ANOTHER MASSACRE OF RUSSIAN JEWS

Hundreds Victims of a Mob; Houses and Stores Pillaged

Police Said to Have Encouraged the Slaughter, and Soldiers Helped, Too—Wild Scene in the Douma When War Minister Pavloff Announced the Government Could Not Suspend Death Sentences—Cries of "Assassin," "Murderer," and Such Like Were Hurlled at Him as He Flurried from the Chamber.

Bialystok, Russia, June 14—A Jewish anarchist threw a bomb among the Corpus Christi procession which was in progress here today and killed or wounded many persons. In consequence the Christians attacked and pillaged the Jews and demolished their shops. Hundreds of persons were killed or wounded. The bomb was thrown from the balcony of a house in Alexandrov street. A Russian clergyman named Federoff, was among those killed by the explosion. Soldiers surrounded the house and fired two volleys into the windows.

Meanwhile the exasperated Christians attacked the Jewish stores in Alexandrov and Sura streets, demolishing the fixtures and windows and throwing the goods into the gutters and beating and murdering the Jews. A crowd of Jews fled to the railroad station, pursued by the mob, which killed many of them there. Three Jews were thrown from a second story window of the railroad station building.

The Jews are fleeing from Bialystok to the neighboring forests and are pursuing them. Detachments of Dragons have been sent out to protect the Jews. Jews arriving on the railroad trains have been dragged out of the cars and many of them have been murdered. Troops have cleared the railway station. At 4 o'clock this afternoon the disturbance still continued.

Massacre Continues.

St. Petersburg, June 15, 2.15 a. m.—The latest despatches from Bialystok, which were received about midnight, report a situation of the utmost gravity. The anti-Jewish outbreak there was still raging; fighting was in progress in the streets, the firing was continuous; the best stores in the city had been sacked, and many were dead or wounded. Figures, however, were not given, and probably exaggerated. It is not known in Bialystok owing to the continuance of the disorders. The signal for the outbreak, which apparently was deliberately planned, was given as a counterstroke for the murder of Chief of Police Derkatchoff on June 10, which was attributed to Jewish bandits, and given as the excuse for a bomb attack on a religious procession. This was followed by revolver fusillades in several quarters of the city. The police are said not to have acted in the streets, but to have been unable to prevent the pillaging of their homes and places of business. Finally the military interfered, but, according to a dispatch received here, without being able to restore order.

Reinforcements have been rushed to Bialystok from Grodno. Several members of parliament tonight received messages from Jewish correspondents at Bialystok declaring that the police apparently had given over the Hebrew population to slaughter and pillage. These correspondents urged that the only hope was in an appeal to the ministry of the interior to interfere in their behalf. A delegation of deputies immediately called at the headquarters of the police department where they were informed that all measures possible had been taken to stop excesses and restore order.

Tumult Reigns in Douma.

St. Petersburg, June 14—The lower house of parliament was rocked and agitated this afternoon by successive waves of passion evoked by a series of government communications, including Military Procurator Pavloff's rejection of the appeal of the house for a cessation of the executions in the Baltic provinces, and the refusal of the Procurator of the District court that the house expel M. Ulanoff, who has been indicted, although

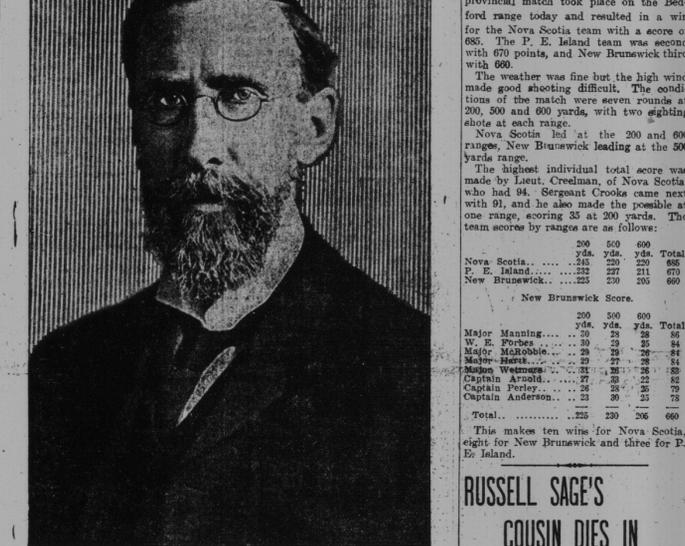

CINQMARS GETS CENSURE AND APPLAUSE IN HOUSE

French Newspaper Man Nominally Punished for Article About Foster

Arraigned Before the Bar of Parliament, He Pleads Justification, and Reads a Long Statement About ex-Finance Minister's Attitude, for Years, Towards French-Canadians—Duncan Ross Defends the Press in Ringing Speech—Laurier Moves That the Culprit Be Punished, Which is Done Amid Great Cheering.

