The Tug of War.

And now the agony commences amongst our American Cousins. The tribulations of the Conventions were but the overture to the lively performances which will go on until the 10th of November. It is painful to contemplate the interim. Gur extends his affectionate commiseration to the American people, who are doomed for so many months to endure the afflictions incident to a presidential campaign. Those who are grumbling about the weather we are at present having in this Dominion ought to be thankful when they think what the thermometer will be across the line in a few days. Ninety degrees in the shade will be coolness compared with it. And then consider the dust and dirt that will be kicked up by the newspapers and the — but let us not pursue the painful theme. If they would avert the coming unpleasantness let the American public frankly admit in advance that no two individuals in the world are so thoroughly corrupt and despicable as GARFIELD and ARTHURS—excepting HANCOCK and ENGLISH.

Watching and Waiting Rewarded!

In last week's number we gave a sketch entitled "Watching and Waiting." Since then the long and earnest vigil has been rewarded, the fat, sleek rat appeared and was nabbed on the very day of publication. Everything is now lovely at the Gubernatorial mansion on Simcoe st., and Gur extends his congratulations, with the hope that the billet may prove to be a truly savory meal.
