Man Cut To Pieces High In The Air By Airship Propellor

Louis James, Swinging from Rope Ladder, is Caught by Another Machine.

Trying Exhibition Stunt by Climbing from One Airship Into Another—Drops Dead Into Thick of a Staring Crowd.

(Canadian Press) Chicago, July 3—Swinging on a rope ladder dangling from an aeroplane 600 feet in the air, as he sought to thrill 6,000 pleasure seekers at Homewood, a Chicago suburb, Louis James, a nationally known aviator and a protégé of Ruth Law, was yesterday cut to pieces by the propeller of another plane and dropped into the midst of the crowd below.

The occasion was the second day of a much advertised aerial celebration under the auspices of the American Legion of Homewood. The feature of the day, James, was to perform the stunt made famous by Lieut. Homer C. Locklear, that of climbing from one ship to another in midair. When both ships were inspected, James climbed to the top wing of one and, lying flat upon its surface, grasped two struts and gave the signal to go ahead.

The planes rose and seemed to sheer together for a moment. James and the ladder were thrown squarely into the propeller of the lower ship, a heavy box of wood, turning at 1,600 revolutions to the minute.

The body of the man was seen to crumple as, a moment later, mangled and bleeding, his hands still clutching a bit of ladder bar, he dropped into the crowd below. James was dead long before his body hit the ground.

The two pilots, nerve shaken, made rough but successful landings. Officials and clerks also took places of strikers in the St. Louis district. The Pennsylvania shopmen had asked to be reinstated, fearing they would lose their jobs if not reinstated.

The machine gunners were maintaining a devastating fire against the front of the buildings, particularly pressing the attack on the Hamman Hotel, where the Free Staters were believed to be holding out following their flight from the Gresham Hotel. Williams Still Leads With Twenty, But Ruth Gets Three and Brings His Total to Twelve—Gloucester Bay Horse Races—Late Sport News.

(Canadian Press) New York, July 3—Apparently spurred to greater exploits by a sudden spurt on the part of Babe Ruth, home run sluggers of both leagues fattened their totals in a week end that reverberated with circuit bloop.

Ruth, in his real stride for the first time this season, hammered out his fourth homer in three games and his twelfth of the season yesterday, while the Yankees were taking their fourth straight from Philadelphia, 9 to 3.

But overshadowing even this Ruthian achievement, was the record of Tillie Walker, who cracked out a brace of homers, making his total four in the last two games and bringing his season's total to seventeen, only three behind Ken Williams.

Ruth collected a homer in the first game of a double-header on Saturday at Philadelphia and two more in the second game, in which six were made off together. Scintillating danger to his crown, Williams walloped out his twentieth four base drive yesterday, and helped the Browns take their fourth straight game from the Indians.

St. Louis and Brooklyn each gained a full game on the Giants in the National League race as a result of double victories over the Reds and the Red Sox, respectively, while the leaders were idle.

Hornsbury of the Cardinals failed to increase his home run total after having registered his eighteenth on Saturday. The Detroit Tigers recovered their batting eyes and checked Chicago's winning streak of eight games, rounding off the White Sox, 12 to 8. Walter Johnson's shutout streak, which had lasted for three games, was ended when the Athletics defeated the Senators 2 to 1. Atlanta was in old time form and the Chicago Cubs easily defeated Pittsburgh, 8 to 1.