(Special to The Telegraph.) Ottawa, June 14—Anyone who witnessed the ordeal through which Hon. George E. Foster passed since he was summoned the representative of La Presse to the bar of parliament will never want to go through the same experience. Parliament today nominally censured Cinquars but the latter to the constituted courts of the country. Mr. Foster had preferred to bring his case before a court of which he was himself a member and which was partly made up of his own party and personal friends. Yet the honorable gentleman read the house a lecture as to the course it should pursue under such circumstances.

GEORGE E. FOSTER.

had his innings against the member for North Toronto from the bar first in French then in English. It was no wonder that Mr. Foster wanted to narrow the scope of the inquiry.

The minister of justice asked the member for North Toronto if he ever heard of Cinquars, and he replied that he had not. He was then asked if he had ever heard of the British parliament since 1819. This had to be admitted.

The only complaint that Mr. Ross had against the article was that it was Foster's case being laughed out of court. But it was Duncan Ross that made the speech of the day. He brought the discussion up to a high level and defended the right of the press, as every one expected he would. He conclusively showed that no such case as that of Cinquars was brought before the British parliament since 1819.

"Murders Not Sentences." M. Lednitsky concluded with saying: "These are murders and not sentences, and you are murderers instead of fail-lures of the law."

Father Akhanastieff of Ufa, brought the house to its feet with a reference to the Holy Synod's prohibition of prayers for the repose of the soul of Lieut. Schmidt, who was executed for participation in the naval mutiny at Sevastopol. He said the ministry was marked with the brand of Cain and was ripe for Divine vengeance.

A vehement speech by M. Alladin, the leader of the Peasant workmen group was stopped by President Mounruff when M. Alladin called the ministers traitors and urged the conversion of the ministerial benches into a prisoner's dock.

The house adjourned at 8 o'clock after adopting a resolution expressing profound discontent with the answer of the ministry on the subject of the death sentences.

THREE NEW SYNODS OF PRESBYTERIANS

General Assembly Creates Them in the Northwest Provinces

Lively Discussion Over Safety of Church Funds—Judge Forbes Declares Against So Many Changes in Hymns—Cast Iron Rule Rescinded That Clergymen in Arrears Cannot Share in Benevolent Funds—Next Meeting in Montreal.

(Special to The Telegraph.) London, Ont., June 14—Talk and business stand in inverse relation when measured by time. This is true of assemblies and parliaments. The union debate consumed three full sessions when such business as the appointment of a treasurer went off in one hour. It was however discussed for three or four days in committee. The assembly saw a little of the opposition that kept this committee engaged.

After R. C. Jennings, of Toronto, an applicant for the position, had given the financial statement of the church a handling, a little milder, however, than Sir Richard used to do. Principal Scrimger gave no uncertain sound as to his dissatisfaction with the character and way certain investments had been made, but Hamilton Cassels, a prominent lawyer of Toronto, and J. R. Reid, a financier of Ottawa, were able to show that the learned doctor's facts were not correct and his suspicions groundless.

Funds Voted All Right. The assembly held its breath for a moment or two and came to a unanimous conclusion that the treasurer and advisory board were entirely justified in the course adopted. The discussion hinged upon "call loans" and unauthorized investments.

The Psalms and Hymns were found to be subjects where explosions could occur any time. Dr. Sedgewick and others protested against the hymnal committee getting resolutions passed in assembly which, though small beginnings, after a time proved to be entirely against the will of the church. He referred to the conferences where new versions of the Psalms were being selected or made and said "the first thing I know we shall be confronted with a new book of praise."

Judge Forbes warmly supported him and said that a new book would cost the church $100,000, and create a whirlwind in the congregations.

The report was amended so as to limit the committee along these lines. The profits, however, proved a much more harmonious subject. They totaled $2,500 as the share of the church to be given to the aged and infirm ministers' fund and the widows' and orphans' fund. Thus the maritime synod will receive $825 as its share. The agreement with Oxford press expires this year a higher royalty will come into effect with the next contract.

Dr. McMullen said: "We are making history these days. Three new synods are formed by one assembly and the documents show that the men in the west who drew them up are very capable legislators."

The names of the synods and first moderators are as follows: British Columbia, to meet in Victoria; Rev. J. K. Wright, moderator. The Maritime Synod had only one, namely, Rev. R. G. Fisher, lately a missionary of the Methodist church. He will assist the staff in Trinidad.

