

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

Wicklow. Mr. John Dillon delivered a splendid speech in Arklow, on Sunday, Jan. 24, to the Coolgreany tenantry of Mr. Brooke. Thus, all ball bonds and Castle proclamations to the contrary, Mr. Dillon has carried out his threat which he made to Judge O'Brien's face that he would go on in his course as long as he had the breath of life. This looks well for Sara-Walmar.

Kilkenny. The installation of Mr. P. M. Egan as Mayor of Kilkenny took place on Jan. 1st, in the City Hall. The Mayor, in returning thanks, said he thought Kilkenny would be glad to lend a hand, and he was sure a willing one, in running for the best goal which all Ireland at present struggles to gain, and which he need only say is Home Government.

Louth. On Jan. 4th, the remains of the late Dr. Charles Savage were laid to rest with the bones of his fathers, in the family burial-place, Dunny, co. Louth. The deceased, who was in medical practice in Sheffield, died of a severe attack of pneumonia, and his remains were brought to Drogheda. There was a numerous attendance of clergy and laity. The coffin containing the remains was borne from the steamer, Lord Athlone, to the house in waiting. There was a large concourse of carriage and on foot attendants.

Cork. A large number of ejection processes are posted on the Court-house, at the suit of the trustees of the Carbery estates, against tenants in the district for non-payment of a year and a half's rent. There are also a few at the suit of the now famous Mrs. Frances Rebecca Sadler Wheeler, married woman, against tenants at Clonahick. The struggle between her and her tenants has been going on for some time, the particulars of which the public are familiar with. They have adopted the "Plan of Campaign," and placed their rents beyond her reach. It is more than probable she will cave in, and yield to the just and reasonable demands of her tenants.

Clare. Mr. Michael Egan, of Derrinakee, parish of Oakfield, Co. Clare, died on January 3, aged 105 years. He was an honest man, and had his faculties to the last. His funeral was a very large one to Ballysheehy Churchyard. The relations of Mr. Vandellour with his tenants remain just as they commenced. Mr. Stedley, an agent on the property, refused to give the abatements demanded, viz., 25 per cent. on judicial rents and 30 per cent. on old or non-judicial rents.

Antrim. On the 5th instant, Mr. Sexton, M. P. for West Belfast, was served with five writs, issued out of the Common Pleas Division, at the suits respectively of George Ferguson, slipper-maker; John Burke, sweater; James Martin, insurance society traveller; James McKee, soap boiler; and David Lewis, fitter; all of Belfast. Each of these plaintiffs claims £500 damages in respect of alleged "wrongful arrest, false imprisonment, and malicious prosecution." The claims relate to proceedings connected with the polling in the election for West Belfast. Four co-defendants are named with Mr. Sexton—namely, Mr. John J. O'Donnell, architect, of Belfast; Mr. John J. McCann, flaxbuyer, of Belfast; Dr. Tanner, M. P.; and Mr. Wm. O'Hare, of Belfast. The writs were sued out by Messrs. Bates and Davidson, who acted in the election, and in the recent petition proceedings, for Mr. M. Haslett, the defeated Tory Unionist candidate.

Armagh. At the request of the Most Rev. Dr. McGettigan, the Holy See has been pleased to yield to his application for the appointment of a Conductor, to assist his Grace in the important administration of the archdiocese of Armagh. All the parish priests of the archdiocese have been accordingly summoned to attend in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh, on January 19th, for the purpose of selecting the names of three clergymen, to be afterwards submitted to His Holiness the Pope for approval. The health of Dr. McGettigan is not sufficiently strong to enable him to travel about and discharge all the onerous duties which devolve upon him, and the assistance of a conductor to relieve his Grace of a great deal of anxiety and labor.

Down. The tenantry, numbering one hundred of Cross Moad and Tullaree to wit, on the Annesley estate, marched, on the 7th inst., to the office and presented a petition, requesting 25 per cent. off the November rent. Earl Annesley being in India, and the agent being invisible, the settlement was awaiting the landlord's answer, which cannot be signified before two months.

The tenantry of the Hilltown portion of the Downshire estate recently memorialized the agent for a reduction of 25 per cent. in their rents, owing to the severe depression from which they suffer. The agent, Major M. Chittock, wrote from Ballinacree to say that a reduction of 10 per cent. had already been promised; but he held out no hope that the trustees would grant any more.

