Majority of Fifty-Eight For Conscription Bill On the Final Reading

Ottawa, July 24—The conscription bill is through the commons. At 5.32 o'clock this afternoon, after a final three hours of debate, the third reading was carried by a vote of 102 to 44, a majority of 58. It was carried with the help of twenty-two Liberals, eight of them from Ontario, two from the maritime provinces, and twelve from western Canada. Ten absentees, five Liberals and five Conservatives who voted for the second reading of the bill and who were not paired this afternoon, would have brought the majority up to sixty-eight. Of the Ontario members, all but two, Hon. Charles Murphy and Mr.

Proulx, of Prescott, are recorded in favor of the bill. This fact alone corrects a misinterpretation which seems to have been placed in some quarters upon the conclusions reached at the Liberal conference of members and candidates in Toronto last Friday. Reference was made to this briefly, at the opening of the house this afternoon, by Messes. Pardee and Guthrie, both taking occasion to reaffirm their attitude taken on the second reading of the bill in favor of the principle of conscription to be applied under a union or national government. While intimating that they did not agree with all the conclusions reported to have been reached at the Toronto conference, they did not specify wherein

Mr. Turriff, Assinibola, who also spoke briefly at the opening of the debate, aligned himself unequivocally with the Liberals supporting the principle of conscription, explaining that this was his first opportunity to indicate his attitude.

Mr. Turriff was absent at the time of the debate on the second reading.

Then came Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Despite the intense heat of the chamber, the veteran opposition leader spoke with all his old vigor, aptness in phrasing and cogency of argument. For-nearly an hour he reviewed the salient points at lasue in regard to the bill. On the second reading of the bill, Sir Wiffrid devoted the main portion of his argument to the constitutional principles at stake leading up to his conclusion that the wisest solution lay through the medium of a referendum. Today, he emphasized more the dangers of national disunion and discord threatened, and already apparent, from a policy of ecercion without a mandate from the people without which the enforcement of the measure was both

"It is," declared Sir Wilfrid in his peroration, "a denial of those principles of democracy which we hold dear and sacred. I oppose this bill because it has in it the seeds of discord and disunion; because it is an obstacle and a bar to that on of heart and soul without which it is impossible to hope that this on was effected. All my life I have fought coercion, and all my life I promoted union, and the inspiration which led me to that course shall be guade at all times so long as there is a breath left in my body."

If conscription should be defeated, there would be tion should be defeated, there would be a new duty cast upon the people. A new appeal would have to be made to the whole of Canada to come forward with their best endeavors in the defence of a noble cause. But of one thing he was convinced, the majority must rule. His polizy, he declared, he would be prepared to defend in Ontario, as well as in Quebec.

Hon. Arthur Meighen, the only speaker on the government side, took upsemewhat briefly, the arguments advanced by Sir Wilfrid. On the question of disunion feared by Sir Wilfrid as a result of the conscription measure, the limits of the county of St. John, is to be also local inspector of the county of St. John. of disunion feared by Sir Wilfrid as a result of the conscription measure, the solicitor general declared that were Sir Wilfrid himself to give the proper lead in his province and explain the needs and the meaning of the measure clearly to the people of Quebec, there would be no real cleavage of opinion among the people of Canada and no resistance to the enforcement of the act. The blame for the present situation he placed on the shoulders of Sir Wilfrid himself. "For harmony in Canada," declared Mr. Meighen, "the price we must never pay

"Ontario should procude 28,000,000 bushels of potatoes this year. It may not produce 12,000,000 if the blight is not vigorously attacked."

This alarming statement was made by J. B. Dandeno, inspector of Agricultural classes at the O. A. C., Guelph.
