sorel, Que., greaser, aged 25, married, badly scalded.

Toronto, May 11.—Four men are dead as the result of the bursting of a defective pipe in the boiler of the steamer Brockville on Saturday afternoon, while another member of the crew was seriously scalded, but will recover.

On Saturday afternoon about 2.30 o'clock the steamer Brockville was lying at the foot of Bathurst street. She belongs to the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co. and was to have left Toronto for Kingston on May 26, the intention of the company being that she should ply between that city and Prescott.

The boiler and fittings were being tested under the direction of the chief engineer, Burneau Panten. A defective six-inch circulation pipe gave way under the head of steam and the vapor spread first into the firehole and thence into the fire pit, where the men were at work, in its passage blowing out the fires.

The men dived for the hold, and in spite of the deadly clouds of steam soon had the four men on deck, two dead, and two alive, but frightfully scalded.

The bodies of Cote and Chavagueau were taken to the morgue, and Panten and Goudin were hurried to Grace Hospital. Here Goudin was plunged into a boracic acid bath, and Panten was wrapped in picric acid bandages, but the two men were too seriously injured for any remedy.

Fred Charboneau was taken to Grace Hospital in a cab. He said that Goudin, Panten and he were standing in the engine room, when there was an explosion, and they were all enveloped in scalding steam.

"I had to fight my way through the engine room to the companionway, and I thought at one time I should never make it. Fortunately I did not swallow as much steam as the other men. Charboneau's back and limbs are badly scalded, but little hope is entertained of his recovery.

The men below had no warning of what was coming. W. Busnell, one of the crew on deck, heard a low rumbling, almost imperceptibly at first, towards steam began to ooze out of the companionways and through every crevice. The ship was black with cinders blown by the force of the steam out of the firebox.

The steamer Brockville was little damaged, a hundred dollars' worth of repairs covering the loss in that respect. The accident was not a boiler explosion, or the steamer would have been wrecked, but the crumpling of a defective pipe under pressure.

Tells a Graphic Story. Fred Charboneau, second engineer of the Brockville, lies in Room 8, ward B, of Grace Hospital. His back is one burning sore, and his blackened face is peeling under its mask of glistening oils.

"Know about the accident," said he, "All I know is that there was a sound of a joint blowing, and the whole ship became one white, scalding mist of steam. I was bending down looking at a joint. Poor Panten, Cote, Chavagueau and Goudin were standing in a ring around me. I had just said to Bourget, the electrician of the boat, 'Get out of here; there are too many of us already. We won't try the dynamo to-day.' He thought I was serious, and he is alive now. The second engineer had gone to get a spanner. He was over the smoke box a second before. That spanner saved him. I heard a hiss, as if a joint had blown out. Then the smoke box door burst open, and we were all lost in a great white cloud. I said, 'It's time to get out,' and moved for the companionway, shutting my mouth and eyes. That saved me. Fougere, a fireman, ran to the stairs in front of me and got off without a tingling of the skin. He's all right, and I took all his and my own on the back. I went back and sat on the deck, but the steam would not let me breathe there, and I got off on to the dock. I looked up in a few minutes and saw a man coming, walking weakly. I didn't know him. He groaned and spat. Then I saw it was our chief. Man, it was horrible! He was foiled, boiled right through. His eyes looked like a sick fish's; he breathed and spat steam; was boiled inside, boned down, his lungs were boiled. Goudin came up next and sat down on the other side of me. They had never lost consciousness, and they were boiled. I began to think I was dead, too, as I sat between them and waited for the ambulance. I didn't want to come up here, for to see them again was more than I could bear. I got off easy. I can scarcely believe I'm alive yet after what I saw down there."

Coroner Orr will open the inquest on the four bodies at the morgue this morning.

To Report on the Accident. Mr. John Dodds, Government Boiler Inspector, started last night that he had not been on board of the steamer

KEPT PRISONER.

HILDA WHITE WAS LOCKED IN A ROOM AND STARVED.