On Sunday evening, Jan. 2, a most wanton and savage attack was committed upon the Rev. Dr. Maginnis, O. P., of the Dominican Church, Newry. It appears that the rev. gentleman had been out on a visit to the Most Rev. Dr. Leahy at Violet-hill College, and was returning when he met two or three young men, one of whom rushed at the rev. gentleman and dealt him several blows on the head with a stick, which knocked him down. He sustained a cut on the right side of the head, from which blood flowed freely. The assailant decamped. A surgical operation disclosed a severe contused wound over the right temple, which cut through one of the arteries. The rev. gentleman's head and clothes were covered with blood in a few minutes after the occurrence. He was in a very weak state, having lost a great quantity of blood. John McIlroy, a Protestant, has been arrested and remanded. When asked why he committed the assault he replied that the devil tempted him. Father Maginnis is better, but not out of danger. The utmost indignation prevails among all classes throughout the town at the dastardly outrage.

Galway. Mr. Peter M. Kirwan, of the Castle, Galway, died, on January 6th, after a lingering illness. Mr. Kirwan leaves a wife and young family to deplore his loss, and his mother a venerable lady, sister of the late Bishop O'Donnell, is still alive. The Believing Officer of Clifden has been notified to hold himself in readiness to afford relief to over a dozen tenants threatened with eviction on the estate of Mr. McCullough, of Roundstone, who has steadily refused to give his poor tenants anything like a reasonable reduction. The parties who are in daily expectation of the crowbar brigade reside in the villages of Dolan and Calla, near this town, and are all wretchedly poor, as the following facts testify. One of these, whose name is Patrick Folan, was supplied by the St. Vincent de Paul Society with a few necessaries on Christmas Eve, while his poor old mother was carried to the Union hospital 10 miles distant in the workhouse van, over a road covered with snow on the preceding Sunday. Martin Mannion, another of the unfortunate tenants, awaiting a "sentence of death," is bed-ridden with paralysis, and is totally unable to work upon his miserable holding. The foregoing cases are, however, scarcely as pitiable as that of John King, who partly supports himself by travelling about to adjacent villages in the capacity of an itinerant musician, his instrument of music being a tin whistle. The other cases are equally as bad, and the total amount of money for the two townlands of Dolan and Calla is something about £50.

Unusual crowds of people paraded Ballyhannis from an early hour on January 3, awaiting the arrival of Mrs. J. Mullarkey, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Henahan, who were released after a month's imprisonment for alleged complicity in the attack on Lord Dillon's bailiff and his assistant at Tullaghane, about six weeks ago. About 2,000 people, men and women in professional orders, in national emblems and mottoes, and headed by the brass band of the town, marched to the Ballyhannis station to meet them. As they alighted from the train, they took their seats on a car which was waiting; the horse was immediately unyoked and the car taken by a number of women. The people then fell into ranks, and headed by the band and the released prisoners' car, with its novel mode of locomotion, paraded the town. As the evening advanced, the town was brilliantly illuminated, and huge bonfires were lighted in the market square, surrounded by large and enthusiastic groups awaiting the arrival of Messrs. C. J. and Mayne, M. P.'s, who were expected from Ballinlough to address them. Mr. C. J. delivered two speeches in Ballinlough, and one in Ballinlough, arrived at about half-past five to do honor to the occasion. He spoke at considerable length commending the exemplary action of the Tullaghane women, and making reasonable allusions to Lord Dillon's relations with his tenants.

Recommem. The trial of Jasper Tully for publishing a libelous notice in the Roscommon Herald was resumed at Sligo on January 4, and the jury returned to court and stated that they were unable to agree. The Chief Baron sent them back for half an hour; but at the end of that time, being still unable to agree, they were dispersed, and the trial was postponed to the Roscommon Assizes, in March next.

To Cure a Corn. There is no lack of so-called cures for the common ailment known as corns. The vegetable, animal, and mineral kingdoms have been ransacked for cures. It is a simple matter to remove corns without pain, for if you will go to any druggist or medicine dealer and buy a bottle of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor and supply it as directed the thing is done. Get "Putnam's," and no other.

The Best Taken. "I had dyspepsia for a long time. Was entirely cured by two bottles Burdock Blood Bitters. The best medicine for regulating and invigorating the system I had ever taken. P. P. Tanner, Needing P. O., Ont.

O. E. Comstock, Caladonia, Minn., writes: "I was suffering the most excruciating pains from inflammatory rheumatism. One application of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil afforded almost instant relief, and two bottles effected a permanent cure."

Mrs. W. J. Lang Bethany, Ont., writes: "I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort, I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful oil successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, &c., in fact it is our family medicine."

Mr. T. C. Wells, Chemist and Druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure sells well, and gives the best of satisfaction for all diseases of the blood. It never fails to root out all diseases from the system, cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, etc., purifies the blood, and will make you look the picture of health and happiness."

