ABOUT THE CORSET

If legend may be trusted the corset was invented by a German butcher desirous of punishing his gossiping wife.

Certain it is, whatever may have been the mopointed straps and piping, and pleat- tive lying behind its making, the early corset was verily a contrivance rods and plates of whalebone and steel, crudely adjusted, with no acknowledgment of the demands of health, and. laced tightly to the limit of compression and endurance, it might easily warrant so unfortunate an origin.

But good effect has emerged from evil cause, and grace and comfort have been evolved from the butcher's cruel device. The modern corset of approved design is not only fashion's first and firm foundation, but a medium of hygienic principles.

The latter claim is strongly urged in connection with the "Nemo," one of the American corsets specialized by the Store, and advised in particular for figures the hips, it yet fits so easily as to with Colbert edges. July Sale, per cause no compression upon the pair ...... $2.45

Generally speaking, the corset of the present season shows a slightly higher bust, a more clearly defined waist line, the unaltered straight front, and a shorter back. These are the universal characteristics of the galaxy of well-tried Department has placed upon its shelves-the "Madame Irene. especially adapted to slight, medium figures; the "Kabo," the "R. and G," the "La Adria," and the "P. N.," running, in all, the gamut of price from a dollar and a quarter to twelve dollars and a half per pair.