She Made Her Escape—Father Believed She Was Trying to Poison Him—Claims That She Put Arsenic in His Food.

Toronto, May 11.—Out on the Eglinton road, in York township, a pitiable state of affairs has been brought to light by the arrest of Hilda White, the young woman found wandering about the southern part of the city in naive attire and who has been sent to jail for mental examination.

For eighteen long months this young woman was kept alone in a little room of the but in which she lived with her father, George White, a market gardener, because her parent labored under the delusion his daughter was plotting to poison him by administering arsenic in his food. At this time the poor girl had hardly enough food to live on, for days she would be compelled to go with hungry aching. There was no one in the room, the unfortunate young woman having to spend the nights on a few articles of wearing apparel thrown in by her father, who for the past year and a half spoke but a few words with his daughter, he believing that she was in collusion with others in the neighborhood to destroy him, for the past two winters the young woman lived in this little room without tier, only one means of exit was through the window, and, as one neighbor described her getting in and out, she was as lively as a cat.

It is firmly held by the belief that his house and land are infested with some strange moving and talking persons was made clear when he occurred an unknown family by the name of Clark in the neighborhood were acting in concert with murderers and causing the clock and his dog to speak to him. He had the impression the members of the Clark family had gained this strange knowledge because they were ventriloquists. His daughter, he said, had often told him of hearing these strange voices too, and he believed the reason for the hovering of the spirits about his house was because of his politics.

The Clarks, he said, had orders from the Premier of Ontario to destroy him. His daughter, he said, was under the influence of this family, and she had plotted to poison him.

SHE MURDERED CHILDREN.

Human Tings Narrowly Escaped Lynching in France.

Nancy, France, May 9.—Jeanne Weber narrowly escaped lynching here today at the hands of an infuriated mob after it had been learned that she had strangled a seven-year-old boy to death. Several months ago the Weber woman was arrested in Paris, charged with the murder of over a score of children.

Doctors who examined her expressed the belief that she was a victim of insanitary mania, but no proof to secure a conviction could be found and she was allowed to go. The woman arrived here Wednesday, and under an assumed name secured lodgings in the home of a workman. This morning she was found asleep with the dead body of a boy by her side. The child had been strangled. He was covered with blood, and his tongue had been cut out.

When the identity of the murders had been ascertained an immense crowd gathered outside the house, shouting "Let us get at the tigress," and tried to lynch her. The police arrested the woman, but they were forced to fight their way to jail with their prisoner.

CASTORIA.

James Wells Passed One Bad Cheque at Guelph. Guelph, May 9.—The Guelph police last night at a late hour arrested a foreigner named Jas. Wells at his home on Woolwich street. He made two different attempts to put through cheques forged on the name of the Bank of Montreal. One of the cheques was for $26, drawn by H. H. Herdon, supposed to be of Galt, in his own favor. This he gave to an Italian, who tried to pass it on a fellow-countryman, a store-keeper named Tentasint. The police were later notified and Wells was taken at his home.

He pleaded guilty this morning and was remanded for sentence. He is a married man with three children, and a gas fitter by trade.

FOWLER HITS THE MACHINE.

Tory Muck Rake Stirs Up Dirty Tory Methods

And Rank and File Cheer Him Vociferously.

More Ottawa Speakers in the Ontario Campaign.

George Fowler, of "wine, women and graft" fame, addressing a Conservative meeting on Saturday night, said some things about unpopular candidates and machine politics that must have made the ears of the party bosses tingle. It is evident that Leader Borden's chief muck rake does not keep in touch with politics as conducted by the big wigs of the Tory party in Hamilton, or he would have carefully avoided the subject. Just a week before, in the Sun Life headquarters, where Mr. Fowler described "machine methods" on Saturday night, the local "machine" foisted on the convention J. J. Scott, K. C., as candidate for East Hamilton, amid one of the most emphasized demonstrations of disapproval in the history of the party in Hamilton.

