59TH YEAR. NO. 23368

LONDON, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 21, 1922.

PRICE, THREE CENTS

CONDEMNNS BEEF IN CITY STORAGE 3 YEARS

City Will Sell Real Estate In London South

BUYS TRACTION RIGHT-OF-WAY AT $5,000 COST

Property Runs From Grand Avenue to Chester Street, Nearly Six Blocks.

WILL OPEN NEW STREET

Building Lots To Be Sold To Pay Cost of Land and New Street.

Purchase by the city of the right-of-way of the old Traction Company Railway, extending for six blocks in London South, was announced by City Engineer Brazier Wednesday morning.

The property, which varies in width from 32 1/2 feet to 200 feet, runs from Grand avenue to Chester street.

The consideration paid by the city was $5,000, and according to the engineer a new street will be surveyed along the old right-of-way, thereby opening up much property in South London. Building lots will be laid out abutting this new thoroughfare, and the city will go in the real estate business to dispose of them to citizens.

Mr. Brazier informed The Advertiser Wednesday that when these lots are graded, and the new street completed, the city will be enabled to sell them with forty feet frontage each, realizing sufficient proceeds to repay the original expenditure and also to cover the cost of the new street.

Price Paid a Bargain.
This street when completed will have a minimum width of 66 feet, said the city engineer. "The price paid was a bargain, but only the city could take the property over and make it pay, because it is low ground, and must be built up in places before it will be suitable for residences."

"The city will fill it in before selling the lots, and will get back the money expended by the sale. The deal whereby the city assumes ownership was consummated last week, and involves a stretch of property in South London six blocks long. The city had an opportunity to purchase this land some time ago, but the deal hung fire for more than a year."

"In connection with opening up this area we are getting in touch with the board of education in order to bring about a direct continuation of Belgrave avenue. The board owns some property necessary to bring this about, which I presume they have been holding for the city. This does not involve the new street."

City to Sell Lots.
"When the new street is completed the city will own some very valuable building lots," continued Mr. Brazier, "as this is in the heart of a most desirable residential section of London. These lots will be parceled out and sold by the city."

"The new street will be 66 minimum width and wider where the property permits. It will run north and south in a fairly straight line. Some time ago the city purchased the Traction Company right-of-way from the bridge to Grand avenue, across Carfax Crescent, thereby widening the latter thoroughfare to 70 feet."

The city engineer has prepared a plan of the purchased property with a survey of the lots to be sold, which was ratified by No. 2 committee of the city council last week. Before attempting to dispose of any lots, earth filling from roads to be paved in London South will be dumped upon them, bringing these lots up to a level suitable for building purposes.

AIM TO BOOST EXPORT TRADE

Canadian Manufacturers' Association Devotes Entire Session to Subject.

Closer Connection Between Canada and West Indies Urged by Col. Cantley.

St. Andrew's, N. B., June 21.—(Canadian Press).—For the first time in history the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here today devoted practically an entire session to the subject of export trade. Thomas Dodd, treasurer, advocated the Canadian manufacturers' should be identified with a common name, or trade mark. He said that as a young manufacturing country Canada did not realize the prestige which a name took to itself when it came to signify a high value of goods. He instanced the use made of trade marks by British exporters. Canadian manufacturers, he said, were developing a high class of goods. The future should be visualized and care taken that a certain name or mark be synonymous with that quality.

The need of producing the right article at the right price was emphasized by a following speaker. For instance, to sell stoves in South Africa, the article should be one which would show the blaze, to meet the prejudices of the Hottentots, who did most of the cooking of the country. A certain type of oil stove was marked well in Japan. Salesmanship would at once increase the export trade of Canada, other speakers believed. The South American markets were pointed to as offering a great opportunity. Germany and Australia had been ousted from those markets and were not yet back. Canadians were especially welcome there.

One member related that he sold goods in Peru which he knew nothing of. An outline of the Canadian government trade organization was given by C. H. Payne of the department of trade and commerce, Ottawa.

