Brokers' Opinions
NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Houseman & Co., "Inevitable" announcement has been an increase in reports of similar nature. According to rumor, Texas Co. is interested in Associated Oil and there is a possibility of a General Petroleum-American Western grouping. We still maintain our previous recommendation, among others, Associated Oil, "Inevitable" irregularly would not be surprising, but on the other hand it is likely to be confined to the stock market and not to the influence by strength in many parts of the rail, oil and utilities.
Clark Childs "Do not neglect improvement already developed in the oil position, but it may be reasonably seen in copper."

Morning Stock Letter

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Since sales of stocks for tax purposes must be made today, they will be able to determine whether they have been important in this market. We believe that the stocks that are considerably below their year's high, and that this selling is a big factor in the irregularity that has been so pronounced lately. This morning we also have a warning from Mr. Hoover against over-speculation in the stock market, as perhaps tending to cause speculation in commodities prices and consequently speculation. However, while speculation has been large we have seen little evidence of it for instance, are $ a ton below the level at the end of 1924. There certainly has been no indication in copper or sugar prices. Crude rubber has probably been forced too high, but this has had nothing to do with conditions in this country. As the year ends the business situation is very bright. The same time stocks have, of course, advanced and the price level is high. There are stocks, however, and on our list have still not discounted all favorable developments and we think money still be made on the one side of the market, but we must be cautious and discriminate in operations.
