His Last Hope Realized

(From the Sentinel, Gibe, Mont.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders suggests this item. For sale by J. P. Lamb & Son.

ADDISON S. S. CONVENTION

The township Sunday-school convention held at Addison on July 7, is to be considered a decided success. The afternoon session opened by devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Mr. Burke, of Lyn, after which Mr. Burke gave an excellent paper on "The Christian home a school of character." He showed that the home was the most powerful influence in the formation of character and that parents failed in their duty to their children by leaving their work too much to strangers, such as ministers and Sunday-school teachers. He strongly recommended a closer unity between members of families and especially between parents and children.

Miss Jones, of Athens, followed with a paper on "The S.S. teacher as a soul-winner and character-builder," in which she clearly pointed out the duties of a teacher. A teacher must give time and patience to his work, and above all must possess a true, loving, Christian character before he can be successful in winning others to the loving Christ.

Mr. J. A. Jackson, provincial secretary, then conducted a round table conference at which questions were asked and answered by the delegates. This proved very instructive, as it brought the meeting in direct touch with the work.

The evening session opened with prayer led by Rev. R. F. Oliver, of Franklin, after which the following report of the nominating committee was adopted:

President, O. P. Arnold, Addison. Vice-Pres., J. Latimer, Glen Buell. Sec.-Treas., C. J. Gilroy, Glen Buell. All ministers in the township to be honorary presidents, and with the Sunday-school superintendents to form the executive. The township is now an organized factor in Sunday-school work.

Rev. G. N. Simmons was the first speaker of the evening. His subject was "Training for teachers." In this work, began Mr. Simmons, we are simply following the injunction of Paul to Timothy, that of teaching others. Sunday-school teaching is of paramount importance; it is one of the greatest opportunities—a very high and noble calling of God. The home does not cope with the evil of the day; parents do not seem to feel their responsibility, consequently the S.S. teacher has not only a greater task but a greater responsibility and must in some measure at least counteract the negligence in the home.

In comparing time spent in preparation for S.S. teaching with that of day school teachers, doctors, lawyers and mechanics, he pointed out that all had to serve a long period of training. What a contrast to the preparation of Sunday-school teachers! In the face of the tremendous evil, and the indifference or inability of the home to do its duty, this ought not to be. Although it is impossible for S.S. teachers to get the thorough training our day school teachers get, yet should we not improve upon our methods? If the children could be interested in the school until they were twenty-one years of age they would stay and grow up a great power in the church. Day school children are so crowded with work that Bible study is completely shut out. In England, Bible study is a part of their regular day school work. In conclusion, Mr. Simmons said:—"It is of the highest importance that the teacher's heart should be right and his life an example for others; a careful study should be made, not of the coming lesson only, but of the whole quarter, and prepare a plan for teaching. The great need of competent teachers, the sad result of incompetent teachers, is very marked in our schools of today."

Mr. Claud Marshall, of Toledo, favored the audience with a solo, "My God and Father While I Stray." He was accompanied by Miss Pratt, of Toledo.

Mr. Arnold, the president, asked for a five-dollar collection towards expenses, and when the offering was counted there was $51.25.

As Mr. McLean, of Brookville, was not present to take his part in the programme, Miss Giles, of Brookville, told of the very successful home department work. This work is doing a great deal in the way of bringing the home into closer touch with the school—this is the real object of the department. The workers of this branch visit homes, enlisting the parents and others as members. They study the lesson at home, lesson slips and helps are left with them. Many workers who are not adapted to teaching can be very helpful here. If parents show an interest in the S.S. the scholars will be helped.

Mr. Eyre, of Athens, spoke briefly on the history of the home department. Mr. J. A. Jackson emphasized the home department as a factor in binding the home and school together. Pointing out the needs of the work he said too much stress cannot be laid upon the training of teachers. The normal course was within the reach of all; any average person could easily take the course doing the work in their own homes, thus fitting themselves for better usefulness for the Master. One hour a week was all that was necessary to take the first year's course.

The cradle roll which is a new feature too many, is very effective in reaching indifferent and careless parents. In this department the name and age of children under three years of age are enrolled, the child prayed for, birthday cards sent, etc. Mr. Jackson told impressive instances of how parents had been interested and won to Christ through this little work. To correct false impression in regard to decision day, he said it was not a day to decide, but a day to give public recognition to the work of time.

Brief, but impressive, were the speaker's remarks in regard to the S.S. work in new Ontario, where a few faithful workers are struggling against great odds to keep the work of the Master to the front.

