Our First Year.

 WITH this number ends the first year of THE CANADIAN PHOTOGRAPHIC JOURNAL. It has been a success from the start, and has proved that our predictions and those of our many friends, that the photographers of Canada would support a good home journal, were well founded. We have tried to make each succeeding issue better than the one before. How well we have succeeded we leave for our readers to judge. We shall continue in our efforts to make THE JOURNAL a credit to the profession, and have already arranged with several good writers for next year, who will contribute from time to time interesting articles on subjects of general interest. The many friends Mr. John Clarke has made through his series of interesting articles in THE JOURNAL, will, we are sure, be glad to hear that he has kindly consented to contribute a further series of articles. We wish to tender our thanks to those who have aided in making THE JOURNAL a success, both by their help in a literary way and in the very substantial way of a paid-up subscription. It is gratifying to us to be able to state that out of the several hundred who at first took a trial six months, all but two renewed for the year, while of the yearly subscriptions a good number have already renewed, with every mail bringing more. We hope those who have not already sent us their renewal will kindly do so at once if their subscription runs out with our year. Don't miss a number.