That the smaller ships of the Canadian Merchant Marine be sold, and that the government acquire four passenger ships with refrigerator accommodation for the West Indies trade was asked for by Col. Thomas Cantley, New Glasgow, in a resolution submitted to the association today. He was referred to the committee on resolutions. Col. Cantley urged a closer connection between Canada and the West Indies, hoping that some day they would be part of the Dominion conference, thus rounding out a self-sustaining country.

Discovers Starving Seaman On Wrecked Schooner

Demented by Privation.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 21.—A thirty-foot schooner, battered and mastless, was discovered today ashore on West Island, in the outer harbor here. On board the hulk was Osmund Erickson, who said his address was the sea. When Edward Egbert, a summer resident, found the wreck, Erickson, he said, was eating grass.

Erickson, who was suffering from starvation, was unable to tell where the vessel had come from. He was brought to this city and held until an investigation could be made. According to the police, his memory was impaired by the privations he had undergone.

The schooner, the name of which could not be determined, carried a crudely arranged jury mast to replace two masts that had apparently been carried away by a storm. This mast was about six feet high and pieces of old clothing had been used for sails. The hull had been mended in several places with bits of zinc and tin.

MAKE FINANCIAL STATEMENT ON 5 HYDRO TOWNS

Power Commission States Position of Municipalities Served From Woodstock.

RATE MUCH REDUCED

Ingersoll Charges Drop From 11 Cents to 4 Cents Per Kilowatt Hour.

Toronto, June 21.—Detailed official statements were issued today by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario concerning the financial position of five municipalities served from the Woodstock transformer station, which is 95 miles from Niagara Falls.

Woodstock has been taking hydro-electric energy since 1912. The first rates quoted by the provincial commission to consumers averaged 6.5c per kilowatt hour for domestic lighting, and 4.3c for commercial. This was materially lower than the previous charges. The hydro rates have been reduced from year to year until they now stand at 2.4c domestic, 1.8c commercial, and 15.63c per horsepower for industrial energy. The price charged to the municipality for delivered power has declined from $26 to $21, mainly because the load has increased from $15 to 1.13 horsepower.

The total revenue collected from consumers since 1912 has been $492,675.43. If the first hydro rates had been continued without reduction, the people would have paid up to Dec. 31 last $764,193.63. The dividend which has come to them by rate reduction has had a money value of $271,518.20.

The revenue for 1921 was $77,893.78. Including a renewal charge of $8,752, the expenditure was $69,470.21, leaving a surplus for the year of $8,423.57. This surplus was equivalent to $4.91 per horsepower on the entire Woodstock load. The assets are $309,036.30; the liabilities, $89,573.70. There is an accumulated surplus greater by $9,000 than the total liabilities, and the reserve funds exceed $120,000. The population of Woodstock is just under 10,000.

Ingersoll's System.
For eleven years the town of Ingersoll has been taking hydro-electric service. In that period the kilowatt hour rates have been reduced from an average of 8.3c domestic and 7.4c commercial to 2.5c and 2.2c respectively. The load in 1912 was 384 horsepower. Last year it averaged 581.9 horsepower, and the price of delivered power has dropped in the ten-year period from $28 to $23. The actual saving to consumers by rate reduction has been $151,586.37.

Last year the Ingersoll system had a revenue of $46,033.30. The expenditure, including a renewal reserve charge of $3,995, was $44,974.33, leaving a surplus of $1,058.97. The total assets are $196,772.73. The balance of liability is $85,791.15, which leaves $110,981.58 in surplus and reserve funds.

Tillsonburg's Success.
Before "hydro" came to Tillsonburg in August, 1911, the service rate was 11c per kilowatt hour, with a meter charge of 25c per month. The first rates quoted by the provincial commission averaged 9.5c domestic and 7.5c commercial.

In well informed circles rumor is rife that the emperor's heir will shortly announce his engagement to his first cousin, Lady Mary Cambridge.

