

FOR WOMEN

HOW TO USE UP LEFT-OVER DRINKS

The thrifty housekeeper in this day of high prices is not guilty of throwing away even a cupful of coffee, or a glass of grape juice. Instead, she uses the small amount in some way as follows:

Sardines.
Curried Rice.
Bazaar Cake.
Bazaar Cake—4 cup sugar, 1½ cups flour, 1 large teaspoon baking powder, the whites of 2 eggs, ½ cup milk, 1 tablespoonful butter, 1 teaspoonful vanilla. Do not beat this separately, but put all these ingredients together into a large bowl and beat vigorously for five minutes. Then bake in layers.

Pillows for Bazaar Cake Made of Left-Over Cocoa.—Sift one cup of better cocoa, add to it 2 table-spoons of dissolved arrowroot, more sugar if necessary, a very little salt, and one slightly beaten egg-yolk. As soon as the cocoa is added, remove from the fire and allow to cool. Before it is entirely cool, however, add ½ teaspoonful of vanilla and spread between the layers of the cake.

Tea.
Coffee Blanc Manger.
Coffee Blanc Manger—4 cups scalded milk, 1 cup strong coffee, 1½-cup sugar, ½ table-spoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon butter, a little salt. Make a paste by adding a little of the cold coffee to the ½ table-spoon of cornstarch, then add this paste, with the remainder of the coffee, to sugar and salt. Let this mixture cook in the upper part of a double boiler for five minutes above boiling water, then place it over the fire and allow the cornstarch to boil for a few seconds. Just before taking from the stove, stir in the butter. Pour into a pudding dish and set in a cool place to become firm.

Macaroni with Cheese.
Crispe Jello Jelly.
Crispe Jello Jelly—1 table-spoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup grape juice, 1 table-spoon lemon juice, ½ cup boiling water. Let the gelatin soak in cold water until softened, then add the boiling water and stir until dissolved. Next put in the sugar, lemon juice and grape juice, pour into a mold and set in a cool place to solidify.

HOW LONG CAN A BIRD FLY?
It is said that the longest continuous bird flight in the world is made by the golden plover, covering a distance of 2,400 miles between Nova Scotia and South America, without pausing or resting in 48 hours. This bird, which along the Arctic coast of North America, as far as the young are able to care for themselves they migrate, by way of the Labrador coast of the Atlantic, to Nova Scotia, from which they shape a straight southerly sea-course to the Argentine.

After six months' vacation in the south, the golden plover finds its way back to the Arctic by an entirely different route, going northwesterly across Santa America and the Gulf of Mexico to the coast of Louisiana and Texas, thence up the Mississippi valley and more northerly streams to the Arctic.

Equally wonderful in its way is the flight of the golden plover of the Pacific coast from Alaska, 2,000 miles across the trackless island sea, to Hawaii.

A MUSEMENTS

TRIBUTE TO MISS FREDERICK.

Masso Inoyne, perhaps the most prominent actor in Japan today, Professor Kiyoshio Masumoto, studio master, and A. Susuki, New York representative of the International Motion Picture Company of Tokyo, called upon Pauline Frederick, Robertson-Cole star, at her studio last week, bearing a message of the high regard in which she is held in the land of cherry blossoms.

The call was in the nature of a surprise to Miss Frederick, for when the guests arrived she was playing in a scene from the screen adaptation of "Iris," Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's play, her first Robertson-Cole production.

As a token of reverence to Miss Frederick and her art, Masso Inoyne appeared attired in his most picturesque costume. He presented her with a kimono of purest pastel colors, beautifully embroidered in gold and silver thread with his chief floral decoration, strangely enough, an iris.

WALLACE REID HAS DUAL ROLE.

For the second time in his career as a screen star, Wallace Reid plays in his latest Paramount starring vehicle titled, "Always Audacious," a dual role. This double characterization requires the star to assume two personalities entirely antagonistic to each other and necessitates a portrayal of two extreme types of character—the hero and the heavy.

The picture, which is founded on Ben Ames Williams' Saturday Evening Post story, "Toujours l'Audace," depicts the experiences of two men who were born on the same day, and are exact doubles in every physical respect. One is a young millionaire and the other is a gentleman crook and check forger.

Margaret Loomis plays the role of the sweetheart of the hero, assuring delightful romance. There are several unique character roles interpreted by Clarence Geldart, J. M. Dumont, Rhea Haines and Carmen Phillips. Others of importance are Guy Oliver and Fannie Midgley.

Why August is a month of Fur Opportunities

MANY people wonder how we can make such remarkable concessions in the price of furs. The unheard of cost of "green" furs would almost seem to make price reductions an impossibility.

But have you ever thought of "idle sales periods"? Think of the "overhead expense" when clerks aren't busy, and yet there must be a sufficiency of clerks to meet "rush season" needs.

One step toward the efficient is to spread the load evenly over the entire season, equalizing the dull periods with the excessively busy ones.

Our August Fur Sale

helps to eliminate the costly "idle periods" and reduces the "overhead" expense. This benefit goes to our customers in lower prices.

Don't be misled into thinking that prices will drop later in the season. That is an impossibility. No new furs are coming in and present demands exceed the supply.

Your only chance for realizing "fur economy" is to buy now. Many choice pieces of wonderful beauty and luxuriance are offered here at prices that will be impossible later.
