On motion the Council adjourned: A VENERABLE PAIR. An Unusual Memorial Service in the North Street Methodist Church.

On Sunday evening last the Rev. John Wakefield, pastor of the North Street Methodist Church, preached a memorial sermon to a very large audience for Mr. John Bruce and John Blake, two of the from Acts xiii, 36. From this he clearly set forth God's view of the life and death of David by showing (1) The true aim of life, and (2) The proper view of death. At the close of the sermon Mr. Wakefield made the following references to the life and death of the departed: John Bruce was born in the County of

His father's house was thrown open to the itinerant Methodist preacher, and from their lips John, when but a lad, was accustomed to hear the Word of Life He was not, however, savingly converted to the the man the man that the man th to God tall his 26th year. Then a deep and blessed change passed over Reform battle at the coming election. every part of his being, which continued till the day of his death. The Church soon recognized his deep piety and con-

the Township of Caven, where his name is still as ointment poured forth. Here for a long time he was the efficient leader of two classes, and his labors there for the blessed Master will not soon be forgotten. For the last 13 years he has lived in the Country of Huron and sight lived in the County of Huron, and eight of these in the Town Goderich. Here his dust sleeps in sure and certain hope of a glorious resurrection from the dead at the last great day.

INTELLIGENCE

His sufferings for sometime before his death were very severe and constant, yet no murmur escaped his lips, and his faith never for one moment lost its firm hold on Jesus Christ as a sufficient atone-ment for human guilt. In this faith he lived, and in this faith he triumphantly died. "He was a good man, and full of faith and of the Holy Ghost." I count it an honor to have known him, and hope to live with him forever "In the House of our Father above." He leaves to his family and to the Nov., 1882, in the 80th year of his age. John Wesley was accustomed to make his grandfather's house his home, and from a biography of his mother published in the Wesleyan Methodist Magazine for Aug. 1822, I learn the following facts: She was converted to God at 15 years of age, and joined the Methodist church. This was a great offence to some of her friends who promised her great things if she would leave the Methodists, and be like other people. God's grace however, was sufficient for her and "she chose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season. She was married in 1798, and removed to Hammersmith in which place she and her husband were instrumental in introducing the disciplines and usages of Methodism. For seven years their house was the home of the preachers, and the place where the glad news of salvation was published to all who would come to hear it. 1n 1801 this godly woman was appointed leader of a female class, and was faithful in the trust committed to her. In this class young John, her son used afterwards to meet, and very early in life was born again, not of corruptible seed but by the word of God which liveth and abideth forever. It was a great privilege to have been born of such a mother, and brought up amid such surroundings. Mr. Blake lived in this immediate neighborhood more than half a century. I heard a business man say yesterday that for many years he had had dealings with him, and had always found him an unwall the beauty of the same of usually honest and honorable man. When first taken ill he expressed unshaken confidence in Jesus, and told me he was only waiting to be released from the flesh, and taken home to God. Soon afterwards his mind became cloud ed, and he said he feared he had been deceiving himself, and things were not as well with him as he had hoped. To-

from our midst, and their seats one on each side of this aisle will henceforth be occupied by others. They were, I believe, always present in God's house when it was possible for them to be there. They were levely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not long divided. They have spent this Sabbath amid the more perfect services of the upper sanctuary and will

part no more forever