AYERS SENTENCED TO 12-YEAR TERM AS WYOMING BANK BANDIT

London Man Convicted by Jury at Sarnia; Cases of McMullen, Yohn and Anderson Adjourned Until Fall Assizes at Request of Defense.

Sarnia, June 21.—As dramatically as they have proceeded throughout, the Wyoming bank robbery trials terminated in the Lambton County court this morning, when Judge A. E. Taylor sentenced William Ayers of London to a 12-year term in the Kingston Penitentiary, and ordered that his alleged accomplices, also Londoners, Edward A. McMullen, John ("Casey") Yohn, and George ("Curly") Anderson, be remanded again to jail to await the pleasure of the next supreme court assizes in September or the general sessions of the peace the following December.

All the prisoners were arrested in London in May, and charged with holding up and robbing the Wyoming branch of the Bank of Toronto of about $11,000 cash on the afternoon of Oct. 20 last.

McMullen, alleged director of the gang's movements, was the first to face the court, and on Friday last was saved from the penitentiary, at least for the time being, when one juror refused to believe that he was implicated in the robbery. Ayers was convicted Tuesday as being the man who led the way from the bank subsequent to the actual hold-up, with a gun in either hand. This morning William R. Meredith, counsel with Norman Newton, for Yohn and Anderson, appealed to the bench for an order of postponement upon the strength of the fact that all members of the jury panel had remained in court throughout the trials and would not, therefore, be contended, be in a position to allow the other prisoners a fair and unprejudiced hearing.

Adjourns Cases.
Despite the strenuous objection raised by Crown Attorney F. W. Willson, the other cases were adjourned by Judge Taylor "in the interests of justice for the men," as he termed it.

There was a tense moment in court when shortly before 11 o'clock Ayers

JUDGE DISMISSES CHARGE AGAINST SIR H. M. ALLAN

Follows Precedent Set in Case of Former General Manager of Merchants Bank

Montreal, June 21.—Without argument of counsel being heard, Judge Cusson this morning summarily dismissed the charge laid against Sir H. Montagu Allan by the minister of finance that he had sent a false report to the government of the Merchants Bank financial standing for the month of October, 1921. In the trial the judge followed the precedent set in the charge against L. C. Macarow, former general manager, which was later taken up by the minister of justice with the result that an indictment was formulated against him by Premier Taschereau in his capacity of attorney general. A true bill being returned and Mr. Macarow sent for trial before a jury in the court of sessions.

To Try Out Twin Trail For Motorists Idea On Alexander Street, London

An innovation for London motorists in the form of a "twin trail," will be constructed on Alexander street by Robert Greene, acting in conjunction with the city council. The twin trail consists of two strips of concrete to be laid in the center of the road, and along it autos will travel, the two parallel strips accommodating the wheels.

Under an agreement submitted to the city council by the city solicitor, Mr. Greene, who is introducing the twin trail to Londoners, will construct and maintain the twin trail for a term of two years.

THINK VALERA MAN WILL WIN IN WATERFORD

Parties Believe Only Unprecedented Event Can Defeat Burgess in Irish Election.

CHIEF OF LIEUTENANTS

Failure of Childers in Kildare Outstanding Feature of Contest.

Dublin, June 21.—The approximate representation of the various parties in the Parliament chosen at last Friday's election, as shown by returns up to this afternoon, is as follows:

Coalition treaty, 54.
Coalition Republican, 33.
Labor, 14.
Farmers, 5.
Independents, 10.
One distinguished survivor probably will be Cathal Brugha (Charles Burgess), chief of Eamon De Valera's lieutenants, who, although he is not yet elected in Waterford, can only be defeated by some unprecedented overturn in the count.

Mary McSwiney Survives.
Results announced this morning show the removal of many of the best-known personalities in the Dail Eireann. Of the six women members, all anti-treaty, only Mary MacSwiney survived in the contests, and Mrs. Kate O'Callaghan was returned unopposed.