AMONG THE WARMEST ADVOCATES of the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure are ladies formerly in delicate health, whose vigor and bodily regularity have been restored by its use. Cases of debility of long standing, chronic biliousness, weakness of the back and kidneys, feminine ailments, and obstinate types of nervous indigestion, are overcome by it.

NATIONAL PILLS purify the Blood, regulate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

INJUSTICE CORRECTED: CONVINCING VERIFICATION OF WIDESPREAD PUBLIC SENTIMENT. To the Readers of the Catholic Record. In common with many publishers and editors, we have been accustomed to look upon certain statements which we have seen in our columns as merely adroit advertising.

Consequently we feel justified in taking the liberty of printing a few points from a private letter recently received from one of our largest patrons, as a sort of confession of faith to our readers. We quote: "We have convinced ourselves that by telling what we know to be true, we have produced at last a permanent conviction in the public mind. Seven years ago we stated what the national disease of this country was, and that it was rapidly increasing. Three years ago we stated that a marked check had been given it."

"The statistics of one of the largest life insurance companies of this country show that in 1883 and 1884, the mortality from kidney disorders did not increase over the previous year; other companies stated the same thing. It is not presumptuous for us to claim credit for checking the ravages of 'Seven years ago we stated that the condition of the kidneys was the key to the condition of health: within the past five years all careful life insurance companies have conceded the truth of this statement, for, whereas, ten years ago, chemical analysis to determine the condition of the kidneys was not required, now millions of dollars in risks are refused, because chemical examination discloses unsuspected diseases of the kidneys."

"Seven years ago we stated that the ravages of Bright's Disease were insignificant compared with other unsuspected disorders of the kidneys of many misleading names; that ninety-three per cent. of human ailments are attributed to deranged kidneys, which fill the blood with uric acid, or kidney poison, which causes these many fatal diseases."

"The uric acid, or kidney poison, is the real cause of the majority of cases of paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, convulsions, pneumonia, consumption, and insanity; over half the victims of consumption are first the victims of diseased kidneys."

"When the recent death of an honored ex-official of the United States was announced, his physician said that although he was suffering from Bright's Disease, that was not the cause of death. He was frank enough to admit that the apoplexy which overtook him in his bed, was the fatal effect of the uric acid in the blood, which had entered the substance of the arteries and brain; nor was Logan's physician honest enough to state that his fatal rheumatism was caused by kidney acid in the blood."

"If the doctors would state in official reports the original cause of death, the people of this country would be alarmed, yes, nearly panic stricken, at the fearful mortality from kidney disorders."

The writers of the above letter give these facts to the public simply to verify the claims that they have made, that "if the kidneys and liver are kept in a healthy condition by the use of Warner's safe cure, which hundreds of thousands have proved to be a specific, when all other remedies failed, and that has received the endorsement of the highest medical talent in Europe, Australasia and America, many a life would be prolonged and the happiness of the people preserved. It is successful with so many different diseases because it and it alone, can remove the uric acid from the blood through the kidneys."

Our readers are familiar with the preparation named. Commendation thereof has often appeared in our columns. We believe it to be one of the best, if not the best ever manufactured. We know the proprietors are men of character and influence.

We are certain they have awakened a wide spread interest in the public mind concerning the importance of the kidneys. We believe with them that they are the key to health, and that for their restoration from disease and maintenance in health, there is nothing equal to this great remedy.

The proprietors say they "do not glory in this universal prevalence of disease, but having started out with the purpose of spreading the merits of Warner's safe cure before the world, because it cured, in the senior proprietor, who was given up by the doctors as incurable, we feel it our duty to state the facts and leave the public to its own inferences. We point to our claims, and to their public and universal verification by a price, and if the public does not believe what we say, we tell them to ask their friends and neighbors what they think about our preparations."

As stated above, we most cordially commend the perusal of this correspondence by our readers, believing that in so doing, we are fulfilling a simple public obligation.

Food for Consumptives. Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is a most wonderful food. It not only gives strength and increases the flesh but heals the irritation of the throat and lungs. Palatable as milk and in all wasting diseases, both for adults and children, is a marvellous food and medicine.