Fowler was using the harpoon on Hon. Dr. Pugsley when he gave the local start a jolt about the "machines." He said that in 1895, after nominating Dr. Pugsley, he had gone stumping with him, but the meetings were frosts. "If you want a candidate who is going to win, he must be agreeable to the rank and file," said Mr. Fowler, and the rank and file, who are strongly machine-political, a week ago against Scott's nomination, applauded. Continuing, the speaker said: "I must say to those of you who are leaders of the party in this city of Hamilton, to turn your face determinedly against any such thing as coercion, against any such thing as machine politics. We are a democratic people, a free people. The humblest man in the party has just as much right to say his mind as the man higher up." Although the party bosses looked rather embarrassed while Mr. Fowler delivered this advice, the rank and file applauded enthusiastically.

"If you want your party to be successful and win you cannot fail to meet the desires and wishes of the men of the party," he added. "You might say that it is on the men who do not take a very active part in the party, and who are lights, that in a large measure success depends, for it is that work which wins and not speeches from the platform."

Mr. Fowler endorsed the ward heilers. "Some reproach is found against ward heilers," he said. "Let me tell you that the party that has not heilers, and heilers go out and talk to their neighbors day by day and try to get their vote, that party is not going to win many elections."

Mayor Stewart and Sam Barker wore their election smiles. The former presided. For reason the doctor would not go to the platform.

Dr. Roche Talks.

Dr. Roche, from the west, started the ball rolling. A brief reference to the history of the party system of government, a confession that the history of Canadian politics brought a blush of shame to the cheek of a home-made man, and then the doctor pointed on the "thin red line." He referred to the Government as "an aggregation of autocratic politicians at Ottawa."

Training his battery on Sir Wilfrid Laurier he declared the Premier was as good as preaching free trade as practising protection.

But it was the new Aylesworth bill that aroused the talkative doctor's ire. This he characterized as the "crowing inquiry" by which it was hoped to strangle the voice of the people. For Sir Wilfrid, Dr. Roche expressed some hope that he "would see the error of his way and would see this inquiry on the west." But for Mr. Aylesworth he expressed no hope. The latter he remarked would resort to anything to strike a political opponent. The doctor pointed on Dr. Roche said, to steal Manitoba for the Liberals. With a sidelong glance at Fowler he deplored the fact that morality was never at so low an ebb and observed that grafters were as thick as flies around a honey pot. The doctor wound up with a little pat on the back for Sam Barker and a prediction that Borden was going to win.

Defends Much Raking.

Mr. Fowler lost no time in launching into a defence of the muckrake brigade. "We of the Opposition," he said, "have been charged with being muck-rakers. That term has been applied to us by that higher-minded organization, the Liberal press. Much raking is a very decent and honorable occupation, but even if it were otherwise, if we were to plead guilty, this Government must plead guilty to the greater crime of providing the muck for us to rake. The speaker recalled his auditors with extracts from the report of the Civil Service Commission's report. The Government in appointing this commission, he said, had made the mistake of appointing honest men, but it was not likely to do that again. He had no objection against Judge Cassels being a man of honest and integrity. That might be true. He had no doubt it was, but why had the Government, in appointing a second commission to probe in the department of Marine and Fisheries, appointed Mr. Perron, of Quebec, for many years a business partner of the late Raymond Prefontaine, junior counsel. The latter was being asked to probe into many transactions in which he himself had no doubt been concerned."

Fowler as a Preacher. The crowd chuckled when Mr. Fowler, after painting a rather picture of the prospects of the Conservatives carrying the country, predicting that it would get a third of the representation from Quebec and change a Liberal majority of seventeen in the Maritime Provinces into five of a Conservative majority, assumed a sanctimonious attitude and launched into a sermon on the sacredness of the ballot.

"It is not preached into us as much as it should be from the pulpit," he said, "and in that respect many of the clergymen are, to my mind, at fault, because they do not preach to their congregations the sacredness of the ballot."