Mrs. Pearce, whose two sons were executed for their part in the Easter week rebellion, was defeated in County Dublin. The figures show that she received comparatively few transfers of votes.

Seanus Robinson, one of the leaders of the army dissidents, lost out in Waterford. Most conspicuous among the defeats was that of Erskine Childers in Kildare. He received only 578 votes, fewer than any other candidate in the whole elections.

It was announced this morning that in Galway the pro-treaty candidates on the Sinn Fein panel, F. J. Hogan, O. O. Malle, Professor Whelehan and George Nicholls, were elected. Mr. Hogan is minister of agriculture in the Dail cabinet.

Commenting on the election results the Irish Times says: "Publication of the constitution has certainly not tended to promote a solid coalition. It is expected that developments soon will arise which will reveal the situation more strong not alone on the political but also on the military side."

The Republican wing will probably endeavor to consolidate its force pending the advent of adult suffrage, upon which it has always pinned its faith, and meantime confine itself to opposition to the constitution which it regards as more pernicious than the treaty. In that event, the resumed proceedings of the second dail, which is to meet again on June 30, are likely to prove highly interesting, but it is to the provincial Parliament that the bulk of the people are looking for the lead."

Hon. W. C. Kennedy Is Guest At Strathroy Wedding

Miss Emily Clare Ross Wed.

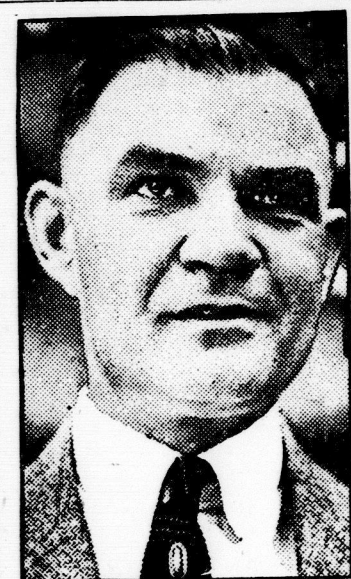

A BRILLIANT Strathroy nuptial event, of wide interest in the Dominion, was the marriage at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon of Emily Clare, only daughter of Judge D. C. Ross and Mrs. Ross, and granddaughter of the late Sir George W. Ross, to Grant S. Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Newton of Strathroy.

Numbers of guests were present from London, and among those from outside points were Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, and Mrs. Kennedy, and Senator F. F. Pardee, who came from Ottawa in the minister's private car for the happy event.

The ceremony, which took place in St. John's Church, was performed by the rector, Rev. George Pugsley. The church was transformed into a veritable bower with palms, ferns, syringa blossoms, rose-colored peonies and quantities of roses. Reserved for guests were marked by bouquets of peonies and roses tied with white tulle.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was girlish and lovely in an exquisite nuptial robe of white kitten's ear crepe, with garniture of brocade chiffon and garlands of pearls, the long court train of cloth of silver shot with rose, and lined with white crepe, caught at the shoulders with pearl ornaments. Her veil was gracefully draped and bound to her head with a circlet of pearls.

CLEAR COURT AT DELORME TRIAL

Judge Monet Orders Attendants To Put Women Spectators Out.

Detective Rioux Testifies Regarding Moral Sanity of Prisoner.

Montreal, June 21.—During the proceedings this morning of the hearing to establish the mental condition of Adelard Delorme, charged with murdering his half-brother Raoul, Judge Monet ordered the court room cleared of women and girls, as it was imperative to take up the question of moral insanity.

Under the circumstances his lordship did not consider the courtroom a proper place for female spectators. Amidst much protesting, the room was accordingly cleared. The principal witness this morning was Detective Rioux of the provincial police, who was examined by both Mr. Monette, counsel for the prisoner, and Mr. Walsh, representing the crown, concerning his contact and acquaintance with Delorme. Rioux's evidence dealt mainly with inquiries of Delorme as to a lady friend of his (Rioux).

