

A MORNING'S TROLLING AT PROCTER

At PROCTER, about 20 miles east of Nelson, at the outlet of Kootenay Lake into the west arm, or Kootenay River, is a good hotel, where excellent accommodation is afforded for sportsmen. Some of the best fishing of the district is to be found here, and there is good shooting within easy reach, and house boats, launches, row-boats and guides can be obtained.

Nelson is well supplied, as has been already stated, with exceptionally good stores and every article necessary for fishing, hunting and mountain climbing can be obtained here at reasonable prices. As in all western towns, none but the best classes of goods are kept, and the long experience of the storekeepers in fitting out mining, prospecting and hunting parties, makes their advice valuable to the newcomer and tourist.

Nelson being the capital and business centre of the Kootenays, the tourist, sportsman, mining man or capitalist can with advantage make it his headquarters, and when desirable visit with ease and comfort the various adjacent towns of Rossland, Trill, Kaslo, Slocan City, Silverton, New Denver, Sandon, Ainsworth, Ymir, Salmo, Erie and other places.
