Lower Granville Notes.

On Sulnday forenoon a sail boat was seen beating down in the river near Goat Island buon, and as it was blowing a strong gale and the management of the craft indicate want of knowledge of the business on the part of the occupants, anxious eyes watched the movements. Presently a squall struck her and over she went, just south of the buoy, and soon the three on board were seen clinging to the now entirely submerged boat. Joseph Healy, Gilbert Shafner, Norman Willett and Daniel Cronin rushed to a boat on the shore, launched her and vigorously plying four oars soon reached the scene of the disaster and rescued the trio. They were thoroughly drenched and chilled. One was a commercial traveller—Mr. Cole from Montreal—and the others a Mr. Craig and Mr. Hatfield from Annapolis, who it seems had hired the boat at that town for a sail down the river, with the foregoing results. We strongly recommend people who have no knowledge of handling a boat under sail to hire a man to take charge and then they may get better value for the money paid for the use of the boat. If the capsize had taken place in the channel where the strong ide and wind had created a heavy sea no doubt a drowning accident would have been recorded.

What might have been drowning accidents occurred last week. Master Eddison Burke, while fishing off the bridge near the blacks smith shop, fell into the brook, and as the water was more than over his head, the wonder is he did not drown; but in splashing round he found footing and got himself out. Mrs. S. Boehner and daughter and two ladies, Miss Harris and Miss McKay, of Annapolis, and Mr. Spurr, got into a boat at Spurr's landing. As they pushed the boat off by some means she upset and they all went into the river. Mr. S. kept the boat near shore, while three sons of Mrs. Boehner who were on the bank at the time, jumped in and rescued the four ladies. As the current was swift the wonder is that they were all rescued. Miss Boehner was more exhausted than the others, and she and her mother went to Mr. Spurr's house, while Miss Harris and Miss McKay entired in the mother went to Mr. Spurr's house, while Miss Harris and Miss McKay land they are located not be ward.

Misses May Wile and Edith Silver, of Ohic, Lunenburg county, had a very enjoyable visit with their aunt, Mrs. J. Woodbury, last week.

Miss Alma Gates arrived home from Boston on Saturday, May 25th, where she has been engaged in the study of music. She will presumably remain the summer.

Messrs. A. Andrews and S. Dodge have contracted for the building of the new school-house, and are now laying the foundation in brick. It will be finished in time for the opening of the school in August.

The burning of our school-house was the means of breaking up the D. class. Miss Hattie Balser and Master Eddie Durling were among the number who intended to apply for a D. certificate at the examination in July.

He thought the grand secret of teaching was the power to bring out the thought. Principal Patterson threw out many valuable hints as regards teaching, which, if put into practise would result in much good.

Miss Alma Gates arrived home from Boston on Goldsmith's Travels." He said his purpose was to teach as Mr. Dunlop had, viz.—as he would in school; and to this end called in his class of "C" scholars. The lesson, from beginning to end, was listened to with the greatest interest by all present. The excellent manner in which the exercise was conducted, the prompt and plant expression of the pupils' original answers showed that Mr. Brown was well calculated to develop the minds of the young and called forth at the close favorable remarks from W. The programme was then continued by Mr. J. H. Crowe favoring the Institute with an interesting address on "Tardiness and Irregular Attendance." The subject was dealt with in an able manner, and several glod points were made. He referred to the "Compulsory Attendance Act," and believed compulsory attendance to be a good thing. He thought the habit of punctuality should be cultivated in school. Mr. Crowes address was practical and aroused considerable discussion.
