WILSON HOME TODAY

Dreadnoughts and Destroyers Out to Sea to Escort His Ship

New York, July 8.—Four dreadnoughts and thirty-six destroyers from the Atlantic fleet formed an escort that met the United States naval transport George Washington with President Wilson aboard, thirty miles east of Sandy Hook early today. The presidential salute from the vessel was the first of the many welcoming ceremonies waiting the president on his arrival here this afternoon. In the harbor were forty-five warships, headed by the flagship Pennsylvania, with Admiral Henry B. Wilson aboard, assigned to join the out-harbor escort.

On duty for the president's arrival were 1,100 policemen from the Jersey City and Hoboken forces and several thousand school children were formed in River street to greet the president with the "Star Spangled Banner" as he leaves.

Immediately after the welcoming exercises in Carnegie Hall President Wilson will leave for Washington.

Message to Congress.

On Board S. S. George Washington.—(By Wireless to the Associated Press) July 7.—President Wilson's message to be delivered to congress on Thursday is completed. It contains about 5,000 words devoted to the peace treaty and protocols and the work of the peace conference.

It is understood these peace conference subjects are dealt with on broad general lines without taking up the large questions of the treaty in detail as this probably will come later when the foreign relations committee of congress examine the details.

HUGE LOSS ON AMERICAN RAILROADS BEING ADDED TO; FREIGHT DECREASE A FACTOR

Washington, July 8.—Decrease in freight business continues to be an important factor in causing a deficit in the operation of the railroads, Director General Hines said yesterday in estimating that the deficit for class 1 roads, those having at least $1,000,000 annual income, amounted to $36,000,000 in May. The loss to the government in five months this year has been $272,250,134 for the large roads.

DEADLOCK OVER HOURS.

Kingsport, Ont., July 7.—Negotiations resting the metal trades council, representing the metal strikers, and President Wallace, representing the Canadian Locomotive Company, have reached a deadlock. The president has made a final offer of a forty-five hour week at a fifty-four hour pay, and the men have rejected the offer, insisting on a forty-four hour week.

In the Charlotte street citadel last evening an enjoyable concert was given by the combined Boy Scouts and Girl Guides of the Salvation Army. Brigadier Moore presided.

CIRCUS PROVED A REAL GOOD ONE

John Robinson's Show Had Very Large Patronage and All Was of the Best in Entertainment

Business cares went to the winds, the high cost of living faded to a shadow and the trials and tribulations of the last four years of strife were temporarily forgotten yesterday—all roads led to the North End and John Robinson's big tented show. It was a regular peacetime gala day and all ages, and stages of humanity came, saw and were satisfied. Milton must have had John Robinson in mind when he wrote:

And young and old come forth to play On the sunshine holiday.

There was everything that a circus must have—its monster street parade with prancing horses, glittering gaily decorated wagons, steam callioles, rube bands, clowns, restless caged wild animals, string of big lumbering elephants, slouching along trunk grasping tall, long-legged, much-behumped camels, ludicrous clowns and Charlie Chaplin. Charlie kept the crowd amused while the big tents were being filled for both shows and his bare-faced intimacies were taken with the usual good spirit of the circus crowd.

In the big main show for two hours and half act followed act with lightning rapidity and the big crowd was kept amused continuously. After the band had played an opening march, the show opened with a parade of all the performers and animals around the big ring and the trained elephants went through their paces, waited, and one big fellow delighted the crowd with an exhibition of the Shimmy-shake. A hit of the show was the fine string of horses, every one trained to the minute and ridden by exceptionally clever horsemen and women. One fine black ridden by a woman was particularly clever and met with well merited applause.

The several groups of acrobats and wire artists were more than ordinarily good. Their work, away up under the tent roof was watched with interest and suspense and there was each time a great sigh of relief as they were lowered to the floor. Three hair raisers were produced as two ladies who slid from the roof to the ground the whole length of the big tent, one hanging to the slanting wire by her hair and the other by her teeth, and the Jap wire walker who walked a wire to the roof and did a toe slide to the ground.

An outstanding feature was the work of the Nelson family, one of the finest acrobatic acts ever seen under a big canvas here.

There were more than the usual number of clever, comical clowns, and their antics brought screams of laughter from the kiddies, even the staid adults soon warmed up to their amusing actions and joined heartily with the children in the amusement.

Following the main show came a clever exhibition of horse management, rope throwing and broncho busting of the wild west variety. The star in this part of the show was Nebraska Bill, sole survivor of Buffalo Bill's famous band. He handled his sixty-five foot whip with wonderful dexterity and cleverness, cutting a piece of paper into strips while held in the hand of a girl.

Freaks of nature and remarkable stunts by both men and women were found in the side shows and the peanuts and pink lemonade were not missing. The animal show was particularly good, interest centering around the kangaroo on one end and the Australian kangaroos on the other. There was everything there that a circus should have and it was the opinion of all that they got their money's worth.

TO FREDERICTON HOSPITAL.—Private Harrison McCluskey, who recently returned from overseas, where he was wounded and lost his leg at Cambrai, left on Monday on the 8.10 train for Fredericton to go to hospital where he will receive further treatment. His many friends will wish him speedy restoration to health.

