There are some excellent specimens of this branc

The best view of it is obtained from the East prizes offered by the goldsmiths' company. The testin of this is perfectly novel. The metal is diversified by enamel in green and other colors, and the effect is exquisitely beautiful. In another

TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1851.

Predictions often prove the sources which originate that good or evil which is realised in their final accomplishment. To create misfortune, it is only necessary to anticipate it by a constant recourse to the nature of those fearful forebodings which too often hasten its

In view of the above remarks, it can-not be doubted that there exists at the present moment no little apprehension on the nature of an antic break, or insurrectionary movement, in England, favored by that great Occasion of national interests which has drawn together the vast assemblage drawn together the vast assemblage now congregated in the City of London. The intimation given by the Duke of Wellington some months ago, that it was expedient to increase the military force of the Metropolis, at least during the time of the Exhibition, was no obscure imitation of that spirit of prophecy to which we have alluded. Some of the London journals have also adverted to the subject, and in referring to the ob-jects contemplated by such a commotion, and the means likely to be employed for its success, have, we think, given a notonety to the matter which might (if there be really such a design) essentially aid the projectors of so rash and unprincipled a scheme. Aid them by sing the dormant spirit of that wild and adventurous enterprise, which only requires to be awakened by a public excitement, always favorable tionary measures. The influence of such an apprehension is not only felt by many individuals in England, whose opinions are entitled to respect, but has even reached the halls of legislation, and been reached the halls of legislation, and been reached of sufficient importance to at ture."—Buffalo Medical Journal. tract the attention of Parliament. Recently, in the House of Commons, Mr.

We have received the May number of the abov luable journal, which has so ably and faithfully ed the interests of the Medical professi the last six years. The present number o us to be one of unusual interest, containing, it does, a variety of matter drawn from the most authentic sources, and founded on that practical experience so valuable to the Medical profession. We take great pleasure in extracting from journal the following "Advertisement," embraci facts and considerations which are not with nterest to ourselves and the public :-

It is now twelve months since the work here ailuded to, made its appearance before the medi-cal profession of the Province, and we must confees that we were not prepared to anticipate, at that period, the great success it has met with-not that we doubted Mr. Howard's abilities to furnish such a work to the profession, judging from his practical experience, and his success, which is so well known over the whole of this Continent, but from that past experience which has shewn how few authors of scientific works have ever yet been so fortunate as to have their first work correctly reviewed. We have taken the trouble to examine all the reviews from which the above extracts were taken, and we congratudescribence of the finishgrown, by the solvest of the finishgrown, by the solvest of the finishgrown, by the solvest of the finishgrown by the solvest of the finishlate Mr. Howard on the flattering notices given of his work. Two reviews only have spoken against this production—one of so obscure a character, they claim the merit of being guided. The Manthey claim the merit of being guided. The Manthey claim the merit of being guided to the steel, exhibited by Mr. Durham, and of Beitigh. He had incontrovertible evidence of the existence of a wide-spread conspiracy, extending throughout Europe, of which there was a branch, at least, in this country. He had incontrovertible evidence in his possession at this time to show that there now existed a body which styled themselves 'The Committee of Central European Democracy.' In their public manifesto they state their object to be the subversion of the Gov.

EUROPEAN AFFAIRS. (FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.) London, April 25, 1851. The Easter Parliamentary recess furnishes t rtunity of casting a retrospective glance at the Legislative efforts of the Session, and cerunly they have been of the most abortive character. The Papal Aggression Bill has indee majority; but its inadequacy to meet either the gain the scattered elements of discord, which hreaten to tear the Church asunder, or to bring about an harmonious action amongst those to whom the nce of our pure national faith is specially onfided-furnishes but too well-grounded hat the present Ministers are not destined to carry out this great work to any successful consumn tion. If we quit the confines of religious contro versy, and enter the arena of polifics, we find the ontending parties almost equally matched. With decreasing majorities, the Whigs find them selves unequal either " to ignore" the claims of by the Wastern window, in front of which is the Protectionists, backed by a formidable united earty, or to venture upon any scheme of finance, legal, commercial, or social improveme which they can hope to carry through Parlie Their Budget may, by good luck, become emadied into law, but at every successive stage of the Bills necessary to carry it out, the opposition will harrass them, and never allow them to forget that the slight difference of only 13 votes preserves the entire Budget from being rejected altogether The proposed Chancery Reform Bill is doomed Lord Lyndhurst has dealt its death blow. It tterly valueless for any purpose whatever. Oaths (Jewish) Abolition Bill" is a stock piece or every recurring Session, and of course there is not the least intention of its being carried, nor the lightest chance either. We are promised several oportant measures after Easter, but in the prent state of parties, there is little likelihoo uch promises being redeemed. The Boston election happens at this juncture, and a liberal candidate of some popularity quits the field, though carried by his friends to the poll, and is defeated by a majority of 117 by one of the Jeast popular Piotectionists in existence, in the person of Mr. Freshfield, who replaces a Willy. At Edinburgh, great demonstration has been made by the Scot-sh Protectionists, who number in their runks men of great abilities, such as the Earl of Eglistown, Lord Landerdale, the Hon. F. Scott, Pro sor Alison the Historian, and Professor Aytoun well known as the author of the celebrated "Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers." All these concurring events are not encouraging to the Whig party who have not the power to move in further of the views of the Manchester School, and are afraid to retrace their steps in the smallest point in Free Trade, as such a course would be a most