A Cure for Drunkenness. The cure of drunkenness is a task with which the regular practitioner has been unable to cope. Nine-tenths of mankind look upon drunkenness as a social vice, which a man may overcome by force of will. Drunkenness is bad habit, which cannot be broken in the moderate drinker. In the confirmed drunkard it becomes a disease of the nervous system. The medical treatment of this disease consists in the employment of remedies that act directly upon these portions of the nervous system which, when diseased, cause insanity, dementia, and the drinking habit. Remedies must be employed that will cure the appetite, for strong drink may be trembling hand, revive the lagging spirit, bring the address to the nervous system of the drunkard drunker being a source of strength, must be given a nutriment that will fill the place of the accustomed liquor, and prevent the physical and moral prostration that often follows a sudden breaking off from the use of alcoholic drinks. Lubron's medicine may be given in tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the person taking it, if so desired. Those of our readers who are interested in this subject, should send their address to Lubron's Treatise, in book form, on drunkness, opium, morphine and other habits, which will be mailed free to any address. New stamps is enclosed for postage. Address, Mr. Lubron, 47, Welles Street, West, Toronto, Ont. Mention this paper.

It ranks among the first luxuries of our household." Miss Kate Rose, Ingersoll, Ontario, writes: "While keeping my head clear of dandruff, and preventing Scald Head, Ayer's Hair Vigor has also caused my hair to grow luxuriantly, resulting in my now possessing hair forty-two inches long, and as thick as could be desired." The wife of Dr. V. S. Lovelace, Lovelaceville, Ky., had very bad tetter sores upon her head, causing the hair to fall out. In a village in Norway there is a story of a stork carved on the church, and many of the houses. This is the best story they tell of it—"In the old days there lived a little lad named Conrad, and his widowed mother. One summer a stork came near the house, built its nest close by. Little Conrad and his mother were very kind to the stork. They fed it, so that it got to know them, and would come whenever they called and keep his mother in her old age. One day he was out, and he sprang they watched for it, and when it came it seemed as glad to see them as they were to welcome it. Spring and summer chased each other until Conrad had grown up to be a young man. Then he said he would go to sea and make money enough to go back and keep his mother in her old age. So he went as a sailor, and set out distant land. All went well for many weeks one day when they were near to the coast of Africa, a number of cruel pirates swarmed around in their boats, climbed up the ship's sides. They possession of the ship, and put the stork in chains, and afterwards sold it as slaves. Weeks went by. The widow grew afraid about her boy, it was so long since she had heard of him. Ships came and gone, and brought no tidings of him. At last she gave up all hope of seeing him again, and mourned him as if he were dead. One day she led the lonely mother in her grief, for her, the only thing that seemed to interest her at all was the stork each year. For Conrad's sake she welcomed it and fed it, until the autumn came, and it flew away into the South. Now it happened that one day a poor Conrad told away at his old work in some lonely place, a stork flying close to him, wheeling about in great delight. In a moment the stork flashed on him of his home and mother and their yearly visitor. Scarcely knowing what he did he whispered as he used to do to call him to go away. To his delight the stork came to close to him, as if to be fed. Conrad lifted up his heart to God with tears gave thanks that so dear old friend should have found him. Day after day he saved what he could from his wretched meal, for he was calling the bird to his hand. But Conrad's heart grew sad and sore the time came for the bird to fly to the North. Was it going to mother's cottage? Was the nest still that he remembered so well? Then anyone to welcome it now anyone to feed it? Then it occurred to him, why this bird may help me to get away from this vile place. He managed to write on a scrap of paper a line or two, telling where he was, and that he was a slave, and that he tied it firmly around the bird's leg. The spring came again with the stork, and the old widow's eyes lit as she saw the bird. She called it tenderly and welcomed it, and as it took the food from her she caught sight of this strange tied at its leg. Curiously removed it, and thought of her joy when she found it was from her son!

Fort with the tidings she ran to the minister of the village, and he told the news. It quickly spread through the village, they must send and redeem Conrad, was what everybody said. The next Sunday morning the church brought their money to the church, each gave what he could for the man. Then one went to the king to loan him some money, and to get a ship from him, that the pirates would dare to touch. It took a long time in those days to send to Africa, and there to recover Conrad from his slavery. Before the stork had flown, the minister of the church had rung and all the people rejoiced with great joy for the widow's son was redeemed, and safely at home again in his mother's arms. Such is the story they tell of the stork in the Norway village.

Unselfish Meg. Meg had a lovely dolly that Claus brought her, and she loved dearly. She kept it nicely laid away, played with it now and then. One day was left in Meg's care while Meg was out, and she began to treat, for last to cry very hard. Meg tried to amuse her with books and toys, but could not please her. At last she thought of her dolly. She knew Meg would like that, but how could she do it to her? At last she made up her mind to be unselfish and make her sister happy, and she began to treat, for last to cry very hard. Meg tried to amuse her with books and toys, but could not please her.
