THE WATER COMMISSIONERS.

It is questionable whether the Commissioners have acted wisely in deciding to force all water consumers to re-arrange their water pipes as to install or change their meters to receive the water for the lawn as well as that for the house.

The water used in bath rooms and house taps is a commercial article and the householder should pay fully for what he uses. The public is not interested beyond receiving a fair price for the water consumed. It is well, therefore, to require a meter to limit the supply and to prevent waste or to make the householder pay for his own want of care. Moreover, the consumption being within the house the meter is necessary to prevent unseen imposition.

With lawn services the public interest is entirely different. In some places water for the lawn and street is furnished free in order to encourage the householder to install lawn hydrants and beautify the town and lay the dust for the comfort and pleasure of the citizens at large. Every citizen who strolls along our beautiful streets on a Sunday afternoon derives pleasure and health from the water used upon the lawns and pavements. Heretofore the public has been encouraged to use free water because they paid a flat rate, according to the size of the lawn, no matter whether much or little water was used. This worked well, and our city has rapidly grown in taste and beauty, and we have been proud to drive our visiting friends about the town.

Now all this is to be changed, and the water has to be doled out through a meter for the lawns and streets. Instead of being encouraged to cultivate a luxuriously green turf and a dustless street, we will be drawn on by the Commissioners for a meter rate or our supply will be cut off for disobedience to the New Meter By-law.

There may have been some abuses of the flat rate system for lawns, but the whole public should not be penalized on account of the reckless waste of a few culprits. The lawn service is outside and open to inspection and the by-laws should be amended to reach the culprits instead of to punish the many, who are innocent of wrongdoing.

In addition to all this, many of our citizens were encouraged to install a system of waterworks with meters on the house service only, and such services were put into many houses with the license and approval of plumbers sent out by the Commissioners. It now seems contrary to natural justice for the Commissioners to tell such citizens that they must at their own expense change all this, re-arrange all their lawn hydrants so as to bring the water first into the house and through the meter and then back to the lawn or have their water supply cut off!

The burden of changing our gas pipes was keenly felt by many, but that was through the desire of the citizens to procure a cheaper gas. Now the same citizens are told by the Commissioners that they must at their own expense and against their will change the very system of water pipes which the Commissioners by their by-laws authorized and by their licensed plumbers installed. Is this right? Should not this new meter by-law be repealed so far as it relates to lawn service?

BIG WELCOME GIVEN TO REV. MR. NEILLY

The congregations of Verschoyle and Culloden met in St. Andrew's church, Verschoyle, on Friday evening to extend to Mr. and Mrs. Neilly and family a welcome to their community. The church was well filled and an excellent program was given, after which the following address of welcome was read:

To Mr. and Mrs. Neilly: We have assembled here this evening for the purpose of extending to you and your family a general welcome to the friendship of our family circle within which lie the elements of our hopes and affections. Not only is the welcome of our congregations herein represented, but also the good will of the village and community, who are anxious at this vital moment to make your sojourn among us as pleasant and unbiased as a natural harmony can produce. We wish to unrobe ourselves of any forms of friendliness and easiness and stand aside any useless auguries of future forms or fashion and by concentrated effort in the living present, formulate a true basis of understanding as exists when friend meets friend. In your introductory address to us you have outlined certain modes of procedure that should prove successful. You have stated certain beatitudes that must exist in the efforts of both pastor and people, and we hope in a measure at least to fulfill the predictions you have already formulated. We feel you are earnestly cognizant of the responsibilities of your position, and our future prayer shall be that the Omnipotent God who supplies our every need, will so assimilate our daily earthly affections that a harmonious working for the good of all concerned may be the eventual goal of your efforts.

Mr. Neilly thanked the people for their kindness and hoped that the union now existing will be a lasting one. The congregation then repaired to the basement, where an excellent repast awaited them.

BLOOD POISON THROUGH STOCKING DYE

CURIOUS CASE AT KINGSTON.

While attending to her household duties Mrs. A. Harrison, Place-d'Armes, Kingston, Ont., struck her ankle against a projection which inflicted a cut. She paid little attention to the wound at the time, but in a few days it became swollen and very painful. A medical man was consulted, and it was then found that the dye from her stocking had got into the wound and set up blood poisoning. Then began a trying period of pain, which, had it not been for Zam-Buk, might not even yet have been ended. Mrs. Harrison says: "The doctor ordered certain treatment, which I followed out; but the wound got no better, and refused to heal. It was most painful, and sometimes I could hardly bear to walk. I was almost in despair when a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. It soon reduced the swelling and inflammation, and the pain—so acute before—got less and less until the ankle was quite easy. Then the wound began to heal, and a little more perseverance resulted in a complete cure."

Zam-Buk draws the pain and the poison from a wound at the same time. It heals ulcers, chafing sores, sore feet, bad legs, and various ulcers. It cures insect stings, sunburn, summer rashes, and heat spots; while as a cure for chronic wounds, eczema, prairie itch, ringworm, scalp sores, and sores due to blood poison, it is absolutely without equal. All stores and druggists sell at 50c, or post-free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Mr. Will Sheppard, of Winnipeg, is the guest of Mrs. Robert Duffas. Mrs. Aldous Mayhew is quite indisposed.

Mr. Alex. Julien, a prominent farmer of Howard, dropped dead early this morning from heart disease. The deceased was a member of the Methodist church here. He is survived by a wife and five children, one of whom is Mrs. Thos. Martin.

God's Care For His Children.

To the Christian heart there is scarcely a thought more delightful than that embodied in the words "He careth for you." Amid all the happenings of this life so much seems to occur by chance and to the unobservant and undevout without any regard for the happiness of God's creatures that it requires some faith to believe there is an overruling providence which really cares for us. We are not only assured that this is the case in the words of holy writ, but every true Christian has the confirmation within himself that his heavenly Father is caring for him continually, watching over him with infinite love and tenderness, concerned in all that happens to him—indeed, permitting nothing to happen to him, but controlling everything in His directive providence. The Christian feels this, and it gives him courage to go forward with the assurance that he is not left alone in the trial and struggle, but is always and everywhere compassed about by the kindly providence of his God.

Most of us can off a sure remedy for our people's ills.

LITERARY

Little Folks for June opens with a sweet little poem, A Cycle of Candies, that any child will like to hear about the time of their birthday. Whittier and His Child Friends is an account of the great poet's love for children, especially his little cousin, Carrie Maude. A Little Misunderstanding is the story of two little girls who were left alone in their mother went to town. A Clever Colt describes a horse that was as clever as the trained horses we see in circuses.

Jimmie and I is an exciting story of a fire; in addition to these of which we have made special mention there are many other short stories and poems that will be greatly appreciated by all children. Published by S. E. Cassino Co., Salem, Mass.
