Our Dumb Animals

Report Chief Agent S.P.A. For Week Ending July 3rd, 1925.

Called by the police about a horse which was lying down in the old railway yard; it belonged to J. Diamond, truckman. I found the horse in a very sick condition, sent for Dr. Bishop who did all that was possible to do for it. After a time we got it home where it perished next morning. Attended to two car loads sheep for the Harris Abattoir Co. The sheep were all in good condition and well cared for; also thirty (30) head cattle, and thirty-five (35) sheep, and ten (10) lambs at A. E. Hickman Company's. I wish to thank Capt. Snelgrove and Mr. Henry, who took such an interest in seeing that the animals were well cared for. I put to death a very valuable horse for a resident of the West End, the horse had been suffering from a disease very prevalent among horses. It was attended by a Veterinary Surgeon, but the disease had taken too great a hold on the animal. Put to death a dog, belonging to a lady on Lime Street, which had killed some poultry. Put to death another at the head of Mundy Pond and another on Summer Street. Received a long letter from a resident of the East End, about cattle being at large. I saw the owner of the cattle who said that he employed a boy to watch them. As long as the cattle are not cruelly treated I have no authority to interfere. I am reporting the case to the solicitor I have written the City Council about the condition of some of the streets, particularly the King's Beach, the round stone make it very hard for horses with heavy loads either up or down this place, I have no doubt but it will receive their earliest attention. Forty-one (41) different complaints have been attended to during the past week.

Chief Agent.

The Prince of Wales Meet a Newfoundland-lander in Nigeria

During the visit of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to Kano, Northern Nigeria, amongst those presented to him were Capt. R. and Mrs. Oke, formerly of St. John's. They were invited by the Government of Nigeria to Kano, and were present at the dance, Durbar, and other festivities held in honor of the visit of his Royal Highness. Capt. Oke holds a high and responsible position in the Civil Service, and his military career in the army was such as to merit well-deserved promotion, and reflect the highest honor on himself, his parents, our people and our country. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Oke, the well-known citizens of St. John's, may well feel proud of their son, and so say we all.

Wedding Bells

CLARK-COOK.

Gower St. Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday evening when Miss Sadie Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cook, Kings Road, was united in Holy Bonds of Matrimony to Mr. Geo. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, Allendale Road. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, while the wedding march was played by Miss Elsie Talk, the bride's gown was of white crepe-de-chene and she wore a veil and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white carnations and lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaids were Miss Helen Clark, sister of the groom and Miss Marion Cook, cousin of the bride. Their dresses were of pink and blue satin and black picture hats and carried bouquets of pink carnations. The groom was supported by Mr. Richard Cook, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the wedding party motored to the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. George Cook, South Side Road, where a buffet lunch was served to some 50 guests. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents, including several pieces of gold, showing the esteem in which both were held. Mr. and Mrs. Clark left by train for Heart's Content, where the honeymoon will be spent. Their many friends wish them every happiness.

Osteopathic's Convention in Toronto

Toronto, Ont., July 2.—"A great deal of deafness is due to improperly fitting teeth or jaws and not to anything the matter with the ears at all," said Dr. Jerome M. Waters, of Newark, N.J., in his presidential address, opening the annual convention of the American Osteopathic Society of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, here this morning. "This society is opening a four-day convention which will be followed next week by the international convention of the osteopathic profession." After that there will be a tour of Eastern Canada and a large party of osteopathic physicians will visit Scotland, England and France.

Now as to this theory of deafness, said Dr. Waters. If you will put your little finger into your ear and open and close your mouth, you will get a better idea than you would from a quotation from the technical language he used.

Improperly fitted artificial teeth may force the lower jaw back some distance. The same effect may be produced by fear on natural teeth or by malformation of the jaw. Dr. Waters' subject was: "The relation of dentistry to head conditions."

Another interesting thing he said was "Never take out a child's tonsils and adenoids to cure mouth breathing without first examining to see that the lower jaw fits properly against the upper."

Other mouth conditions affecting hearing, according to Dr. Waters are impacted third molars, abscessed roots and unfilled cavities— even in cases which do not seem to be giving any trouble.

"Don't let your patients' teeth be pulled promiscuously because it's hard to find out what's the matter," he warned. "Fight to a finish to save teeth if in your judgment they should be saved." But on the other hand, he insisted on a thorough examination and on elimination of things that cause trouble.

Dr. E. P. Millard, of Toronto, was another speaker on the programme. "When the sinuses fill like reservoirs, look well to the drainage tubes or channels below," he said. "The sinuses are hollow spaces within the bones of the jaws, cheeks and skull and a great deal of discomfort and disease is caused by their congestion. They are drained chiefly by the lymphatic system."

SOON--That Wonder of Wonders 'Flaming Youth'

Which Tap Are You Like?

When you go to wash your hands you sometimes turn on both taps to find out which is hot and which is cold. At first both may be exactly the same. But soon the water from one begins to become warmer and by and by comes out red hot. The contrast between the two then is very great. Many people, including many employees and many employers, are like water taps; you can't tell right away how they are going to turn out. Two young men may enter an organization equally equipped in the matter of health and education. At the start the employer notes little or no difference between them. After a while, however, one begins to show more enthusiasm, more ability, more aptitude than the other. As time passes the difference between them becomes as great as the difference between hot and cold water.

In the one case the young man has been exerting himself to the utmost both at work and by study during his own time to fit himself for more important tasks and responsibilities. There burns in him ambition to qualify for advancement. In the other case the young man has no white-hot enthusiasm, no unquenchable determination to get on. He fritters away his evenings. Towards his work he is stone-cold.