Both Dr. Roche and Mr. Fowler intimated that a course of obstruction would be pursued unless the Aylesworth bill was dropped, and that they would fight it so long that the members would not be able to get away to the Quebec celebration this summer.

ON PALESTINE.

E. H. Chart, of Guelph, to Christians.

Mr. E. H. Chart, of Guelph, spoke before a fair sized Christadelphian congregation last evening in the Canadian Oddfellows' Hall on "Palestine." He divided his topic into three parts, "Vanished glory," "Present Degradation" and "Future exaltation." In God's dealing with the Hebrews, he said, is evidence of the veracity of the eternal. We live in a time when a scoffing world looks up to ridicule the miracles of the Bible. Moses prophesied a time when the Lord would bring a nation against the Hebrews from afar, a time when Jerusalem would be besieged at all of its gates and the Lord would scatter his chosen people among the peoples of another tongue all over the world. The Romans besieged Palestine and 3,000,000 Hebrews collected within its gates soon ran out of provisions, and the city was swept out. 1,600,000 perished. The captive Hebrews were put on sale at the slave markets, but no one would buy them and then they were put in ships and sent to Egypt. They have no flag, no country to which they can appeal for protection. But if there will come when other people shall bow to the Hebrews, Jerusalem will be the metropolis of the world, and Christ will appear to make Jerusalem the greatest kingdom. Zion's King will reign supreme though all the world resist him.

CLOVE HIS ENEMY'S HETED.

Murderer Chased His Victim Through Streets of New York.

New York, May 9.—Alphonso Dichina was killed by Sabino Malino in Jersey City this afternoon as he fled through a crowded street in an attempt to elude the man who sought his life. Malino was close behind and at almost every stride he brought a keen edged hatchet down on Dichina's back. The crowd in the street gave the men a clear passage, and Dichina managed to keep the lead police officer known as Little Pete was reached after a chase of several minutes. There Malino cornered him and brought the hatchet down on his head, splitting his skull. Malino was captured. The men are said to have quarrelled over a woman.

St. Catharines, May 9.—Frank, the seven-year-old son of Edward Hartley, wandered away from home at Merrittton yesterday, and has not since been seen. He was last noticed climbing over a fence and a search party found his hat and handkerchief close to the water's edge. The level between locks nine and ten was dragged all night, but not till 10 o'clock to-day were their efforts rewarded by the finding of the body not far from the spot where the little fellow was last seen.

Fred Robinson, a Horse Trainer, Killed at St. Thomas.

St. Thomas, May 10.—Fred Robinson, horse trainer, was almost instantly killed in the yards of the Pere Marquette Railway on Saturday afternoon. When the train was being shunted the steel moved, and Robinson was caught between it and the end of the car, with such force as to terribly crush his head and body. He died a few minutes later. Dr. Gueffé had decided an inquest unnecessary. Robinson was 35 years of age, unmarried, an Englishman and has no relatives in this country.

600 IDLE AT OWEN SOUND.

C. P. R. FREIGHT BUSINESS COMPLETELY TIED UP.

Men Taken From Toronto Desert the Company as Soon as They Get There—Attempt to Unload Steamer Dundee Had to Be Abandoned.

Owen Sound, May 10.—There were few developments in the strike situation to-day. It is estimated that with the three hundred men who are out on strike and the three hundred more men which the Canadian Pacific brought up from the west, the strikers there are now about six hundred men idle, nearly half of whom are in needy circumstances and are being fed at the expense of the town. The 3.10 train for Toronto yesterday afternoon was boarded by over, seventy freight at the local boat sheds, but no one was being taken through to Toronto, not one of them having the price of a ticket. At Chatsworth they declined to move from the smoking car, which is a complication of the baggage car, for fear that if they look another car they would be left on the siding. They were an orderly crowd, however, and they were taken through.

