estly with the intricate and contradictory evidence presented during the wearisome trial, had listened to the exhaustive arguments of able counsel with commendable patience and unvarying attention—the completion of their task marks them as men of superior discernment, for the average jury entrusted with such a complication would inevitably have disagreed. His Lordship, in dismissing them, showed the court's appreciation of their services by exempting them from serving on a jury for twelve months.

A rather fagged looking lot of lawyers and officials and jurors assembled in court at 10:30 a.m. yesterday, when the latter filed into court and slipped into the chairs which had become familiar from long occupancy. The sheriff polled the jury, and counsel for defendants rose to make a suggestion, which was immediately challenged by plaintiff's counsel. One of the jurymen, however, put a sudden stop to the promised legal wrangle by requesting the court to saye them from their nemarks.

Returning within the time specified. Mr. Joshua Davies, the foreman, declared that they found a verdict for the defendants, with costs.

Mr. E. P. Davis, K. C., moved that judgment be entered for defendants, with authority for the special jury.

Mr. Justice Drake addressed the jury in a few complimentary remarks, and relieved them from jury service for twelve months, as an acknowledgment of their long and arduous attendance during the trial.

CRAIGELOWER. ROAD.

In the Supreme Court yesterday the argument in the rule nist to quash the Craigflower road by-law, in which Mr. Richard Hall, M.P.P., appears as plaintiff, with the corporation of the city of Victoria as defendants, was begun before His Lordship Judge Walkem. Mr. Thornton Fell appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Bradburn for the city.

The whole forenoon was taken up with the argument, and the citation of authorities and precedents. Mr. Bradburn entered an objection to the proceedings on the ground that they had not been instituted within the time limited by statute. In the afternoon Mr. Topp, city engineer, was cross-examined at length on his affidavit, filed with defendant's answer. The argument will be resumed this morning.
