

by all classes and denominations. A universal sympathy was excited. Restrictions were abolished and new Statutes were framed on a liberal basis, suited to the altered circumstances of the country, and throwing open the doors and honors of the College to all classes and creeds.

From that time the College has been advancing in prosperity and usefulness, and in favor with the public. With five well qualified Professors to carry out the carefully arranged and comprehensive Curriculum of study, each year has witnessed an increasing influx of the youth of this and the neighbouring Provinces, to enjoy the benefits of a sound and thorough education, many of whom bear off distinguished honors, while all are afforded the means of becoming useful in their day and generation. In the last ten years, the average number of students annually enrolled on the matricula has been five times larger than in all the previous years of the existence of the College; and this, too, in the face of the formidable competition of other Institutions, sustained by a large amount of funds and talents, and zeal, and popular support. It is the anxious desire of the Governors to maintain the high standing of the Institution under their charge, and to make it keep pace with the requirements of these stirring times.

With a President of established reputation for varied acquirements,—a Professor of Chemistry and Natural History who has made himself an honored name among men of science at home and abroad,—a Professor of Mathematics, &c. of high attainments,—a Professor of Divinity whose soundness in the faith can not be questioned,—and a Professor of Modern Languages, who has proved himself, during the nine years of his incumbency, a first rate Teacher, combining with his accurate knowledge of foreign languages, the rare qualification of a surprising perfection in our own—with all these appliances at command, the Governors can unhesitatingly assure the Parents and Guardians of youth in these Lower Provinces, that at Windsor their sons can acquire such an education as will fit them for any walk of life for which they may be destined. Nor should another assurance be withheld, that in the all-important matter of moral and religious training the utmost