HEAVY FINE OR PRISON FOR THE PROFITEERS

Decree by King of Italy—Florence Stores Soon Sold Out When Prices Cut

London, July 8.—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy has issued a decree that profiteers will be in future fined 10,000 lire or sentenced to from three months to three years in prison and will in addition suffer confiscation of their goods, except those necessary for the exchange of the goods. It is said that unauthorized middlemen dealing in food will suffer similar punishment.

The despatch states a general strike was declared in Naples on Monday. After looting outlying stores in that city, a crowd attempted to reach the centre of the place, but was prevented by the police who were occupying the principal thoroughfares. At Palermo, the police have arrested 400 former convicts, who are alleged to be responsible for many of the disorders on Sunday.

Florence, Italy, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The business houses here were overrun this morning with bargain hunters who sought to take advantage of the price reduction decreed here. Many stores had completely sold out before noon.

The correspondent visited thickly settled sections of the city today and saw the violent eagerness of men, women and children seeking to secure eatables, clothing, dry goods, shoes and household articles. The articles were sold only on the presentation of a card from the prefect's office, so that only residents of Florence will be able to benefit from the price reduction.

It was learned that workmen's committees deliberately chose the stores they wished to have ransacked. These included places which were alleged to have violated governmental regulations and were restrictions in selling prohibited food articles at exorbitant prices, thereby making fabulous profits.

The king's commissioner for Florence issued a proclamation today placing the population on rations and decreeing reductions in prices approximating fifty per cent in eatables. Restaurants and cafes were ordered to lower their rates thirty per cent.

THE SINN FEIN ORGANIZATIONS ARE DECLARED ILLEGAL

Dublin, July 7.—(By The Associated Press)—A proclamation has been issued from Dublin Castle declaring all Sinn Fein organizations and Irish volunteers in the county of Tipperary unlawful associations.

This announcement is made in a memorandum by the chief secretary for Ireland enumerating a series of crimes and offences in the last year and stating that as the measures already taken have failed to check the Sinn Fein's criminal activities, the government is compelled to suppress the organizations.

Owen Johnson's Story Given Life on Screen—A Strikingly Effective Presentation

"Virtuous Wives" received its initial presentation on Imperial Theatre's screen yesterday with very satisfying patronage to the management no doubt, as well as satisfying effect upon those who paid to see it, judging from comment. The filmed version gives flesh and blood to Owen Johnson's well known best seller and no amount of money seemed to have been spared in making it a marvel of beauty in every way. As a sermon on modern social conditions it was what some might term a "whizzer"—it certainly spared nobody. Anita Stewart, Edwin Booth, Mrs. DeWolf Hopper, Conway Tearle and the other players were splendid in their respective parts.

"Virtuous Wives" is a notable fiction truly. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Forrester—blissfully happy in the first few weeks of their married life, comfortably settled in a "small" New York apartment of fourteen rooms and three baths, made possible by his income of $25,000 a year. Maurice Delabarre, steel magnate with world-wide interests, bristles with polished indignation when Andrew refuses his offer of $50,000 a year for five years and a stock bonus which would make him a millionaire, to go to Colorado and develop one of his holdings. Determined to make Andrew's remarkable executive ability an asset to himself, Delabarre invites the young couple to his country estate.

Their visit succeeds in greatly impressing Andrew Forrester with Amy's enhanced beauty and charm against a background of lavish elegance. Irma Delabarre, a social idol and a model mistress of conventional flirtations and diverting "affairs," offers, at her husband's suggestion, to entertain Amy while Andrew is absent in the west—there to win the fortune which is to give his young wife the same luxuries and social latitude that Irma enjoys. Forrester accepts Delabarre's offer, and asks Amy to play both of them while he is away.

Monie Bracken, social waster of the moneyed, intelligent type, falls in love with Amy, to the surprise of Irma Delabarre, who secretly cherishes an affection for him above all other of her conventional admirers. To thwart Bracken's effort to win Amy away from her husband, Irma writes a note of warning to Andrew, who returns at once to New York. Amy refuses his demands that she pack and go west with him immediately.

It is the eve of her first big social triumph—a pre-historic ball.

Andrew quickly grasps the extent of unconsciously becomes Irma's victim as her reprisal against Amy for winning Bracken from her. Andrew thwarts Irma's effort to wreck his pride by remaining loyal to Amy, despite the insult Bracken of being a cad, and has his eyes opened by the social parasite to the fact that it is his own conduct toward his wife which has led Amy to the dangerous point.

Andrew gives Amy an hour in which to make her choice. She seeks the woods for solitude to hide her own heartache caused by Andrew's misinterpretation of her intentions with Bracken. There she rises to a situation fraught with great personal danger to herself, and which leads to a revolution of conduct in the Delabarre household, and her own triumph over an obstacle of such proportions that it seemed certain to wreck the happiness of herself, her husband and their associates. In the successful outcome of her bravery and forgiveness of self she provides a modern definition of the meaning of virtuous wives, and establishes a new feminine standard which brings happiness out of misery and moral danger.
