Guelph Evening Mercury

MONDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 7.

HUDSON'S BAY TERRITORY.

EVER since the Hudson's Bay Co. obtained their charter from Charles II, stipulating to give in return for the monopoly the paltry and nominal compensation of two or three skins of wild animals yearly, if they were deemed, their conduct has always been considered arbitrary and tyrannical. They have exercised the privileges thus bestowed on them exclusively to their own aggrandizement, and for the oppression of others. Fortified by their charter, their long conceded prerogatives, and a vast amount of arrogance, the extensive tract of land known as the Hudson's Bay Territory has been kept as a cover for wild beasts and a mine of wealth to a number of avaricious speculators, instead of being allowed to come in natural course under the fructifying influence of agriculture, and being converted into a broad habitation for a numerous, industrious and more civilized population. Man was made to till the ground, and the ground itself should rather be affected by his ingenuity and energies than the wild animals which subsist on its spontaneous productions. The red man is driven back, and the inheritance which he claimed as his by right of prior possession is appropriated without compensation. And why? For no other reason than his occupation can scarcely be designated a calling that is in accordance with the Scriptural laws; or at least, that the claims of civilization are paramount, and that he has no right to claim that a country shall lie in a wilderness state to afford him a hunting and fishing ground when in the course of human progress civilization demands that there shall renew her labours. What higher claims have the Hudson's Bay Company to regard than the aborigines of America, or why entrench themselves behind old customs, or a charter granted them when the Territory was not, as it now is, required for the comfortable maintenance of those who will cultivate it.

The feeling against the Company in the Red River settlement is daily growing stronger; it is denounced in unmeasured terms as being a nuisance strongly in the way of the prosperity and development of that interesting portion of the British North American possessions. Tyranny and misrule will provoke the disapprobation and indignation of others than the sufferers, and the actions of the Company have exposed them to general condemnation. Their days as monopolists are apparently fast drawing to a close, and the shareholders who are amassing riches by contributing to the unnatural demands of opulence, and ignoring the claims of industrious poverty, will probably soon have to retrace themselves to the loss of one wide source of income. Notwithstanding their misdeeds, the Imperial and Canadian authorities evince a disposition to deal generously with them, and a fair amount of commutation will scarcely be denied them. Of course we understand they have threatened to sell the Red River Territory to the Americans. They have been allowed to do a good many impudent things, but they dare not attempt this. American traders are now competing with the Company; and they are said to be fast losing the respect of the Indians, who regard them as in no manner superior to other traders. Combined circumstances point to the fact that the great North-West will ere long form an addition to the new Dominion, and agriculture and manufacture supplant the less civilized pursuits of hunting and fishing.

Yellow Fever in New Orleans.

A New York paper says that the yellow fever still rages with frightful violence in New Orleans, and a renewed appeal is made to the citizens of New York for help. There is urgent need of courses, of medicines, and of food to keep from starvation the families of those who are stricken down. The startling assertion is made by the Committee who put forth this call that twelve thousand human beings, the majority of whom are either comparative strangers, are perishing for want of help. It has been reported that New Orleans never enjoyed a happy immunity from the dread scourge as during the time the city was under the rule of General Peck. It appears, however, that the reformer that was never the wholesome regulator of the city, he virtually saved the lives of almost any one of whom he was in his at the time, had it not been so.

The London Free Press of Saturday says—"The losses attending the stoppage of the firm of Buchanan, Hope & Co., of Hamilton, appear to have further ramifications. The New York and Glasgow houses have failed also, and out of the whole range of affiliated establishments, that in Montreal alone stands untouched. In this Mr Isaac Buchanan has a share. The proximate cause of the stoppage seems to have been the failure of a large tea firm in New York, though it is now evident that for some time past the affairs of the firm have been involved in difficulty. It is understood that Mr A. Hope and Mr Wemyss will make a proposition on their part to the creditors to continue the business, and that another proposition will come from Mr I. Buchanan. That no joint action is likely, arises from the fact that no little personal difficulty exists between Mr Hope and Mr Buchanan. It is quite probable that one of the offers may be accepted, and that the house will continue its operations."

