

FUN FOR THE BOYS.

But unaccountable for the young man on the floor below. From the New York Times. In a second-story window of a brown residence, fronting on a cross street, a dignified young man sat reading a warm Sunday morning paper.

A thin gentleman passed a moment afterward, twisting a cane as he passed along. Below the window he, too, stopped, and the young man again looked down calmly, but with a little surprise on his features.

A member's forehead. An old broken-down gambler of Paris may be seen daily promenading in the shabby attire, with a magnificent white camellia in his button-hole. Some years ago he won a great deal of money and determined to make sure that he should always be supplied with his favorite flower.

Conservative associations should have a bust of Sir John for their assembly rooms. From the Rockland Courier Gazette. He had stayed and stayed and stayed and stayed and stayed and stayed.

Business Pointers. One of the largest stocks of Berlin, Saxony and fingering wools in the city may be seen at 222 Yonge street. Mr. Davis buys all his goods at close prices and can afford to sell at lowest figures.