Several times New Ontario has asked the Association to send men to assist them. Hard it is indeed to reply in the negative to those faithful workers all because of "no funds." Mr. Jackson in his varied and practical experience in Sabbath School work, was of great value to the workers present. Many problems were solved and the workers went home resolved to do their utmost to carry on the great and noble work for the Master.

Mr. Eyre moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Jackson for his very valuable assistance and to the friends who so generously opened their homes and to all who assisted in making the convention so successful. In replying Mr. Jackson urged the eastern counties to rally to the provincial convention to be held in Smith's Falls on Oct. 27, 28, and 29, and show the western workers that the eastern people are not asleep and behind the times as they supposed.

A DEADLY DISCHARGE

An accidental death at Charleston Lake one night last week filled the home of "Of Whitefish Joe" full of surprise, sorrow, savory orders, and good-natured. It happened in this way. Messrs. James Denby and Israel Slack, two of Charleston's most skilled and popular oarsmen, returned home at the close of the day, the latter rather fagged out by his effort to combine case, story-telling, rowing, an occasional salmon and a swell dinner into a mixture that would suit the taste of the angler he was piloting. They were taking their ease, gazing out on the moonlit bay near the house, when Jim espied a crane. He said it was a crane, and as he is a mighty hunter with an eye like an eagle, no one thought of disputing him. Moreover, he is a dead shot; so that when he took the family gun and aimed it at the crane the expected happened. Three or four yelps and a howl of pain followed the discharge, proving conclusively that he had hit something. And he had; for on going down to the shore they saw Uncle Israel's old pander singing its death song among the reeds and rushes, and later found that "Of Whitefish Joe's" dog had suffered the loss of one of its eyes. Israel didn't say a thing, but recognized that a very comprehensive shot had been fired, so he took the precaution of calling the roll of the household, inspecting the cat and counting the chickens in the barn before settling down to assist Jim in plucking the feathers from the defunct wa-wa.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Railway Commission Bill Passed Through Committee and Will Be Reprinted Prior to Third Reading.

Ottawa, July 6.—After five hours' discussion in the House on the estimates of the Postoffice Department, those items were passed: Salaries and allowances, $1,373,866; mail service, $2,322,580; miscellaneous, $275,000. A number of questions asked were answered by Ministers.

Ottawa, July 7.—Most of the day was spent in discussing clauses of the Railway Commission bill, principally about municipal rights in connection with the operation of electric railways. In Committee of Supply Mr. William Mulock said it was not his intention to inaugurate a rural mail delivery, as the satisfactory results in the United States, reported in the newspapers, was not a correct statement of the facts.

Ottawa, July 8.—Hon. Mr. Fielding gave notice of a resolution to authorize payment of steel and iron bounties under certain conditions. Also of the payment of a bounty on binder twine. Appropriations were passed aggregating over $19,000,000, and the House again went into committee on the Railway Commission bill, adjourning at 12.40.

Ottawa, July 9.—After fully a month's consideration in Committee of the House, the last of the 510 clauses of the railway bill was disposed of to-night, and the bill now awaits the third reading. The long hours spent in discussion, at times tedious and occasionally bitter, have borne fruit, and in its amended form the country gets better protection than at first thought possible. The House made good progress on the Indian Department estimates before adjourning.

Ottawa, July 13.—There was a meeting of the Cabinet Saturday, when the Grand Trunk Pacific project was finally passed upon, and it is expected that an announcement of the Government's policy will be made in the House early this week.

"THE FRIEND OF ENGLAND."

President Loubet to Departure For France—Made His Visit—Reported to the Train by King Edward.

London, July 10.—President Loubet's visit to London was brought to a close at 8.40 o'clock yesterday, when he left the Victoria Station for Dover. The scenes and incidents of his departure testified to the high regard in which he was held by the British people.

As M. Loubet's carriage drew up to the arrival, King Edward advanced with outstretched hand, and, taking the President familiarly by the arm, led him through the waiting-room to the royal car. His Majesty stood chatting with him until the train pulled out, amid cheers, mingled with the strains of "The Marseillaise."

Upon his arrival at Dover, M. Loubet embarked on the French cruiser Guichen, and the vessel sailed at once for Calais, escorted by a British fleet, and followed by farwell salutes from the fleet and castle. Before his departure the President telegraphed to King Edward, thanking him for the hearty reception accorded him "as the representative of France, the friend of England."

Yesterday he asked his nurse for a glass of water, and in her momentary absence left his bed and got out of the window, two stories up, and fell to the ground. His skull was fractured and he died in two hours. He was a son of the late Col. Baxter, once chief of police of this city.