the "country cousins" from all parts of England, Ireland, and Scotland, who will be attracted hither, at another million and shalf,—at least, the Reds have picked up a candidate in the pera of one Anthony, a mechanic, but the more in-telligent Socialists will probably, in the end, fix hither, at another million and a half,—at least, then, these millions of visitors will be carried to then, three millions of visitors will be carried to the "World's Fair." This, added to the couple of millions of resident inhabitants, form an ag-gregate of human beings to a numerical extent which has never been before congregated in one millions of resident inhabitants, form an agregate of human beings to a numerical extent which has never been before congregated in one apport during a limited interval of time. This movement places M. Guizot and M. Theirs once more in their old of the most recherche description. As yet, nothing antagonistic position; and at present there is not the smallest chance of any real fusion between the Duchess of the Orleans party and the "Fusionbelief that the scene which the Palace will present ists." The friends of the President are agitating on Thursday next will be rich and splendid beyond the Councile-General to petition for a revision of decorations, but in all which appertains to this department, it is thought that foreigners, and active in all parts of the country stirring up the people to open disaffection against the Govern-ment, and Socialists' riots are continually ocshade. And no wonder. They have had the aid and assistance of their respective Governments, curring. Lamartine, in his innocence, proposes the revocation of the law of May and acquiesanded. The Emperor of Austria has aided the cence in the legal constitutional issue, whateve Exhibitors of that country with no less a sum that may be. In the general struggle, which than £40,000; and the French have likewise had must ensue, it is very difficult to conceive how a large amount voted by the Legislative Assembly. the claims of the contending parties can by any means be settled without the overthrow of the Many Englishmen will expend from £100 to £200 in merely atting up their "Palace Shops," but Constitution, and perhaps the Republic.

The insurrection in Portugal is at an end. Sai anha finding himself without that support which he looked for, has fled to Spain, leaving his unfortunate followers to be dealt with by the Gov-There is very little news from Italy. A noble man in Mantua has been refused a passport to London, because he pleaded poverty to avoid contributing to a voluntary loan; the authorities urge that he cannot, therefore, have the means of visiting the Exhibition.

It seems now to be generally understood that Austria, having found it wholly impossible to bring her outlying Provinces into the Confederation, has consented to the restoration of the old Diet; and Prussia, if she also acquiesces in this arrangement, will be compelled, on her re-admis-sion, to recognise as legal all the acts of the Diet since her separation, condemning, of course, her own policy during the last three years. It would appear, therefore, that atl the tumults, and wars and political confusion throughout Germany, will end in a restoration of matters precisely as they were before these events took place.

Some of the refugees in Switzerland have been eized in their beds, and transferred by the police cross the frontiers. These refugees are all wending their way to England.

The news from the Cape is by no means tran quilising. Our own operations have been unattended with any large amount of success-our allies were wavering, and the Cape people themselves quite listless and indifferent, if not regarding the war as a good trading speculation.

REMOVAL.—It will be seen by a reference ar advertising columns, that Mr. E. E. Shelton's Family Grocery, so long and favorably known in NotreDame (West) has been removed to the corner of Notre Dame and St. John Streets, a few doors ove his fermer location. On a visit to his nev Establishment a day or two since, we were pleased with the arrangements and increased facilities which he has liberally provided for his friends and customers. The quality, excellence and freshness of his various articles, and the personal are and attention which he gives to their selection afford the best and strongest inducements to those who may favor him with their patronage.
