is said that all the men who were fined at the Police Court for gambling on that Sunday will ask for their money back. The amount that went into the city's coffers is something like $1,200.

The next case taken up was that of Porter vs. International Harvester Company, an action for damages for injuries received while in the employ of the defendant company. Mr. J. L. Schelter for the plaintiff, and Mr. James Ogilvic for the company.

The remaining criminal cases will be taken up on Monday.

The remaining criminal cases with be taken up on Monday.

Magistrate Jelfs says that if the Provincial Act is held to be ultra vires there is no law against open gambling, crap shooting, etc, on Sunday, as the Dominion Act only covers licensed or chartered clubs. If the clause of the Lord's Day Act, under which the young men were prosecuted, is held to be ultra vires, the young men who were fined for crap shooting can recover the money paid into court. This is the first time the gambling clause has been questioned, and the Magistrate admits the point is a very fine one, and one that the Crown Attorney was not prepared for.

A Poet's Vision.

For years the poet Francis Thompson had been one of the "submerged," selling matches, calling cabs, anything to obtain the pence necessary to buy food. At last he yielded to despair, and, having for some days saved up all he could earn, he devoted it to the purchase of a slingle, dose of landamm sufficient to end his troubles. With this he retired at night to his haunt, the rubbish plot in Covent Garden Market. Then by his own narrative the following incident occurred: He had already taken half the fatal draught when he felt a hand upon his arm and looking up saw one whom he recognized as Chatterton forbidding him link the rest, and at the same in amory came to him of how, affective, a letter had been lodgings which, if he day, would have ded.

There is hardly a boy in a public selection of the word, and his only relaxation is a half holiday on Saturday afternoon. There is hardly a boy in a public selection than Prince Edward, or who would not turn up his nose at his weekly "spending money" of a shilling. His father, the Prince of Wales, was kept equally short of eash when he was undergoing his naval training, and it was commonly said that he was more often hard up than any other midshipman on board. In this connection a very good story is told on him. It is said that in a fit of desperation he once wrote to his grandmother, Queen Victoria, to beg a tip.
