

MCGILL UNIVERSITY

February 6th, 1933.

Sir Arthur Currie,
Principal,
McGill University.

My dear Sir Arthur,

I am returning Professor Coupland's letter to you, dated the 24th last, and I now wish to say that after consulting with members of the Department of History, we think that ^a ~~the~~ lecture by Professor Coupland on the Irish question, to be given in Moyse Hall on the evening of the 19th April, would be of sufficient public interest to attract an audience, although Sir Arthur Salter is lecturing in the city on the evening of the 18th. If a lecture by a student of British History in Oxford on the Irish question would not attract an interested audience now, it is difficult to see how any other lecturer or subject would be likely to do so.

Yours very truly,

Ira A. MacKay.

Dean.