Roy Jardine, a newspaperman, who obtained the celebrated interview in which Adelard Delorme advocated the hanging of the slaver in public in a specially-erected arena, was the principal witness Tuesday afternoon before Judge Justice Monet.

In reply to questions the witness said that he had seen Delorme and spoken to him between the time of the murder and the prisoner's arrest. The witness was permitted by the crown prosecutor to refer to a clipping, dated Jan. 17, regarding an interview which Delorme gave to Jardine. Jardine described telephoning Delorme who invited him to the house at 190 St. Hubert street.

"We discussed the case," he said. "Mr. Walsh: 'In English, assisted by a French dictionary which Delorme produced in order to get some words correct.' The interview was one which he stated he was very anxious to have published."

Mr. Jardine then proceeded to

HEALTH BOARD HALTS SALE BY "SPECULATORS"

Officers Laud Action of Manager S. Gillies in Demanding Inspection.

FINDS MEAT MUMMIFIED

Dr. Tamlin's Prompt Action Prevents Disposal For "Human Food."

Holding 25 quarters of beef in the London Cold Storage and Warehousing Company since 1919, presumably in the hope of selling them at increased prices, persons, termed "speculators," by Sanitary Inspector Richard Sanders, have had their plans nipped in the bud by officers of the board of health, who have condemned this meat as unfit for human consumption.

This action in no way reflects upon the London Cold Storage and Warehousing Company, which merely acted as custodian of the meat for private parties. In fact, Dr. C. S. Tamlin, veterinary inspector of London, who along with Sanitary Inspector Sanders and Lieut.-Col. John Wilson, government veterinary officer, examined the meat, lauds the course followed by Manager S. Gillies, who called in the inspector to pronounce their verdict on the meat.

Sanitary Inspector Sanders informed The Advertiser that, in his opinion, the owners of the three-year-old meat purposed selling it to the public as food, and that Manager Gillies' action prevented them from carrying out their purpose.

In his report to the board of health Tuesday night, Dr. Tamlin stated that he was requested by Manager Gillies to examine the meat, which was "deteriorated and mummified, being unfit for use as human food."

In Storage Three Years.
"It certainly was high," Sanitary Inspector Sanders informed The Advertiser, "and most of it had been in storage since 1919. It was owned by speculators who hoped to make some money. I have not the slightest doubt but that Mr. Gillies' action in calling in Dr. Tamlin saved the public from having this meat unloaded on them. I was there when Dr. Tamlin and Colonel Wilson cut into the meat, and it was pretty bad."

Paying tribute to Manager Gillies, whom he declares has always worked in conjunction with the board of health in enforcing the law, Dr. Tamlin stated Wednesday that he had ordered the meat not to be sold as human food.

"The meat was deteriorated and mummified, being unfit for human consumption," he declared. "It was two to three years old. Manager Gillies, of the London Cold Storage Company, sent for me Monday and asked me to pass on this beef. Had he not done so it would have been there yet. He was merely the custodian of the meat, and no blame whatever can be attached to him. He wanted some disposition made of this meat and sent for me."

"Who owned the meat?" asked The Advertiser.

Lauds Gillies' Action.
"I would rather not say," replied the inspector. "I would rather that you would not mention this thing in the papers, as I would not want anything said to antagonize so good a public health man as Manager Gillies. That meat may be sold as animal food for foxes if the owners want to take a chance on it. I have nothing to do with animal food."

Manager Gillies of the cold storage plant was then interviewed for a statement regarding the 1919 vintage beef.

"Desiring an opinion on the condition of the meat, I called in Dr. Tamlin," Mr. Gillies declared Wednesday afternoon. "I did this because I did not want to store it any longer. It was immaterial to us, as the meat belonged to private parties, and publication of the facts will do us no harm. I was interested in this meat only because I wanted to get it out of there. Dr. Tamlin often examines meat stored here."

"The meat has not been destroyed," he concluded in answer to a query. "And may be sold to proprietors of fox farms to be used as animal food."
