REV. DR. JONES LECTURES. The regular weekly meeting of the Llewellyn Club was held last night in the Canon Wood Hall and was largely attended. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Dr. Jones who chose as his subject, "The Young Fool." The lecturer showed in a very conclusive manner how men became fools through their passions, and for lack of enterprise, and he clearly pointed out that there was a door of opportunity through which sebate and much information all men might enter and make good. The Rev. lecturer made a big impression on his audience, and all felt that they had benefited by their attendance. her action, took a wise After the lecture short speeches were made by Messrs, R. R. IN FAREWELL PRESENTATION.

Urban Stock Company

Last night's play at the Casino was great drama of politics and romance namely "A/Man's Game." The piece is something of a melo-dramatic type which gives Mary Newton and Albert Patterson large opportunities of displaying their histrionic ability. The remainder of the company were particularly well cast. The vaudeville and singing of Miss Newton were attractions too great to be resisted.

The farewell attraction will be offered to-night and to-morrow afternoon and night which is "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." This play is Eugene Walter's dramatization of the book by the same name. written by John Fox. Jr., which had a sale well up in the millions and undoubtedly has been read by one in every ten people. Great as "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," from a book by the same writer, was "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," both as a book and as a play has been a greater success. There have, probably been few books written in the last twenty years with a sale equalling "The Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

The scene is in the Kentucky Mountains, and while it takes place during the Civil War, there is a little more than enough of this historic struggle to form a graphic back-ground. "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" is rather a story of the chivalry, love and ideals and hatreds of these mountain people. Withal, it is unquestionably one of the most telling stage love stories that has ever been written. Only two nights to see this big pro-
