Farewell at Byron.

About 60 of the friends of the Byron Methodist Sunday school surprised Miss Griffish on Tuesday by assembling at her father's residence and presenting her with a handsome piece of silverware and a neatly-worded address read by Mr. S. Sissons, superintendent of the Sunday school, in which was expressed regret that she was about to sever her connection with the school, of which she has been treasurer for a number of years. Mr. Griffith made a suitable reply, thanking the friends for their kindness and giving them a hearty welcome. After an interesting programme of speeches, readings, songs and instrumental selections, presided over by the superintendent, the ladies served a lunch which they had provided. All spent a very enjoyable evening, and when departing left Miss Griffith their best wishes for her future happiness. She and her sister, Miss Annie Griffith, leave for Assinibola shortly. her future happiness. She and her sister, Miss Annie Griffith, leave for Assiniboia

Women's Estimate of Bachelors.

Women's Estimate of Bachelors.

[From the Woman's Cycle.]

All women are in league against the bachelor—the married women from sympathy with their unmarried sisters and the unmarried from desire to lessen the number of spinsters. With this league against him, offensive and detensive, the unmarried man may find peace in heaven, but he can scarce hope to find happiness on earth—this side of marriage. However, once married, all the bachelor's troubles are over. He is no longer the subject of interested or designing attention—except the attentions which proceed from love.

True, the bachelor becomes on his marriage, if not an object of comparative indifference to all women but one; but the superor love of that one atones for all, and his added dignity and completeness as a man and citizen make him wonder how he previously existed as one-half of a pair of soissors without the other half.
