Peterboro, Jan. 14. — "Good-bye, Canon." simultaneously Thomas Konek and Michael Bahri uttered their last message to Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson and Michael Bahri uttered their last message to Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson as the black caps slid over, their heads and hid their faces from view in the grey hour of dawn this morning. At 8:30 o'clock, three minutes after they left their cells, the trap was sprung and both men paid the extreme penalty for the murder of Phillip Yannoff in June last. They walked to the scaffold with scarcely a tremor, and made their last remark unwaveringly. Late last evening G. N. Gordon of this city and B. W. Essery of Toronto, legal advisers of the condemned men, were informed that the law must take its course. Konek in a statement to Mr. Essery said that he had not seen Yanoff as he lay in his bunk, and had not intended shooting him. He blamed the hair trigger action of his automatic pistol and his nervousness when he and his companion were robbing the men in the bunkhouse.

Claims Business Disturbed.

Referring to the board of commerce, the resolution claims that the investigations of the board in regard to retail merchants have not disclosed any com-pines or excessive profits; that the ele ment of competition among retail mer-chants prevent undue profit making; that conditions of merchandising in the various parts of Canada are so varied that no general regulations as to marthat no general regulations as to margins of profit can be made which will be fair to the merchants and the consumers; that the orders of the board of commerce have resulted in a great deal of disturbance in retail trade circles, and that the uncertainty as to what further orders will be made from time to time is still more disturbing not only to retail merchants but to manuonly to retail merchants but to manufacturers, wholesalers, bankers, the laboring classes and consumers. Government.

FOR PREMIER DRURY

An invention which will place London one step further on the way to becoming the "electric city" of America has been perfected by General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the public utilities commission. By means of this it will be possible to heat standing automobiles when represent the provided representation of the properties of the provided representation of the public utilities commission. By means of this it will be possible to heat standing automobiles when representative provided representative p and the electric heater which the car carries. It is just as simple as using an electric iron or toaster.

For Everyone's Use.

Mr. Buchanan thinks that a feasible scheme for placing such heaters at the disposal of motorists could be found. The stations would be established on every pole in the downtown district in locked boxes. The motorists who wished to use them could be charged $5 or some other sum for a key which would unlock the boxes.

License tags would be issued to be displayed on the cars and these would serve as a check on the illegal use of the heaters.

While the scheme is ready to be put into effect, it is not likely that much will be done this winter, because of the power shortage. As soon as sufficient power is available, however, it is likely that steps will be taken to put the scheme into effect.

The experimental station has been in use for some time, but its invantor.

At present when an automobile is brought to a standstill, no heat is generated to warm the interior of the car. When the driver returns to it he finds the car so cold that much of the pleasure of driving has been taken away. Oftentimes, too, the cold is a menace to the driver's health. Means of heating cars at present are very expensive. Either the engine must be left running or a heater must be supplied from the storage batteries. Downtown Heaters.
