as a Cook's tour guide on such state occasions. When the Tramways Company furnishes a special aldermanic car, Crepeau holds the bag.

"The city hall is a sweet-scented sink-hole of pollution if men like Crepeau speak the truth. Their greedy official hands take toll of contracts, levy tribute on ordinances, and prey upon the poor city laborers. Graft upon the poor city laborers. Graftgraft—graft, is written over the door days, on the lintels, and on the door Named Three Aldermen. In regard to getting civic contracts. Mr. Crepeau is reported as telling the Burns agent, whom he supposed was a contractor, that he had some "pull." Mr. and Mrs. B. Webber, Meredith Michael Judge," he added, "will suppressent, and Miss Isabel Cassels have port me. You will have to pay for work in order to get it. I can get the work in order to get it. I can get the three aldermen I have named on our side."

In engaging Crepeau, the Burns man professed that he wanted advance in-formation regarding the probabilities of the Street Railway Company, whose president is E A. Robert, and the Autobus Company, getting franchises, as he was anxious to get a little of the stock. Crepeau professed his ability to give the information and said he was sure the street railway would get its franchise in the end.

Held Over Application.
According to Mr. Beck's article,
Crepeau added: "I was talking to Mr.

Robert a few weeks ago in the city hall and at that time they were going to grant the franchise at Christmas. Robert told me so. But since, there has been so much trouble over this matter that they have declined not to ask the Board of Cortrol.

or council to do this until after the elections. And they will not take the matter up at Quebec at this time. Robert told me this himself only a short time ago. After the election they will put the thing thru. They are afraid it might defeat some of the aldermen and members of the board of control if they voted for it at this time."

Said the Burns man to Crepeau: "I want you to be a good fellow at Quebec and buy the boys some wine for our bill. If you could get some of the people up there for our bill I wouldn't mind paying them $1000. Now I am gains to give your work." mind paying them $1000. Now I am going to give you expense money." Here Mr. Sampson (otherwise a Burns detective) produced a roll of bills. "There is one hundred dollars, besides that I will carry you on my list and give you a salary," handing the second assistant city clerk $100 in graft money.

Accepted Money.

"Thank you," said Crepeau, as he accepted the money and put it in his pocket. "All right I will do anything you want me to."

Incidentally Crepeau is alleged to have tried to get the Burns man to take up a bill that another company was interested in giving rights to a race track with liberal privileges at a suburban place, incorporated under the Township of Baie D'Urfe. But caution was advised, inasmuch as Crepeau was reported as saying:
"No, the mayor and the aldermen of Montreal are all scared to death of newspapers. In this other place (Baie D'Urfe) you can get anything you want. Gouin the prime minister, owns a lot of property there."

This is how Mr. Crepeau advised the detective to proceed with his bill: "The way to get it thru is to say that the profits will be divided between charitable institutions," said Crepeau. "That's the way to get these things thru. Say the profits are for charity." Crepeau is recorded to claim power thru the fact that he played with both sides of the civil administration, that is to say, with the board of control on one side and the city council on the

Mr. Beck concludes his long article ows: "Crepeau made several other calls upon the Burns agents, both in Mont-real and in Quebec. On Dec. 23 he called upon Sampson in the Duluth building and received a nice Christmas present in cash as a reward for his faithfulness. On almost every occasion when he was asked he repeated his assertion that the Tramways people footed the bills for the aldermanic lobbyists on their visits to Quebec."

The city council happened to be in session this afternoon when Mr. Beck's new paper appeared on the streets, and Mr. Crepeau at once addressed a letter to Mayor Lavallee asking the council to suspend judg ment on the accusations made against him. He added that he would be able to vindicate his honor.

Demanded Explanation.

Ald. O'Connell moved that Mr. Crepeau be brought before the council forthwith to explain the matter.

forthwith to explain the matter.

Several members objected to proposal, on the ground that powers of the council in relation to such charges were indefinite. Ald. O'Connell, however, persisted in his motion. "My name is mentioned in this report as having been re-peated by Mr. Crepeau to these peo-ple," said Ald. O'Connell, "and I tell the council straight that unless Mr. Crepeau is brought right now I will tomorrow morning take out a warrant against him."

Asserted Innocence. Mr. Crepeau was thereupon sum-moned and he asserted his ability to vindicate his honor and disprove the charges. Mr. Crepeau said he had already instructed his lawyer in the matter. The article, he said, was a tissue of malicious and criminal allegations made for the purpose of ruining his reputation and blasting his career. The council decided to ask the city attorney to give a written opinion defining what powers the city coun cil had to take action on the charges made, and the mayor was instructed to call a special meeting on Wednes-day next for consideration of the attorney's report.

The revelations, it is expected, will