In reference to the above, the London Advertiser has the following:—"The Free Press states that the losses of Buchanan, Hope & Co. have further ramifications, viz: the stoppage of the New York and Glasgow houses. The Free Press is under a mistake, as the New York and Glasgow houses referred to were merely offices kept open in these cities for the accommodation of the Hamilton house; facilitating exchange operations and the exportation of purchases. The partners were identical but had no independent capital and no distinct business, hence the stoppage of the Glasgow and New York houses were contemporaneous with that in Hamilton, being simply distinct portions of the same Hamilton firm. I. Buchanan & Co., Montreal, Adam Hope & Co., and Buchanan, Hope & Co., of Hamilton, formed three distinct firms, based upon distinct capital, and the present temporary difficulty arises only with the last named, the two former being untouched. It is generally understood that the liabilities are confined to certain banking institutions at home and in Canada, and the probabilities are that a complete arrangement will be carried out within a few days, leaving the business itself unimpaired, but causing a considerable loss to the individual partners of the firm."

Political Movements in the Lower Provinces.

Either the Privy Councillors belonging to the Maritime Provinces are very communicative to their newspaper friends, or our contemporaries are given to the circulation of rumours. The other day, the journals of New Brunswick informed us that General Doyle is to be Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, and that a distinguished New Brunswick Judge is to be Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Now we are told by the Halifax Unionist—the organ of the Liberal section of the Unionist party—that Mr. Archibald has already been offered by one of his colleagues a choice between a seat in the Senate of the Dominion and the Lieutenant-Governorship of New Brunswick. If Mr. Archibald wishes it, a vacancy will at once be made in the list of Nova Scotia Senators, and the vacancy filled by the appointment of Mr. Archibald. If he does not care to be a Senator, says the Unionist, he may be Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick.

Mr. Archibald had better take the Lieutenant-Governorship. It is much the better position, and he would probably fill it very satisfactorily. His appointment would, no doubt, be well received in New Brunswick. But the Anti-Unionists of Nova Scotia are already complaining that the Senators from that Province are all Unionists except one, and claiming that the Province is virtually unrepresented in the higher branch of the Federal Parliament. They would make a great ado were Mr. Archibald appointed to the polls. Let him take the Governorship, and cheat his opponent out of the grievance which they would make of his appointment to the Senate.

DEATH OF AN INVENTOR.—Mr. Elias Howe, jr., the inventor of the sewing machine, died at his residence in Brooklyn on Thursday night last, in the forty-eight year of his age. Mr. Howe was born in Spencer, Massachusetts. Until his seventeenth year he worked for his father on a farm and in a Mill. Then he learned the trade of a machinist, and began to experiment in that department of invention in which he has since obtained fame and wealth. He procured the first patent for a sewing machine, September 10th, 1847. He built four machines and then went to England, where he remained for two years, returning in 1849 a poor man. For the next seven years he worked at his trade and persistently maintained his claim to his invention in the courts. In 1854 he won the battle, and since then has enjoyed the fruits of his inventive genius in peace.

exhibited at the Paris Exposition for illustrating the postage stamp, and at the same time marking the place where posted, the date and the number of the mail despatched, is extremely elegant. At the same pressure of the dies a pair of rollers supplies them with ink. The revolving lift for raising the heavy mail boxes from beyond seas to the upper floor of the post office, shows how every late invention has been applied to this department. No model attracts greater crowds than the perfect one of the travelling railway post office, with all its contrivances for the accommodation of the sorters. The apparatus by which mail bags are delivered and received without stopping the train are seen in perfect working order.

THE PAIN-KILLER CASE.—Some years ago, Mr. Kennedy, formerly of Dunham, but for a few years back of Hamilton, and well known in the patent medicine trade, brought out a medicine which he called "Pain Killer." Lately, Messrs. Perry Davis & Son, of Providence, Rhode Island, applied to the Court of Chancery here for an injunction restraining Kennedy from using a designation which they claimed to be theirs exclusively, and a trade mark. Evidence in the case was taken at the sitting of the court in May last, and early in September, Vice-Chancellor Mowat gave an injunction, which, substantially, seems to be a judgment, in favor of the plaintiffs. It has been stated that they have thus obtained in Canada a judgment which they could not obtain in their own courts; but this I believe is incorrect, for the counter statement is made on good authority, that in 1834 they obtained in Rhode Island just such a decree as they have obtained against Mr. Kennedy here.

A case of courtship of forty-five years standing is reported at East Lynn, Mass. The gentleman has paid his visits on each alternate Sunday evening.
