Belvedere Crib.

The Crib at Belvedere, always an attraction for a large number of people, is this season more attractive than ever. The scene was very realistic and was set off by a beautiful painted screen depicting the country around Judo. The effect was heightened by the singing of a number of orphan girls. The Adote Festival as sung by the children, some of whom were mere tots, was truly marvelous and could only result from untiring tuition. During Sunday afternoon some hundreds of people were present, all of whom were loud in their praise of the training which the good Nuns are giving their charges.

Coats Stolen.

On New Year's Day a resident of the East End reported to the police that during Saturday night some person had entered the hallway of his home and made off with his overcoat. Shortly afterwards another resident lodged a similar complaint. The police were quickly on the trail, and located the culprit who returned the coats. The owners, pleased to get their wearables back, would not prosecute.

WHAT THE REPORTED FOUND.
He hadn't hoarded up a sum of bright and yellow gold.
He hadn't made a fortune out of products bought and sold.
He wasn't rich in dollars, but the day they buried him
The eyes of all the multitude with tears of grief were dim.

We sent a smart reporter out to chronicle his days.
To write about the things he'd done and shower him with praise;
But when the scribe came back again he shook his head in doubt
And said he couldn't find a thing that he could write about.

He hadn't held an office and he wasn't known to fame.
There wasn't any title he could add into his name.
He hadn't built a college or a hospital, or such
And all he knew about him was that people loved him much.

"Go out and ask the newsboys why they mourn for him to-day."
The editor commanded; "ask the throngs along the way
Why their heads are bowed in sorrow, get the people now to tell
What there was of worth about him that they loved this man so well."

And the people gladly told him that the reason that they wept
Was because the man had given of the riches others kept;
And that brief obituary had a golden line like this:
"His life was spent in friendship and he's one the town will miss."

Railroad Man Now States the Facts About Wife's Case

Employee Of Canadian National Says She Was Miserable For Three Long Years

"If anybody wants to hear about Tanlac they ought to come out to my house; my wife is so enthusiastic I believe she would be willing to talk all day about it," said M. Burns, "St. Rose, Man," well-known Canadian National Railroad man.
"It is natural that she should be delighted with the results she has obtained, because she is like a different person now from what she had been for three years past. She had trouble and indigestion made life miserable for her and she was falling day by day."
"Tanlac proved to be a very thing she needed. She says she never felt better in her life and I believe it, because I know I can't believe looking as well and strong as she is now."
Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Snowslide

Derails Express.

THREE CARS TURNED OVER—TRAIN DUE TO-DAY.

A snowslide derailed the express which left Port aux Basques Friday forenoon. The accident occurred at Rapid Pond, eleven miles east of Humbermouth. A baggage car, dining car and a second class passenger coach were overturned and buried in snow. No one was injured. The express is due here at 5 p.m. with over 450 bags mail matter.

The express left Port aux Basques on Friday, preceded by a push plow, and drawn by two engines. Fair progress was made until heavy snow was encountered at Rapid Pond. The ground is very high along this section and the snow reaches a depth of 12 feet in places. It is believed that the weight of the train undermined the snow, causing it to sweep down over the second baggage, dining and second class cars, throwing them over on their sides and burying them in. The work of rescuing the passengers and trainmen from the derailed cars was immediately commenced and soon completed. A wrecking crew arrived shortly afterwards from Humbermouth but it was not until yesterday afternoon that the cars were replaced on the rails. The express then returned to Humbermouth and took the mail landed at Port aux Basques by Sunday's Kyle, proceeding on the run to St. John's.

Coopers' Union Meeting.

CAUSES OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

At a special meeting of the Coopers' Union held on Thursday night, as a mark of esteem and respect to the memory of the late Mr. Michael Murphy, Master Cooper, a resolution of sympathy was passed and will be extended to the bereaved widow and family of the deceased. The President, Mr. J. Bennett, was appointed to report on the Union on the Employment Bureau. A substantial sum was appropriated to relieve any members in need of immediate assistance. The matter of unemployment amongst the members were then discussed, which brought out many suggestions, many being of the decided opinion that in this time of stress work should be spread and shared.

At the present time there are certainly seventy per cent of the Union idle through different causes, viz., shortage in the catch of fish which has been thought about by so many of our members being placed road making last summer instead of being supplied for the fishery; also the depression in the Brazil markets, and to cap the climax the unprecedented influx of fish packages which were purchased from the outports. All these conditions are responsible for our idleness; then couple up the failure of the Scotch herring business brought about mainly by packing the herring in anything that resembled a barrel, instead of having those barrels made by competent coopers and every package inspected before leaving the cooperages.

If this were done, and the Marine and Fisheries Department saw that all packages came up to the requirements of the Act, there wouldn't be the condition of things which exists in the cooping business to-day. The coopers of this city feel that they are not getting their place in the sun which is theirs by right. If our city merchants who are large purchasers of outboard packages were trusting to them to get their fish to market during the war they would be badly off, and it doesn't seem hardly good enough now that this state of affairs should continue; seventy or eighty per cent of the catch of codfish was marketed from outports and now it seems that they are to have the packing of the remainder.—Com.

"Under the Gaslight."

This is not an advertisement for the Gas Company—it is merely the preliminary announcement of the presentation of the old favourite play of that name by the popular B.L.S. Players at the Casino on January 30th.

It is probably the strongest drama staged here, and is remarkable for the scenic effects employed—principally the New York Pier 30 scene where the "wharf-rats" under the leadership of Bermuda hold their nightly soiree, and the lonely railway station where Snorker, the one armed soldier is tied to the track by the villainous Byke as the engine with its smokestack belching and headlights glaring, thunders down the grade and across the stage. All that human ingenuity can devise is there to make the scenes as realistic as possible, and special lighting effects are being imported. Three generations of Newfoundland theatriques have seen it produced and three generations believe it speaks its praises. That it will make a tremendous hit with the newest generations is a certainty. As usual the entire proceeds of the players' efforts will be devoted towards the worthy cause of education, and the production will be directed by Mr. P. F. Moore, M.H.A.

Greetings to War Veterans.

On New Year's Eve the President of the Great War Veterans' Association received messages of greeting from Lord Morris, London, and from Capt. M. McKay, Motherwell, Scotland, conveying best wishes for the coming year. Capt. McKay will be remembered by Veterans as a Regimental Sergeant-Major of the 2nd Battalion he did such good work on behalf of Ours.