The assembly decided to allow the names of certain ministers, now engaged at such work as the Lord's Day Alliance, to be put on the roll of Presbytery. This is a rule intended to prevent a condition that prevails in the United States, where the regular pastors are outvoted by men actually outside the work.

"Cast Iron Rule" Changed. Dr. McMullen succeeded in changing the "cast iron rule" which throws a person out of any benefit of the benevolent funds because of failure to pay dues. Dr. Sedgewick contended that this change would be an injustice and paralyze the management of the funds. The change, however, was made by the assembly.

Another change was proposed, but defeated on division. It was to put the appeals that are continually being made of all kinds and localities under the control of a central authority. Drs. Scrimger and Scott held that it does congruity to be called upon frequently to exercise liberality.

Principal McLaren opposed, in a well-argued speech, the proposal to unite the two missionary societies. He claimed that it would be inconceivable for a union society to be arbitrary to two distinct organizations in the church.

The general feeling was that there are too many societies, and the same people are doing the same work. All of them. The motion therefore carried. The remaining business is being rushed. Many of the delegates have left, particularly the men from the west.

The next assembly will meet in Montreal.

POOR SHOOTING

Winners' Score Was 685, the Island 670, and This Province 660—Lieut Creelman Made 94, Which Was the Highest—High Winds Handicapped the Marksmen.

(Special to The Telegraph.) Halifax, June 14—The twenty-first inter-provincial match took place on the Bedford range today and resulted in a win for the Nova Scotia team with a score of 685. The P. E. Island team was second with 670 points, and New Brunswick third with 660.

The weather was fine but the high wind made good shooting difficult. The conditions of the match were seven rounds at 200, 500 and 600 yards, with two evening shots at each range.

Nova Scotia led at the 200 and 600 yards, New Brunswick leading at the 500 yards range.

FORMER LOVERS CHARGE EACH OTHER WITH MURDER

Girl Declares That Her Father Was Killed by Man She Was to Marry, and He Swears That She Did It.

New York, June 14—After Gertrude O'Hara had testified in court at Minneola (L. I.), today that Grover Cleveland Poole confessed to her that he murdered her father, James O'Hara, the man whom she had accused went on the witness stand in his own behalf and testified that Miss O'Hara had confessed to him that she murdered her own father.

The extraordinary course of testimony was a big surprise to everybody but the defence. An interesting phase of the curious angle arising from the murder is the fact that the crime is alleged to have been prompted by O'Hara's opposition to his daughter's engagement to marry Poole, against whom she testified today.

O'Hara was murdered last August and his body was found buried in the woods at Port Washington (L. I.).

In her testimony today Miss O'Hara, who is 18 years old, said that Poole and her father had often quarrelled over her education and she had been driven away from the house. On the night of the murder she declared, Poole came to the O'Hara house about midnight and when she admitted him, told her that he had shot and killed her father, while O'Hara was unable to take care of himself, and had dragged his body into the woods.

Poole then warned her to be silent or she would suffer a similar fate.

On the following night Miss O'Hara said, Poole told her that he had buried her father's body in the woods.

In his own defence Poole testified that he was asleep in the O'Hara house at midnight when Miss O'Hara came, and that she said that she had shot her father and showed him a revolver. Poole said that he asked where the body was hidden and she replied that he would never find it. Poole said that he was in company with O'Hara on the night of the murder.

A CHARLOTTE COUNTY WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

Joseph McLay of Basswood Ridge Perished Before Husband's Eyes.

St. Stephen, June 14—Fire broke out this morning in the house of Joseph McLay, on Bass Wood Ridge, six miles from town. Mrs. McLay was burned to death. A visit to the scene of the fire revealed the following particulars:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLay, with a brother of Mrs. McLay, occupied a comfortable home, the savings of a long, industrious life. This morning the woman was at work outside a shed attending to the smoking of a ham, and her husband was in the barn, nearby, harnessing a horse. A high wind carried the fire to a shed nearby. The woman went in the shed, probably for a pail of water.

Standing inside the door the smoke overcame the woman, who fell to the floor. Her husband, who attempted to enter the shed, was driven back by the flames, after he was badly burned about the head.

Before neighbors arrived the fire had spread to the house and barn, both of which were destroyed. Two cows, one horse and a pig, as well as the contents of all the buildings were lost.

The many farmers' homes in Charlotte county there was no insurance. This man in a short time has lost his worldly belongings as well as the savings of years. Mr. McLay is nearly insane with grief at his great loss.

Coroner Rose went from town, and after hearing the story from Mr. McLay, ordered the charred bones of the unfortunate woman to be buried, deeming an inquest unnecessary.