Last evening the Northern Navigation Company's steamer, Germanic was not permitted to take on or leave off freight at the local boat sheds, but no interference was made with her at her company's warehouse or at the Grand Trunk dock, where the scale is seventeen cents an hour and over.

This morning the C. P. R. liner Manitoba arrived in. She was at Owen Sound, but no attempt was made either to unload her or the steamer Athabasca, though Sunday has always been one of the busiest days in the C. P. R. through freight sheds.

Yesterday afternoon the company attempted to get a settlement by making the proposition to increase the wages of the men to thirteen cents an hour, with the two cents bonus for a fortnight's notice to quit, and fourteen cents for Sunday and night work, with the bonus; also a flat rate of twenty cents an hour on coal and grain. The Toronto contingents to be taken back to the city or elsewhere as was desired. The proposition was submitted to Mayor Kennedy, as an intermediary, but after a brief consultation with the men the offer was declined in favor of the terms already agreed to by the men, the restoration of last year's rate and the return of the strikers on the pay roll. To strengthen their position the men have made an offer to the Toronto contingent to give them half their pay until they are able to get out of town.

DID NOT HURT THE FRUIT.

Storm in Niagara District—Prospects for Plentiful Crop.

St. Catharines, May 9.—For two hours this afternoon hail and rain fell in torrents, and the atmosphere was quite cold. Beyond flooding all the low places no great damage was done. Fruit was not injured. The trees are just about to bloom, but until the blossoms and leaves are out little damage can be done them. Growers are still quite jubilant over the conditions. Early symptoms of a large crop are more than realized by the enormous number of buds which are now plainly visible in every portion of the district.

Joint Representative of Canada and Newfoundland.

Ottawa, May 10.—Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, will be the joint representative of Canada and Newfoundland on the Hague tribunal to settle the Atlantic fisheries disputes with the United States. Newfoundland has concurred in the Dominion Government's proposal that Sir Charles represent both the Island colony and Canada at The Hague, and the British Government has just sanctioned his appointment to the tribunal. The United States member of the tribunal has not yet been announced.

Mr. R. X. Venning, Assistant Commissioner of the Fisheries, will probably accompany Sir Charles to The Hague to assist in the presentation of the Canadian case.

Toronto's First Drowning.

Toronto, May 11.—The first drowning fatality of the season occurred at Hanlan's Point on Saturday afternoon. From a dingy, in which he was crossing the bay with a friend, Gordon C. Laidlaw, aged 19, a clerk, living at 716 Palmerston avenue, fell into the water. He was wearing oilskins, which weighed him down, and although he struggled, he could not keep his head above the surface. His friend, Arthur Williams, a young man of the same age, in reaching out to save him overturned the boat, but was rescued.

Take one Cascaret just as soon as you know that you need it.

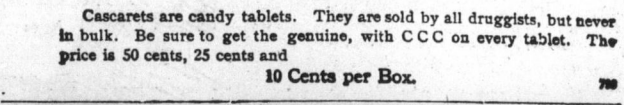

Then you won't need a purgative. It is an easy and pleasant way to keep well.

This is the day of the gentle in medicine. The cathartic pill is old-fashioned. Salts and castor oil belong to grandmother's time. The modern doctor deals mildly. Cascarets are effective, yet gentle. They don't irritate or gripe. They don't, like cathartics, waste the digestive fluids.

Cascarets do only what some foods will do, what some fruits will do, what exercise does for the bowels. Their action is natural, not artificial. If you live out-of-doors, exercise a great deal, and avoid rich foods, you don't need them. Otherwise you do.

The most helpful laxative ever devised is Cascaret. Then, they are candy tablets, pleasant to take. Then, they are convenient. The ten-cent box fits the vest pocket or the lady's purse. That is a vital point. The time to take a laxative is the minute you suspect that you need it. Don't wait till you get home; don't wait till night. One Cascaret, taken promptly, wards off trouble.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The price is 50 cents, 25 cents and 10 Cents per Box.
